

CASHIER OUTCAULT INDICTED

Charged with Making Fraudulent Entries in Capital National Bank.

OTHER BANK OFFICIALS CALLED TO ANSWER

Ex-Congressman Dorsey and Vice President Mattison of the Ponca Institution Most Stand Trial—Other Indictments by Federal Grand Jury.

The United States grand jury completed their labors at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour they filed into the court room, reported and were discharged. Several indictments were returned, but as the arrests in most cases have not been made their contents have not been divulged.

The charges against C. E. Yates, an attaché of the Capital National bank, were ignored by the jury, as there was not sufficient evidence to connect him with the fraudulent transactions of Mosher and Outcault.

Richard C. Outcault was charged in five counts of making various false entries in his reports to the comptroller of the currency, as to the financial standing of the Capital National bank of Omaha.

Another indictment against Charles W. Mosher was returned, charging him with five counts of making various false entries in his reports to the comptroller of the currency, as to the financial standing of the Capital National bank of Omaha.

The federal grand jury, just prior to adjournment, decided to issue new indictments against Frank M. Dorsey, cashier of the First National bank, Ponca, and E. Higgins, assistant cashier of the same institution.

G. W. E. DORSEY INCLUDED. Indictments were also found against G. W. E. Dorsey, president, and Fay Mattison, vice president, of the bank. The indictments charge that these officials abstracted money from the funds of the bank, accepted worthless notes as securities and otherwise conducted themselves against the peace and dignity of the United States government.

Special Bank Examiner James E. Work on an examination of the books and records of the case for several months, and as a result of his work and the evidence of the grand jury with the result stated. The jury had been at work on the case for several days, and did not adjourn until 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the final ballot was taken, and twelve of the grand jurors voted for indictment. It is said that the arrests will promptly follow.

THEY LEFT NOTHING. The looting of the Ponca bank was a very sensational affair, and was hardly over when the discovery of the condition of the bank was made, and about the only assets consisted of the furniture and the bank building.

Frank Dorsey had been engaged in the horse business, and it was said at the time that the funds of the bank were used to buy up his stable. He had lived in elegance and had had a fine automobile, and was cutting a wide swath as a financier with sporting propensities.

When the condition of the bank became known the town of Ponca was torn to shreds, and the people were in a state of excitement. It is said that it is well for him that he has kept away from the scene of his operations, for he would have been desperate enough to do most anything.

George W. E. Dorsey went to Ponca and endeavored to straighten out the affairs of the broken bank, but there was little left to straighten out, and since that time there has gone up a cry from the people of Ponca for justice. Judge Edgerton in elegance that Frank Dorsey be given his just deserts, and the slowness of the law has only served to make their feelings more emphatic. The stock of the Ponca bank was $50,000.

SANBORN SUSTAINS DUNDY.

Latter Will Hold Court at Deadwood in Spite of Edgerton's Opposition.

Judge Dundy was somewhat happy yesterday upon receipt of official advices from Judge Sanborn which authorized him to hold court at Deadwood in Judge Edgerton's district as originally instructed.

Judge Sanborn says that Judge Caldwell concurs with him in the opinion that there is nothing to justify his interference in behalf of Judge Edgerton in the present judicial controversy.

NOTES OF LOCAL INTEREST.

The federal juries have both been discharged for the session. Charles Baker, charged with incontinence, has been bound over to the district court in the sum of $100.

Arrangements are being made to make the Thurston reception at the Commercial club this evening a grand affair.

Complaint has been filed against A. Robinson, charging him with disposing of mortgaged property. It is alleged that the man sold a gold watch, which he had mortgaged to J. P. Edwards.

The Turvarens will give an elaborate ball at Germania hall on the evening of January 26. Julius Thiele's elite orchestra has been engaged for the event, and German circles generally are becoming interested in its success.

There will be a match team shoot, 100 pigeons to the man, between Frank Parmelee and M. C. Peters on one side and J. C. Reed and G. W. Lewis on the other for the price of the birds on the Bennis Park club grounds across the river Saturday afternoon.

LAUGHING AT THE ITEMS

County Commissioners Ridiculing Big Bill for Extras on West Dodge Street Paving.

DISPOSED TO LET CONTRACTORS WHISTLE

Declare It to Be a Plan to Retrieve the Mistake of Making Too Low a Bid—What the Claims are Based On.

E. D. Van Court & Co., who have represented to the county commissioners a bill of $9,005.05 for the extra work furnished by the contractor on the paving of West Dodge street, will not meet with much success in obtaining their claim if the present attitude of the commissioners counts for anything.

Several members of the board are of the opinion that the bid of the company was too low even to pay the cost of laying the road, and that now when they have discovered that they have been cheated they are attempting to get the county to pay for putting in a claim for extras. None of the items in the bill are provided for in the contract, and the unofficial opinion of the members is that they cannot be allowed with justice to the taxpayers.

There is even some doubt as to whether the work, as it has been done, will be accepted. Although it is denied by the company, it is claimed by the commissioners that the surface layer of the road is fully, on an average, an inch and a half thicker than the specifications provide for.

