President and Mrs. Clevel and Assisted in Receiving by the Cabinet Ladies and a Party of Friends-Other Official Receptions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 .- With bright skies overhead, reasonably clean pavements underbot, and crisp, clear wintry air, official Washington was favored with all the conditions necessary to the complete enjoyment of such New Year's day as only Washington knows. According to the time-honored custom which was observed to the letter today, all the officials called at the white house, where they were received in the order of their rank. to pay their respects to the president. All began. the cabinet secretaries, generals and ad-mirals in turn received the officials of lesser rank, and many congressmen and others kept open houses for their constituents and friends. Society in general has in time past given itself over to the making and recent display as it entered the blue room headed by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ceiving of formal calls, but in Washington, as in other cities, the observance of the 1st ambassador, with his tall and erect figure clad in brilliant diplomatic dress and his broad chest fairly blazing with the diamond of January as a social day has come to be disregarded, and there were probably fewer Star of the Garter and other orders of open houses today than ever before. The people who did not take part in the oldfashioned observance today had fine opportunities, however, to observe those who did,

Very appropriately, he wore long hair, and after he had passed the police he drew from his pocket a document bearing weird symbolic designs in red and blue, but the appearance of the receiving nexts record to dorde him of the receiving party seemed to dazzle him so that he merely shuffled past without putso that he merely shuffled past when the policiman, who endeavors to do his duty in compelling the condeavors and apprehends observance some high dignitary of the government in his misguided zeal, is always in evidence. Today he endeavored to bar Secretary Lamont from the blue room, but readily yielded his point when the secretary good naturedly revealed his identity. There were no ac-cidents, however, and no unpleasant in-cidents, and the reception was a success, ala notably large gathering of army officers, no less than three department commanders though not so many people attended as came last year.

LINCOLN, Jan. 1. (Special.)-The resgnation of Judge Silas A. Holcomb as judge of the Twelfth judicial district was filed today with Governor Crounse, to take effect immediately. The resignation was dated December 31.

Governor Crounse has appointed as Judge Holcomb's successor Hector M. Sinclair of Buffalo county, residing at Kearney. This is in the nature of a surprise in many quarters, as it had been generally supposed that Attorney Sullivan of Kearney would be named. It is understood that E. O. Calkins of Kearney could have had the position, had he not peremptorily declined it two weeks since, although strongly urged to accept it by party and personal friends.
