Considered that There is No Case Against Frank Van Voorhis. county attorney has dismissed the case against Frank Van Voorhis of Chicago, an adjuster for several insurance companies that were losers in the Consolidated Coffee company's fire. The case was commenced at the instance of State Auditor Moore, who charged Van Voorhis with being the agent of insurance companies which had failed to comply with the state law requiring comdoing business in Nebraska to secure a certificate from the auditor and fur-nish a statement of business every six months.

'It was proposed to make a test case of the matter in hand, but Wednesday it was discovered that Van Voorh's was not an china, formerly $30.00 now $18.75. any of the companies which the auditor has a complaint. He is an insurance broker and was hired by the companies in question to adjust the losses in Omaha at the one fire. The attorney did not think he could make a case against Van Voorhis and recommended his dismissal. It also appears that some of the other insurance companies opposed the prosecution of Van Voorhis for fear that the matter of the loss on the building might become involved in litigation to the detriment of all the com-

Still Sticks to the Story.

Sam Payne will be taken to the penitentlary in a few days to enter upon the life sentence imposed upon him for the murder of Maud Rubel. County Attorney Kaley called upon Payne yesterday and together they went over the details of the tragedy again. Payne insisted that the story he told upon the witness stand was correct and that he never saw the girl until he was taken to the Me-Hugh building and shown her dead body by The identification of Maud Rubel, Mr.

Kaley says, was very complete when the body was disinterred for removal to Iowa a few days ago, and he does not anticipate that any great effort will be made to secure a new trial for Payne in the supreme court. John Was a High Roller.

Anna Hansen wants a divorce from her husband, John. In her petition, filed in the district court, Mrs. Hansen alleges that she was led to the altar as a blushing bride in January, 1893, and that since that time she has been pretty busily engaged in dodging chairs and other articles of furniture which her husband delights in throwing at her. There is also a charge of adultery and high living made against her husband.

NORTON TO THE TEACHERS.

President of the Nebraska Normal Schoo Talks to Omaha Educators.

Yesterday afte noon Prof. Norton, president of the Nebraska Normal college, spoke to the teachers of the city at the High school. The subject of his talk was "Interest."

Man, said the professor, is a social animal and he seeks society not only because he is gregarious, but because he must depend on mankind to supply his needs. Man obtains very few, if any, of the necessities of life directly. He has a greater train of servitors than a vrince of the feudal times. Mentally, he blesses others with his thoughts crystalized in language and is blessed with the thoughts of others. And in the highest sense, the spiritual, the mutual help is the greatest. Mankind is divided into two classes, the helpers and the nonhelpers, or the obstructionists. It is the duty of a teacher to develop the children placed under his care into the helping class. They do not go to school primarily to obtain knowledge, but to have the altruism that is in their natures brought out. The work of the teacher then is not to impart the knowledge, but to discover an interest that will make the pupil with his study, will give him determination and the power of attention and of digesting what he learns. Although this theory seems distonary, it has been practiced in the past and can be in the future.

The professor spoke at length on the inferest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in study that should be institled in the errest in the erres mankind to supply his needs. The professor spoke at length on the inlorest in study that should be instilled in the supil. He said that he was only a coworker with the teachers, who usually had aigh ideas of their profession, and that he had spoken to give them some new thoughts and hoped to obtain some from them.

FOR ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Benefit Performance at the Boyd Last Night an Artistic Success. An undeservedly slender house greeted the production of "Virginius" at the hands of Omaha's amateurs at Boyd's last evening The performance was for the benefit of the Associated Charities and under the auspices of Nebraska lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias, with J. Edgar Owens in the title role. The stage settings and costuming were good, and the efforts of a majority of the cast far above mediocrity. Mr. Owens was strongest in the stronger parts, and in the culminating tragedy evinced much appreciation of the trying duties with which he was taxed, and gave a sample of vigorous and realistic act ing. The Apius Claudius of Lafayette Anderson was somewhat striking, while Messrs, Kinsler, Daily, Porter, Thompson, and in fact the entire cast, acquitted them-selves in a highly creditable way. As Virginia, Miss Minnie Smith deported herself with true histrionic ability, and in voice and manner was the embodiment of this historic Roman daughter. Mrs. John H. Driscoll made a capital Servia, and Miss Goodsell lacked but little in her effective impersonation of the female slave. As a whole, the performance was devoid of much of the me chanical stiffness which usually mark such attempts, and may, without undue extrav-agance, be denominated as a most agreeable success. Too much praise cannot be accorded Mr. Owens, under whose able direction the production was given. His pupils had been well drilled and gave evidence of the mould ing of a master hand.

TALKED ABOUT THE CHARTER.

Municipal League Discusses Changes Proposed by Revision Committee Councilman Burkley and Mr. A. P. Tukey as a committee from the charter revision ommittee met with a delegation of the Mu- $2,000,000 changed hands. nicipal leaguers in the Commecrcial club rooms last night to discuss the proposed amendments to the city charter. Mr. Tukey described what had been done in the way of suggesting changes in the charter.

Mr. Kountze remarked that he thought that the bonded indebtedness should be limited to 2½ per cent on a basis of a valuation of $100,000,000. He thought that the time allotted for the commissioner's deputies to perform their work two month not be sufficient to make a careful estimate of the values, and wanted it so that the tax commissioner would put in his whole time investigating new improvements and increased values of property. He suggested that by the proposed plan an incompetent man might be apppointed to this office, and with a force of incompetent deputies would be no improvement over the present unsatisfactory manner of making assessments.

The recommendation to extend the city limits from twenty-five to thirty miles was discussed, and met with opposition because of the fact that it would increase the fire and police limits to such an extent as to impair the usefulness of these departments. Mr. Tukey explained that the idea of the charter committee was that this would be a good move to take in Florence, in case the city ever obtained control of the water works. The amendment to not grant any franchises for more than two years without a vote of the people was unanimously endorsed, as was also the one reducing the Board of Health to the mayor, chief of police and city physician, and having the inspection done by uniformed policemen, thus doing away with the expense of a lot of inspectors. Mr. Millard offered a resolution to the effect that the paying question be left as it is and that the city limits be not extended but after some discussion it was withdrawn. Mr. Tukey said that the charter committee. council and members-elect of the legislature would probably hold their final meeting next Thursday night and discuss all of the amendments, which would be printed by that time.

President Doane of the Municipal league suggested that it would be a good plan for the league to meet next Wednesday evening. when it could secure drafts of the proposed amendments and have a chance to discuss them and make known its wishes in the matter before the final meeting of the char-
