SIXTEEN NEW FIREMEN. The board went into secret session to listen to suggestions and recommendations of Chief of the Fire Department Redell. While in secret session it was agreed that the force of the fire department should be increased by day afternoon next at 1:30 o'clock, at which an examination of the applicants for positions would be conducted.

The committee on supplies was instructed to purchase two horses and a set of double harness in preparation for the equipping of the new fire engine, which is expected to arrive in about two weeks.

The proposition of grading salaries according to the standing and length of service of the firemen was discussed. It was also partially determined to remove the fire alarm machinery at No. 3 engine house to the basement of the city hall. Fireman Edward Carr, who asked for thirty days' leave of absence, and James P. Downs, who desired ten days off, were granted the same, subject to the discretion of the chief. The finance committee was instructed to prepare an estimate of the probable cost of maintaining the fire department for 1895 and linee, January 13.

It is as follows:

Whereas, On the evening of January 7, 1895, when answering an alarm of fire, the chief of the fire department discovered two hydrants that had become so rusty or frozen that one of them could not be opened and the other required the combined efforts of three men with a wrench three feet long to open it, thereby greatly impeding the work of the firemen in getting at the fire; and

CITY WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH.

It Will Contest the Ownership of a Lot at Ninth and Harney.

The injunction suit to restrain the city from interfering with property on the corner of Ninth and Harney streets, a petition for which has been filed in the district court by Louisa Boyd, will probably be up for trial next Friday. The property in question has been talked of as a probable site of the city fail and workhouse, for which it is proposed to vote bonds. The amended city charter, if it passes the gauntlet of the legislature, provides that bonds not to exceed $100,000 may be voted for this purpose. The site is not referred to in the bill, but the general im-pression prevails that the corner will be better ulted for the building than any other site that has yet been mentioned. The petition of Louisa Boyd states that she has been in praceable possession of the said property for eleven years and asks that the be given to her. City officials deny the al-legations in toto and say that they are able prove to the satisfaction of any court that e city is the owner of the property and that no one clae has a claim to it, particularly Louisa Boyd. The plaintiff has lived upon it since 1883, but the matter has been brough to the attention of the courts before and each time the city has come out victor.

In 1884 the courts decided that the title of the city to the property was clear and that Louisa Boyd was living upon the same as a tenant. A judgment was rendered against her and she was ordered to vacate, but no writ of execution was issued. In the fol-lawing year somplaint was alled in the county court, alleging that Louisa was still in possession and would not vacate. Again a decision was given in favor of the city, to the effect that the title of the city was clear and that Louisa was only a tenant at the suffrance of the city. The case was appealed to the district court and the finding of the lower court was affirmed. All the Not Needed. time, however, since she first settled on the property Louisa has remained in possession. In each case an order was issued to remove herself and her chattels from the ground, but no case was it executed. Such is the statement of the city officials. As the land was not needed for any purpose Louisa was allowed to remain in quiet possession, but only as a tenant and only so long as the city would permit. It is said that the order of the court is still effective and that a writ of execution can be en-forced to oust the woman from the property This will be the nature of the answer to the petition which City Attorney Connell will file.

This, however, did not prevent him from carrying out the scheme which he and Miss Bertha had concocted. Miss Bertha read her mother a lecture during the evening, and then went to bed, declaring that if she could not marry the man of her choice, she would live and die an old maid. Subsequent developments, however, are conclusive that Bertha had no Intention of remaining an old maid for any great length of time. Sunday morning Miss Ayer was a little slow in arising from her couch, and did not

Shortly after breakfast a carriage was driven up to the front door of the Ayer residence, Hoover jumped out, ran up the steps at a rapid gait and rang the front door bell. there for a few moments he returned to the carriage. To watch the proceedings all the members of the family, except Miss Bertha, gathered in the front room, and while they were so engaged she took time by the forelock, picked up her little valise, which had hitherto been packed with her clothing, and beat a hasty retreat to the rear door, ran around the house and jumped into the car-riage. is a perfect food for invalids. It is also a medicine. It contains sire for food. Cod Liver Oil-the basis of Ozomulsion-supples it It is the best nutrient known. By nutrient is meant anything that promotes growth and repairs waste. Ozomulsion does this. That's why invalids like it. They like it also because it is easy to take, easy to digest, easy to as similate. This makes it a perfect food. Then it does not nauseate like ordinary Cod Liver Oils. Does not cause eructations, that is, belching of wind from the stomach. It DOES nourish, refresh, strengthen and fortify. That's another reason why it's an ideal food for sick people. But above and beyond all it is best, not be cause its basis is Cod Liver Oil, but because it contains Ozone and Gualacol. That's THE point of any size up to 100 acres at farm land prices. That's why plicated in the robbery of Tharnish's jewelry store in that place, a week ago.

The proprietor of the jewelry store left his place of business to go to supper and was not gone more than twenty-five minutes. Before leaving he turned on the day combination to his safe and put his most valuable jewelry in there for safe keeping. When he returned he found that the safe had been opened and nearly all of his stock, amounting to $1,800, stolen. The thieves took along his books and invoice papers, destroying all possible clew as to the identification of the jewelry, in case it should be found. The robbers drove to Atlantic, twenty miles away, and put up at a hotel. The officers were close on their trail, and before morning had managed to arrest one of the party, named Reeves. The others, a man and a dissolate woman, got wind of the proximity of the officers and made their escape with about $500 worth of the jewelry. Marshal Hardenbrook has secured a clew that the woman is in Omaha or Council Bluffs, but her male companion seems to have disappeared.

You want one of these in your library of living room. They have grown to be as much a necessary part of the furniture of a moders house as a piano or a leather easy chair.

There are over fifty different styles, all copies of genuine colonial originals, but for the three essentials of comfort, beauty of outline, and historic suggestiveness there is no pattern so popular as this.

It embodies the high back with the gallery back above, the "dug" or recessed seat, the broad arm rests, the tapering crossbraces, the nearly every well known feature of the 18th century construction. We take special pains with the marquetry of our colonial frames, and at the low price at which we are selling these chairs there is nothing that can compare with them at the
