BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. By H. Von. Holst, Cloth, 2 vols. Callaghan & Co.

As stated in the author's preface, the book is not to be taken as "a history of the French revolution, but merely some lectures on it." In many respects it might have been entitled "Mirabeau in the Revolut'on," inasmuch as the revolution is treated in a light "tested by Mirabeau's career." The work everywhere is closely analytical, applying the knife of criticism with great skill in the psychic autopsy of Mirabeau, the great leader in the movement to destroy privilege—the one man in his party whose printing the the man in all party whose oratory was fired incessantly at this single point till the great structure of aristocracy toppled over. The character of this striking figure is brought out in a far more favorable light than historians have usually painted it, and this is, perhaps, the distinguishing feature of the work.

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE FREE SHIP BILL. By Richard P. Joy, U. S. N. Paper, 88

This is a treatise in favor of restoring ne American ship to the seas, and contains also many letters and press comments. The writer advocates a discriminative schedule of duties faviring the American vessel as a way to encourage and restore our forms maritime position in commerce, and he also points out the dangers threatened in the free ship bill as tending to destry the present ship building interests without giving an adequate return—the foreign vessel having the advantage in cheaper manning and supplies, besides subsidies.

DAY-DREAMS AND NIGHT-MARES. Fred Grant Young. Paper, 50 conts. The Hermitage Publishing Company, Grove-A collection of very readable short stories

some of which have already met favor in prominent journals. "A Modern Cain," the most conspicuous of the lot, is a tale of love and crime written in a very graceful and THE BURIAL OF THE GUNS. By Thomas Nelson Page. Cloth, $1.25. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. From Megeath Stationery Company, Omaha. There is a deep undercurrent of grim humor and much more pathos in the story of the battery that went through the war without the loss of a gun and in the end after the surrender at Appointance escaped the ignominy of failing into the enemy's hands by being buried in the river. Five other well old short stories are combined in the volume LITTLE IKE TEMPLIN. By Richard Mal-colm Johnston. Cloth, $1. Lothrop Publishing Company, Boston. This is but one among a series of short stories and sketches delineating plantation characters and southern life. Humor, pathos, sentiment, fun and not a little homely wisdom and practical philosophy gleam in or underlie all these stories and sketches, while the dialect is so skillfully used that even the northerner, unfamiliar with its slipped and dovetailed sounds, knows it to be the real thing, and enjoys it correspondingly. The stories are all of Georgia life and character, and not a boy or girl but will enjoy the bee hunt with Mr Wimpy, laugh heartily over the mock ghost discomfiture under the eye of o'd Uncla Pete, and feel the pathos of poor Mr. Brown's bequests. They will sigh over the fate of Buck, the pet bear, and find plenty of fun is the stress of Tobe, the horse, and concentrated chorus of Potipher, the

Dr. Lyman Abbott is distinguished as a masterly interpreter of the gospel in the terms of the present age, a clear and logical thinker, a concise and practical expounder; he is the representative of all that is strong, high, and deep in Christian thinking, of the charity that never falleth, and of the breadth and tenderness and wisdom and justice of what is known among men as tho new theology. The selections made by Mrs. lished papers of Dr. Abbott all bear evidence of the nobility and wisdom that under-lie the spoken and written words of this remarkable preacher and editor, whose force is not so much in his oratory as in his pre-

SUGGESTIONS ON GOVERNMENT. By S. Cloth, 300 pages. Rand,

The treatment of the subject relates merely to phases of civil rule, leaving entirely out of consideration the under stratum of economic influence so largely dom neering affairs. It is impossible in a short space to discuss or even mention all the branches and phases of government treated, but there are many good suggestions and much forcible criticism in the book, so that it is well worth reading by all who take the least interest in this great theme.

RUBY AT SCHOOL. By Minnie E. Paull. Cloth, $1. Estes & Lauriat, Boston. The third book in the "Ruby series," which narrates in simple style the incidents in the life of a little girl and her associates. In this story she has her first experience in a boarding school for small girls.

