This ended the chances of the bill. Another phase of the same question came up when Mr. Morgan asked the adoption of a pending agreement directing the foreign relations committee to inquire into the claims of Canadian scalers for the seizure of vessels. This time it was Mr. Gray's turn to object.

Mr. Morgan thereupon made a pointer statement of the injustice and extravagance of the British demands, his service at the Paris court of awards giving the statement special significance. He said the president and secretary of state had urged the payment of $425,000, although the claim was un

Mr. Gray pressed the objection. He said Mr. Morgan evidently feared that the pend-ing legislation on the subject was a reflection the Paris tribunal, of which he was a distinguished member.
Resolutions were adopted for a recess in

It was now 11:30 a. m., with only half an hour of life remaining for business. There was great confusion on the floor as senators sought recognition. Mr. Call was again to the front with his lottery investigation, de-claring vehemently that Mr. Gorman was seeking to suppress an inquiry desired by the religious element of the community. He demanded a yea and nay vote on taking up the resolution. To the surprise of every one, including Mr. Call, the resolution was taken up, 35 to 18. For a moment it was believed resolution was adopted and the presiding officer so announced.

The final vote was interrupted by other pressing business. Mr. Cail did not press the measure further.

At 11:40, with only twenty minutes remaining, a joint resolution was passed as to compensation to employes. A messenger dashed away with it in a race to get to the white house and secure the president's signature within ture within twenty minutes.

The thanks of the sencte were expressed in a resolution offered by Mr. Manderson for the courtesy and impartiality with which Mr. Harris had served as president pro tem of

At this moment Mr. Voorhees and Mr. Sherman, the committee to wait on the president, appeared at the door and announced that the president had no further communication to make. ULUAL COMPLIMENTS TO THE SPEAKER

Reed and Dalzel Refused to Vote for Them but They Are Declared Adopted Unantmously - Crisp Returns Il.s Thanks to the House.

WASHINGTON March 4 -At noon today, after a continuous session of forty-eight hours, interrupted by an occasional recess, the flags above the capitol were lowered and the Fifty-third congress had passed into history. In the house the end was not marked or marred by any unpleasant incident. All the appropriation bills were out of the way when the house convened at 8 o'clock this morning. The session dragged slowly away until 11 o'clock, the only feature being a rather brisk, but brief, debate on the results to follow from the projected monetary conference. The usual committee was sent to the president to inform him that congress was ready to adjourn, and the other formalities of the end of a congress were gone through with. The concluding minutes were in the nature of a love feast. The best of feeling prevailed. The resolution of thanks to the speaker, which usually came from a member of the majority, was offered today by Mr. Cannon in a very graceful speech, bearing testimony to the high appreciation in for the courtesies and kindness extended by he speaker. All the kindly sentiments were applauded, and when Mr. Crisp himself ascended the rostrum to return thanks and de-liver his parting words the demonstration was terrific. At the conclusion of his speech, just before declaring the house adjourned without day, he appointed Mr. Culberson of I Hitt of Illinois and himself as members of the monetary commission. His own appointment was by resolution. As the Fifty-third congress came to an end the n the press gallery. WAR CLAIMS PAID OFF. Mr. Baker, republican of New Hampshire had the honor of passing the first bill of the final session. It was a bill to pay a war claim to Margaret Kennedy, amounting to $4,000. The husband of the beneficiary had his thanks for the flattering resolution.

At 11.48 the last enrolled bill was reported for years. Every morning he was to be found at one of the doors with his pockets full of apples, dealing them out to members and appealing for votes for his bill.

Mr. Dockery was in the watch tower looking after Uncle Sam's strong box, but he allowed several bills to go through by unanimous consent. One by one the members arrived and the galleries began to fill. At 9 o'clock Chairman Sayers of the ap-propriations committee entered the hall. Although he has been almost constantly at work for forty-eight hours, he was buoyant and of light step, overjoyed that the last appropriation bill had passed.

Mr. Grosvenor, republican of Ohio, caused the first flurry by a sharp speech, contending that the republicans were the true friends of bimetallism. The repeal of the Sherman ac two years ago, he said, had accomplished more than any other influence to bring about the hopeful condition for silver we now observe the whole world over. He predicted great results from the proposed monetary

Mr. Grosvenor's speech precipitated quite a stir among the silver men. They all rushed forward and appealed for recognition. Mr. Bryan, democrat of Nebraska, managed to get the floor and indignantly resented the reflection made by Mr. Pence yesterday upon the ellver men who favored this conference. He was for free silver, but he believed it the height of folly for the United States to join hands with other countries of the world, even to be brought into the United States or descheme for the remonetization of silver.

Mr. Dingley, republican of Maine, agree with Mr. Grosvenor, contending with European bimetallists that the single attempt of any country-United States, France or Germany-to open its mints to the free coinage of silver would swamp it and place it immediately on a silver basis.

