SUPREME COURT SYLLABL.

The World Publishing company against firmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ragan. "The courts no longer strain to find an innocent meaning for words prima facie de-famatory; neither will they put a forced enstruction on words which may fairly be eemed harmless." 2. Any written or printed statement which falsely and maliciously charges another with the commission of a crime is libelous per se.

3. In determining whether the words of the crime charged. the crime charged.

6. Any language, the nature and obvious meaning of which is to impute to a person he commission of a crime or to subject im to public ridicule, ignominy or discrace, pertonable one.

the option of either party thereto.

2 That the fact that Conlee was to be paid for his year's services "at the rate of $150 a month" did not make the contract of $150 a month' did not make the contract of employment one from month to month or by the month. Kiene against Schaeffering, 31 Neb., 21, distinguished.

Murphy against State of Nebraska, Error from Seward county. Affirmed. Opinion by Justice Post.

In a prosecution under the provisions of section 17b, Criminal Code, for an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury, it is sufficient to charge the offense in the language of the statute, without stating the means with which the assault was committed.

2. The term great boilly injury as there employed is not susceptible of a precise definition, but implies an injury of a graver and more serious character than an ordinary battery, and whether a particular case is within the meaning of the statute is generally a question of fact for the jury.

3. A great bodily injury, within the meaning of the statute, does not necessarily mean a nermanent injury.

ing of the statute, does not necessarily mean a permanent injury.

4. The trial court may, in its discretion, refuse to exclude the witnesses for the state from the court room during the trial, and such an order in the absence of an evident abuse of discretion is not the subject of review on append.

5. As a rule the party holding the affirmative will not be permitted to prove again in rebuttal facts shown in making out his case in chief. But it is within the discretion of the court to permit the introduction in closing of evidence not strictly rebutting.

butting.

6. No wrong, however rerious to the pesson of another, will alone warrant a conviction for an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury. But when the injury proved is the natural and necessary consequence of the deliberate and inexcusable act of the accused the presumption is that it was the result contemplated by him in the commission of the assault. Such pre-act of the accused the presumption is that it was the result contemplated by him on the commission of the assault. Such presumption is, however, one of fact merery, and while the jury may infer the intention alliced without other proof there is no obligation resting on them to do so.

7. Nor is it essential to a conviction for such offense that the accused should have intended the precise injury which followed. It is sufficient if serious bodily harm of any kind was contemplated by him at the time of the assault.

8. The prisoner, without provocations struck the prosecutor, an elderly man, a blow with his fist, instantly knocking him down, and kicked him twice or more. The latter, on attempting to rise, discovered that his right leg was broken. With the assistance of friends he retreated across the street, where, a few minutes later, he was followed by the prisoner, who again structanes of friends he refrected his brokenim, saying: "D—n your old soul, I will teach you to keep your nose out of my business." 2. In such case if the defendant's counsel neglect to cross-examine the witness hefore he answers, and the answer is responsive to the inquiry, error cannot be prearcated on the refusal of the trial court to strike out the answer of the witness.

3. In the trial of a criminal case it is competent for the state in rebuttal to show that a witness who testified for the defendant was intoxicated at the time of the happening of the events about which such witness has testified. Hill against State, if Neb., reaffirmed.

7. Willis was tried for murder in the first degree for the killing of flates. His defense was self-defense. The evidence tended to show that Bates had repeatedly made threats against Willis, and that there threats at the time of the homicide Bates was in the sabon of Willis; that a quarrel arose between them and Willis ordered Bates to leave the saloon; that Bates declined to do this, but took off his coat and walked up in front of the bar, behind which Willis was standing, and said: "I can do you," at the same time putting his hand behind him into his hip pocket, at which moment Willis shot him. The court charged the sury;

Willis shot him. The court charged the jury:
"To justify the taking of life in self-defense it must appear from the evidence that the defendant not only really and in good faith endeavored to decline any further trouble, and to escape from his assailant before the fatal shot was fired, but it must also appear that the circumstances were such as to excite the fears of a reasonable person that the deceased intended to take his life or do him great bedlig harm, and also that the defendant really acted under the influence of these fears, and not in a spirit of revenge." Held: Erroneous, because:

(1) If Willis, at the time Bates approached im, honestly believed as a reasonable numan being that Bates was about to take its life or to do him serious bodily harm he law did not require him to fly.

(2) He had a right to stand his ground and make such defense as he honestly believed.

The plaintiff is not estopped by an averment in his petition immaterial at that stage of the pleadings. Notwithstanding such immaterial averment, he may in his reply aver a different state of facts.

2. In an actin to rescind a contract for the sale of stock in a corporation because of fraudulent representations inducing the contract the representation proved was that a report of the secretary of the corporation showed him that it was earning a profit of 2 per cent per minth. The report referred to did show what was represented, but the report was false, and the defendant knew that it was false. Held: That the defendant thereby adopted the report as his own statement, and was responsible to the same extent as if he had represented the profit to be in fact as it was shown by the report.

3. A person is justified in relying on a representation made to him in all cases where the representation is a positive statement of fact, and where an investigation would be required to discover the truth.

4. The fact that the plaintiff made inquiries elsewhere which did not disclose the falsity of the representations is no defense. The plaintiff is extitled to relief if the representations were a material inducement to the contract, although he may have made efforts to discover the truth thereof, and did not rely wholly up n the veracity of the defendant.

Lactic acid, caused by the decomposition of the gelatinous and albuminous tissues, circulates with the blood and attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly in the joints, and thus causes the local manifestations of the disease. The back and shoulders are the parts usually affected by rheumatism, and the joints at the knees, ankles, hips and wrists positive and permanent cure for rheumatism. It has had remarkable success in curing the most severg cases. The secret of its success lies in the fact that it attacks at once the cause of the disease by neutralizing the lactic acid and purifying the blood, as well

FIRE A HUNDRED MILES WIDE.

Cattle Raisers association has been advised of the recent occurrence of the most extensive prairie fires that have devastated the Texas Panhadle since Indian days. Beginning at San Juan in New Mexico, this side of the Pecca river, the fire swept northwesterly and southeasterly. About 25,000 square miles of land were burned over. When the fire crossed the Texas-New Mexico border it was about 100 miles wide. The fire started about December 1, and since then has de-