HIDDEN DEPTHS. F. M. F. Skene. Paper. 50 cents. Rand, McNaily & Co., Chicago. An introduction describes the book as a "tale of cruel wrong of hopeless sorrow, of dark despair and untimely death; its charac-ters are living men and women—it is no mere dream of imagination."

An album of magnificent pictorial repro-ductions from nature is entitled "Wonder-Places' and embraces scenes in the Rocky mountains and elsewhere. The original photos from which the plates have been made were selected as the gems among thousands of negatives in the collection of the world's greatest photographic artist, W. H. Jackson, and every one bears the impress of a master hand at the camera and the best skill of art applied at each stage of its execution. Strange glimpses are snatched from crag and peak, rising among the mountain fastnesses, proving the title no idle metaphor. The theme is one that always unusually large number of politicians stringing into Stoux Falls for interviews with the gracefully of to better advantage than in this story. The book is beautifully printed and bound, and the excellent illustrations and are very desirous of securing jobs in the dainty title-page are from drawings by legislature, either as speaker, doorkeeper, nessenger, committeeman or janitor. They feel that their success depends largely on the say-so of the Pettigrew managers, who so are very claborately described and fliqs-trated in a neat publication setting forth their numerous features attractive to the cently, securing an overwhelming majority health-seeker, the investor and the home-seeker. The resources of the Old North State are elaborately set forth, its cotton and the former element winning the State are elaborately set forth, its cotton fields and tobacco plantations illustrated with the manufacturing industries they engender. A handsomely embossed cover adds to its artistic merit. It is issued under the austrianty. Of the 128 members in both branches of the legisuature, 101 are republicans and twenty-five populists and democrats. Of the 101 republicans Mr. Pettigrew has ninety pledged to his candidacy. William McIntyre Watertown has come out as acandidate, claiming the suport of ex-Governor Mellette. This support does not mean as much as it did at one time in former years, although it has seldom interfered with Mr. Pettigrew's plans. The chances of success for Mr. Mc-Intyre are hardly worth considering. The yote on United States senator will be taken January 22.

Probably the hottest fight is over the peakership. The candidates are C. T. How-ard of Redfield, ex-United States attorney; C. H. Burke, a prominent member of the Pierre ings, who, on the official ballot tied his popu-list opponent, but who was given the victory on the recount. Glass of Watertown is out or the speakership, but it is understood that if he sees fit to withdraw he will do so in favor of Howard. It is generally conceded that Truman and Glass will not cut much figure in the fight, but their candidacy may secure for them important places on com-mittees. Howard and Burke will be the center of the fray. Howard claims he has the deal, having already a majority of the members pledged to vote for him. He comes from a prohibition county, and that class ount on him for support, as also do the railoff the hostile legislation which is threatened. and which is being earnestly urged by the Producers and Shippers association, which includes nearly all of the business men of the state. will in all probability be chosen as clerk of the senate. The result of the choice of clerk of the house is, however, not so easy to predict. J. W. Cone has held that position ver since the state was organized, and for ne session of the territorial legislature. He has become almost indispensable speaker, by being familiar with all questions which fall on the speaker to be decided, and being close to the speaker's chair, is easily referred to. Cone, however, has not the walknway which he was expected to have ten days ago. The advocates of resubmission remember a little occurrence which may possibly cost Cone the clerkship. Two years ago, when the vote on resubmission of the prohibitory law was taken, the result showed ton county, who is now a resubmissionist although two years ago he was one of the most ardent workers among the prohibition-ists. Hair, the Hills' candidate for the chair, is making quite an inroad on the strength of both Messrs, Howard and Burke, the two principal candidates for the place from east named only, but a change this week gives Hair almost as many votes as either of the other two. Although Hair is not pushing his candidacy himself to any great extent, his friends throughout the state are moving things for him in a very lively manner.