Walker, republican of Massachusetts, Wanger, republican of Pennsylvania, and Simpson, populist of Kansas, crowded in a few words before the debate was cut off, and at 10 o'clock Mr. Dockery moved a recess until 11 o'clock.

Mr. Simpson made the point of no quorum Meantime the visitors had poured into th galleries until they were packed. On the floor all was confusion. Members chatted and laughed and bid each other goodby. Finally Mr. Simpson surrendered and recess was taken until 11 o'clock. At 11 o'clock, when the house reconvened

Another recess for fifteen minutes was At 11:30 Mr. Hatch asked unanimous con sent that for the remainder of the session the wives and families of members who were unable to gain admission to the galleries be allowed on the floor of the house.

The speaker replied that under the rules he could not submit the request. Mr. Hatch then created much amusement by submitting the question himself and hearing no objection he ordered the doors opened. The ladies crowded through the doors and lown the aisles, taking every scat unoccu

Mr. Cannon, republican of Illinois, then obtained the recognition and in a graceful speech moved a resolution of thanks to the peaker. Such a resolution usually comes from one of the leaders of the majority.
The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved. That the thanks of the members of the house be extended to the speaker of the house for the able, impartial and dignified manner in which he has presided over the deliberations of this house and per-formed the arduous duties of the chair."

A burst of applause greeted the presentation of Mr. Cannon's resolution, and as soo as order was restored Mr. Hatch of Missouri who was in the chair, recognized Mr. Wil-ommittee. "Responding on the spur of the moment, said he. called for a rising vote on the resolution.

Every member on the floor, save Mr. Reed of Maine and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, arose and Mr. Hatch declared the resolution unanimously adopted. A moment later when Speaker Crisp ascended the rostrum the ap-plause and cheering was renewed. The plause and cheering was renewed. The speaker bowed his acknowledgements, and, after hearing Mr. Cannon's resolution read, he delivered his valedictory. "Representatives," said he, "I know you will pardon me if before performing my last official act I will give some expression to what I feel, not only in regard to the resolution which you have just adopted, but in respec to the uniform kindness, courtesy and consideration with which I have been treated by every member of this body, CRISP'S FAREWELL. "The difficulties of the presiding officer arise largely from this, that whereas there ire perhaps 14,000 or 15,000 bills introduced in a congress, in the nature of things but a small part of them can have consideration. If all the measures introduced could be conduties of the presiding officer and of members would be rendered much less difficult, but where only a small portion of the measures introduced can be considered there is neces early a struggle to determine what those par ticular measures shall be, and from year to year this difficulty increases. The present ecupant of the chair-and he feels that it making this expression he but echoes the experience of nearly every one of his prede-cessors—had no conception of the difficulties incident to the office of speaker.

'Again I thank you, and I say that I but feebly express my feelings. Never in life, no matter what may be its future, I expect to attain so high an office as that which I owe to your kindness, to your con-sideration, to your partiality. In laying which the presiding officer was held by the republican minority. Mr. Wilson of West Virginia responded in behalf of the majority resolution that I have discharged the duties and Mr. Simpson of Kansas, representing the populists, joined in the expression of thanks satisfaction of those gentlemen to whom 1 owe the office and to those gentlemen on the other side who have always extended to me the utmost courtesy and kindness."

A resolution was then adopted toward a further demonstration of good will thanking Mr. Pearson of Ohio, chairman of the committee on enrolled bills, for the successful manner in which he had performed his arduous duties, after which the speaker announced the appointment of Messrs. Culberson, demo-erat of Texas, Hitt, republican of Illinois and himself (under the resolution adopted last night) as members of the military comloxology was sung by the correspondents Then the end came. The hands of the clock pointed to 12.
"I now declare the third session of the Fifty-third congress," said the speaker, "adjourned without day."

The sliver mace was lifted from its malachito pedestal, the flag above the house was lowered and amid cheers and cat calls from the galleries a rush was made for the doors. But from the press gallery came the sound of music. The newspaper correspondents were singing the doxology, "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow." The spectators paused to listen and applaud, and then as the chorus ceased pushed out, and in a few minutes the hall was deserted. MAKING IT BINDING ON LOTTERIES

Last Measure Signed by the President it is Thought Witt Strangle the Business. WASHINGTON, March 4.-The last measire signed by the president today, and one in which a great deal of interest has been taken, is the "anti-lottery bill." The measure is a brief one of but four sections, the most important of which is the first. This specifies that "any person who shall cause to be brought within the United States from abroad for the purpose of disposing of the same, or deposited in or carried by the mails of the United States or carried from one state to another in the United States, any paper, certificate or instrument purporting to be or represent a ticket, chance, share or interest in or dependent upon the event of a lottery, so-called gift, or similar enterprise, offering prizes dependent upon lottery chance, or shall cause any advertisement of such lottery posited in or carried by the mails of the United States, or transferred from one state to another in the same, shall be punishable in the first offense by imprisonment for no more than two years or by a fine of no more than $1,000, or both, and in the second and after offenses by such imprisonment only."