The road was completed last fall, but the question of acceptance or removal of the road was not decided at that time. The contract provides that the road shall be kept in repair by the contractor for a year after the completion, after which time the county may have the road repaved at all.

One item of the bill is $5,115 for 155 cars of stone chipping, 2,325 cubic yards at $1.55 per cubic yard, and for hauling and hauling the same a distance of 1.5 miles at 50 cents per cubic yard. These were used for surfacing and binding on the road, instead of the fine gravel, or coarse sand, that the specifications call for.

Gravel or sand, delivered on the road at 55 cents per cubic yard would have been sufficient for the same work. This extra cost of the chippings, leaving $3,236.25 to be paid for outside the contract.

For extra water and labor for furnishing it to complete the road, $1,040 is asked, divided as follows: One man, with a team, for hauling water 104 days at $3 per day; $312; two men, with teams, hauling water for 104 days at $3 per day each, $624; three men, with teams, hauling water for 104 days at $3 per day each, $936. The total amount is $1,940. From this is deducted $1,000 for the necessary expense of sprinkling as provided by the specifications, leaving $940 of extra expense to the contractor. On acceptance of the road, the contractor is required to pay for the water required three extra sprinkling wagons were purchased at a cost of $255. The present value of these is $155, leaving a balance of $785 to be paid for the water.

For furnishing extra water which the company thinks the commission ought to pay them. The commissioners are inclined to follow the latter view, and the contract provides that the contractor shall keep the road properly sprinkled in order to let it settle properly. It is also provided that the contractor did not figure closely enough to cover this expense it is not their fault.

For loss and damage during a delay of twenty days, from $100 to $1,000, the contractor is required to pay for the loss of time and expense of hiring six men, feeding seven horses and other incidental expenditures. Regarding this contract, the contractor should not be allowed to claim for damages for any hindrance or delay from any cause whatever in the progress of the work for any portion thereof, but such hindrance may entitle the contractor to an extension of time for the completion of the work. This settles the item in the commission's schedule. The company has not done such work before, and the board does not think that it ought to pay for any extra items that the contractor has claimed.

The remaining items are as follows: For tearing up a portion of the road already laid and relaying it, $200; for leveling and rolling the newly graded road, $100; for hauling 600 feet of gravel to be rolled, $200; for 1,551 cubic yards of crushed stone at $1.50 per cubic yard, $2,326.50, the value of the amount of stone deducted on account of clay being used, $2,556.50.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

LINCOLN, Jan. 15.—To the Editor of the Bee: The Lincoln newspapers are now all intensely interested in "education." They do not for a single day permit the members of the legislature to forget this intense and all-prevailing devotion to the cause of education. "Education" in the vocabulary of the Lincoln newspaper writer being synonymous with "university." When you see an article in a Lincoln newspaper which denigrates the beauties of education you may be sure it is a piece of journalistic trash.

These newspapers and all the citizens of Lincoln and of the entire state are, and should be, interested in the education as represented by and in the University of Nebraska. It is not the university that is the issue, but the university of the state; it is but one of the parts of the school system, and the most important part, but it is not the most important part.

The common schools now struggling in many parts of the state for an existence for the highest efficiency, but for mere existence, are more important to the mass of the people of the state than is the university. I would permit it to use all of its own funds, but I should not appropriate out of the general fund of the state in these hard times, anything for the support of the common schools. I believe that the state should devote the current year's surplus to the support of the common schools, and devote the funds of the university to the legitimate purposes of the institution. I am a friend of the university, and I will give to the support of the common schools as much as I can, and under present conditions either an appropriation out of the general fund or the addition of a mill levy to the three-eighths mill now annually levied for the expenses of the university.

AMES WILLIAMS.

AMUSEMENTS.

In the hearts of the lovers of melodrama the names of Milton and Dolly Nobles are cherished as those of the highest American exponents of that species of dramatic art.

The two have been together on the stage for years, and invariably every melodramatic production that they have appeared in has met with a success that has rarely been equaled before an Omaha audience. In Boyd's opera house, in "From Sir to Son," this is said to be the finest American melodrama that has ever been produced in Omaha. The performance last night could well be said to be in keeping with the character of the play. But for all that, those who have witnessed the performance will be disappointed if they do not see the two in a new production. The play could not help but feeling a disappointment that that play was not selected for the bill. "The Phoenix" has been so intimately connected with the name of Noble during the past year, that the plays are unconsciously thought of the two in conjunction. He feels that there is something wrong, something missing, when he sees the two in a new production. The plays they have become so well known.

The two leading actors last night were very satisfactory, and their support was fully equal to the main attraction. The play, Marmaduke Mandrake, was at times very good. J. H. Ready, as the postmaster and express agent of Yuba, was clever, and the play was a typical western story, both in figure and voice. The villain, the shape of Jonas Hardy, a gambler, was represented by Henry Pierson. The representation of the villain was a typical western story, both in figure and voice. The villain, the shape of Jonas Hardy, a gambler, was represented by Henry Pierson.

