Sixteen thousand in-dividuals are a large number to be interested in a law suit, but that number pale into in-significance alongside of the number now nvolved. It is estimated that there are now n Iowa more than 200,000 individuals belonging to similar organizations, and each will henceforth watch the progress of the case with jealous eyes.

The importance of the sult dawned on some of the leading members as soon as Judge Husted raised the insurance question, and they were not slow to take action. Consultation was had between the high officials of the different organizations, and from what can be learned of the matter the 7,000 rebel Workmen of Iowa have arrayed against them all the organizations of the country.

All appreciated the danger that threatened, and it is understood a confederaion was formed to fight the case to the bitter end.

On Saturday night, February 16, 110 members of the Independent Order of Odd Fel-

The work was done by teams from Omaha lodge No. 2, consisting of sixtyfour members. In addition to these, however, forty-one members from lodges Nos. 10, 20, 144, 148, 155 and 183 joined the party. The party left this city on a special train at 5:10 in the afternoon, and along the route picked up Odd Fellows from other towns. On arriving at their destination they were met by committees from Frontier lodge, who

On the Alpha a tunnel 500 feet in length has been driven, cutting the formation, and has opened up three distinct ledges, the first twenty feet in width, the second about thirty, while the third has been penetrated for sixty feet, and the tace of the tunnel is still in ore. The first of these or the tunnel is a decomposed quartz, highly oxidized, while the other two are a gravish, white rock, carrying a large percentage of iron pyrites. A test of this rock was made last summer. Twenty-five pounds of the ore was pulverized and concentrated to to t, the result showing an assay value of $00 per ton.
This is but a sample of the work now under way in the Rochford district. The Stand-by, Caledonia group, Minnesta, on which a mill is being creeted, and other good property are receiving the attention they deserve. Besides the last mentioned, several large groups of asbestos claims are being opened up and developed, and it is the intention to make an effort to bring this district into prominence as a producer of that peculiar mineral, there being extensive deposits of it there, and of the highest grade. As the Rochford district is out by the line of the R. & M., the problem of transportation is one easy of solution, and will not, as heretofore, stand in the way of development work.