The other sections of the bill apply the act, all provisions of existing laws for the supression of the lottery traffic or the traffic in or circulation of obscene books and extend the powers conferred in section 2, chapter 98, of the statute of 1890, to all letters or matters sent by mail.

Amendment Which Gave Outgoing Con gressmen the Appointment of Cadets. WASHINGTON, March 4 .- By the shrewe nove of including a little amendment in the sundry civil appropriation bill at a late moment, eighteen members who will come to the next congress will find they have no appointments of cadets to the naval acad emy at their disposal. As soon as it was known that the appropriation bill had been signed, including, as it did, the provision that members of the Fifty-third congress whose districts were not represented at the academy might fill the vacancies, there was a rush of papers to the Navy department. Time was an object for it was necessary for the out going members to make their nomination before the hour of noon when they cease to hold office. Secretary Herbert received the nominations presented before 12 o'clock numbering eighteen, and the appointments will be made out as soon as they can be prepared for signature. Among the nomina ions of cadets to the naval academy made today were: By Mr. Coffeen—W. G. Haas, Cheyenne, Wyo.; by Mr. Champ Clark, D. D. White, Danville, Mo., alternate P. F. FEDERAL SUPREME COURT CONVENES Long List of Opinions Handed Down, Many of Them Important. WASHINGTON, March 4.-The supreme court met today after a recess of four weeks with all the justices except Mr. Jackson in attendance. A long list of opinions was disposed of rapidly. Many of them decided cases of great importance. The interesting question whether the conviction of a person by means of a decoy letter is legal was passed upon in the case of one Grimme, convicted in Missouri for dealing in obscene pictures. He inswered a letter from a post-office inspector, which resulted in his convic-tion, and he appealed against the means by which it was secured. The court held that decoy letters were both morally and legally justifiable. The decision of the circuit court for the district of Massachusetts in the case of the National Register company against the Boston Casti Indicator and Record company was reversed, the opinion, by Justice Brown, holding the defendant's machine is an infringement on the National cash regis-

r. 10 q An interesting constitutional question was decided in the case of E. S. Emert against the state of Milsouri. The former is an agent or peddler of Singer sewing machines. It was sought to make him , uy a peddler's license, which he refused, in order to test the law, contending that as the machines came from New Jersey the license was a restriction on the constitutional right of interstate commerce. The court held that while the goods came from another state, they were being handled as a part of the local and do-mestic commerce. They were no longer the G. eral constitution. Arkansas law of 1887, limiting passenger fares to 3 cents a mile and fixing a penalty of $300 for each overcharge, was sustained.

In the case of the United States against George H. Pratt and Monroe Salisbury of Cal-ifornia, to recover excessive payments made to them for carrying the mails, the action of the court below in dismissing the case was reversed. The conviction of Harry F. Batchelor, for-merly president of the Stockgrowers' Na-tional bank of Miles City, Mont., for embezof Montana, was reversed on the ground that the indictment was defective.

The case of Bannon & Mullkey against the state of Oregon, the plaintiffs having been convicted, with twenty-five others, of conspiring to bring Chinese laborers into the state, contrary to the law, was decided. The chief allegation of the plaintiffs in error was that the indictment failed to aver that the act was feloniously done, but the court held this was not good and sustained the lower court in its conviction.

The case of Francis A. Coffin and Percival

B. Coffin, plaintiffs in error, against the United States, appealed from the district court for the district of Indiana, was reversed and a new trial ordered. The plain-tiffs were indicted on the charge of conspiracy to wreck the Indianapolis National bank in 1893, and upon trial were found guilty as charged, and appealed to the su-preme court. The opinion was delivered by innocence. Costello Got the Decision. MONTREAL, March 4.-Five thousand persons witnessed the ten-round glove conbetween Martin Costello of Montreal and Billy Woods of Denver at Sohmer park tonight, which resulted in a draw. The first three rounds resulted in considerable clinching and a few taps. Then the fourth and fifth rounds came, and Costello commenced to do some good work. In the sixth and seventh rounds honors were about even. Clinching, which was a marked feature in every round, was indulged in more frequently as the fight proceeded. In the eighth round the work became lively and Costello did considerable dodging to avoid punishment. In the ninth and teath rounds Woods assumed the aggressive and made the mill fairly interesting. Stevenson, referee, declared the contest a draw in favor of Costello. onight, which resulted in a draw.