John L. Sullivan makes his two last bows to Omaha audiences today, when he appears at the Empire in his successful drama, "A Trip to the Moon." The play is a typical modern gladiator, at the ladies' matinee today at 2:30, when any reserved seat in the house may be obtained for 25 cents.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Suit for Five Thousand for a Broken Arm—A suit for $5,000 damages for a broken arm has been begun in the district court by Peter M. Boyer against the street railway company.

Peter states that last fall he had in mind to go to the heart of the city from his home near Twentieth and Viator streets. When the train made its appearance Peter was on the way to the street and had to wait until it passed. When crossing the track to get on the right side, he alleges that, contrary to the rules of the street railway company, which provide that the cars on that track shall go but one way, and contrary to the usual custom of the cars, and consequently by the neglect and carelessness of the street railway company, he was thrown from the train in charge, the train backed up against him, throwing him to the pavement and causing the injury.

Margaret Price has begun divorce proceedings against Liburn Price, on account of neglect toward herself and two children. Charles Behndorf, jr., has been appointed the guardian of Elsie Timmer.

Judge Baxter yesterday decided the case of Gibson against Kent in favor of the defendant. Gibson sued for $1,000 commission on a real estate transaction, but the evidence showed that he had not received $500 from the other party in the transaction and Judge Baxter held that he was not entitled to the commission on both parties.

Judge Scott discharged Christ Tyrrell from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus.

The eminent tragedians Frederick Wardle and Mrs. J. K. Emmet, "Our Fritz," will appear in every city in the state on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee. On Friday evening and Saturday afternoon they will present the play, "Our Fritz," with handsome scenic environments, correct historical costumes and special music.

Mr. Wardle will appear as Prince Hal; Mr. Emmet as Richard III. "Shon Yonson," next Sunday night's attraction at Boyd's theater, has been commended in every city in the state. It is a play of merit, and Mr. Gus Heege's production of the stolid, imperturbable Swede has been likened to the comedy creations of Jefferson.

It is an event of more importance than another in the world of the drama, it is another new play, the first production of a foreigner in the American theater, and a foreteller, Mr. Salvini has done enough to command the attention of the American stage.

Salvini's standing. Although a foreteller, Mr. Salvini has done enough to command the attention of the American stage. He has proven by several of his more artistic productions, which appeal only to the critical and literary mind, that it is not only the dollar he craves, but that fame and scholarly accomplishment are more properly the objects of his ambition.

Salvini's season at the Boyd will open Monday evening in "Don Caesar de Bazan," Tuesday evening in "The Student of Salamanca," and Wednesday evening, "Three Guardsmen."

SAVED HIS DAUGHTER.

Omaha Girl Saved from the Hands of a Tough Young Man.

Omaha Girl Saved from the Hands of a Tough Young Man.

The police were notified last night that Miss Jessie Brown, the pretty 16-year-old daughter of Captain James H. Brown, of 2313 Binney street, was missing from her home. Chief Detective Haze was detailed on the case and notified the police of South Omaha and Council Bluffs to be on the lookout for the girl. About 9 o'clock in the evening Officer Martin of Council Bluffs telephoned to the Omaha police that he had arrested the girl and a young fellow named Frank Snyder in the wine rooms of the Omaha saloon on the west side of the river.

The parties were taken to the police station and held until Captain Brown could visit the station. He reached there at a late hour and the meeting between himself and his daughter was very affecting. The young woman rushed into her father's arms and begged him to take her back with him. The kind hearted father brought his daughter back and took her home. Later on Snyder was released from custody and has made himself scarce since then. He is described as a cigarette-smoking dude with an excessive amount of brazenness and seems to possess a peculiar power over the young girl.

It is alleged that Snyder had taken a forged order in her father's name for $30. She got the same cashed at the Paxton and the money was presented to Mr. Brown. He pronounced it a forgery. An investigation was instituted and the city detectives learned that the order had been presented and cashed by Snyder. He gave the money to young Snyder. Rather than have any publicity in the matter was dropped, in hopes that the girl would recover from her strange infatuation for the fellow. But from late developments it seems that she was about to take a downward step, and the timely arrest of her and Snyder only prevented her ruin. She is modest young girl and until recently has been a student at the University of Nebraska, where she is 21 years old and her parents are said to reside in St. Joseph. The parents of Miss Brown recently feel the escape of their daughter and hope the sympathy of a large number of friends.

Dr. Jennison in an interesting article on indigestion and dyspepsia says: "Nine-tenths of the people who suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia are not properly treated, and prescriptions for various ailments I find on close examination that their whole trouble arises from poor indigestion, they have little appetite or if they do have an appetite, the food they eat does them no good. Why? Because it is not half digested, causing poor blood, weak nerves, sleeplessness, aching bones, pains in the chest, etc. They tell me they believe they have consumption, heart disease, rheumatism, or nervous prostration, when in reality the whole trouble is in the stomach and nowhere else. What do I do for such people? I don't fast, give purgatives, or any other medicine, but I give them a few tablets of my own preparation, and in a few days they are cured. I know that it contains the most valuable vegetable essences, fruit salts, the purest special papain, iron, bromine, potassium, and bismuth. If I had dyspepsia myself it is the one thing I should take."
