Longfellow of the New Orleans Packet Line Was Just Starting from Cincinnati

When She Met Disaster-Four Lives Lost.

CINCINNATI, O., March 8 .- This morning, while the magnificent steamer Longfellow, belonging to the Cincinnati, Memphis & New Orleans Packet Line company, was on her way to New Orleans she was drifted from her course and crashed against a plea of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway bridge and sank. There were twenty-six cabin passengers on board, but they were mostly rescued by the company's harbor boat Hercules Carrel, which rendered valuable assistance to the Long-lives. They are:

W. J. AULL, Dayton, O. Body not re-AUGUSTUS CHANVOTE, New Orleans,

This is the death list so far as known from today's river disaster, in which the magnificent New Orleans steamer Longfellow was crushed on a bridge pier and sunk in less than five minutes. Unfortunately the complete list may never be known. All the rec-ords of the steamer were lost with it, and no passenger list is ever ashore. For hours there were rumors of the loss of an invalid young woman from New York, accompanied by a female physician, but the constant assertion of the officers of the steamer that all the passengers were rescued except Mr. Aldridge, and the statement of passengers that there was no panic or will rushing for safety led to the hope that the rumor was groundless.

Late in the afternoon, in a portion of the wreckage, which had been landed some distance below the city the body of a young woman was found. She was wearing a satin night dress and a black skirt was about her feet, as if she had been in the act of dressing. A small satchel was in her hand, but it contained nothing to identify her. She has since been identified as Mrs. Auli of Day-PIERS AND CURRENT RESPONSIBLE.

The accident was one of peculiar horror. It was daylight, the fog had disappeared, the great steamer, fearful of the peril of passing the bridge piers, had been given the assist-ance of the powerful towboat Hercules Carroll. When almost upon the pier the pilot found himself confronted with an alarming condition. The powerful cross currents, which no human foresight could have located, caught the steamer like a toy and turned the bow away from the course he had given it. At the same time the smoke from the lowered chimneys, which had been let down to allow the boat to pass under the bridges, was wholly obscuring his vision.

The Hercules Carroll's pilot being located almost behind the great steamer, was also unable to see the boat's position, and more likely it was not strong enough to turn its course against the treacherous current. And so the fated Longfellow was carried like struction that in five minutes not a vestige of the great steamer was visible except bits of wreckage floating on the river. penter had time to go into the hold with a lantern, whence he hurriedly returned with the report that nothing could save the Long-fellow from immediate sinking.

David Aldridge, the first named victim, who came from Rome, N. Y., was lame. He was an elderly man and was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Armstrong of Jamestown, N. Y. He walked with a cane and could not make his way in time over the freight tha impeded the way toward the stern, the Carrel lay. His wife and Mrs. strong were saved. The aged elerk of the boat, Captain J. L. Carter, who only last night was speaking of his long service and of his feeling of safety, committed the in-discretion after once getting aboard the Carrel of going back for something from his office. Before he could return the vessel went under. James Miller, the colored porter, was fatally crushed by the collision. Gus Shevant, the barkeeper, perished in an un-selfish effort to save the aged clerk. They was doing his utmost to hurry him back to A number of others were reported missing

CAPTAIN WISE'S OPINION. Captain R. W. Wise, the president of the company, said: "I cannot tell how it happened. I do not care for the money loss but it is the loss of life that hurts. I felt safe when I ordered the Carrel to help th Longfellow out, but it appears these cros-currents caused by the piers are almost im possible to overcome. The Carrel has many times taken this and other steamers pasthe bridges when they had no steam up. The Longfellow was using steam." Portions of the wrecked vessel have been found and landed several miles below, and It is possible that some small portion of the freight may be saved.

The company has already arranged to take such of the passengers who desire to make the trip on the Buckeye State, which will be due tomorrow, and go through to New Orleans. The loss of baggage, however, will seriously interfere with the movements of passengers. Divers will at once search the wreck to save whatever baggage may be

Condition of the Gold Reserve Satisfactory to the Officials.

Ample Means in the Treasury to Pay Appropriations-Revenues Are Increasing and Are Expected to Continue to Do So.

WASHINGTON, March 8 .- Assistant Secretary Curtis today made the following statement: "In view of certain statements in the newspapers that treasury officials are embarrassed by an alleged failure in gold deliveries under the recent contract and other assertions of a similar nature, calculated to mislead and disturb the public mind, I wish to say that here from Havana says that General Garrich the actual withdrawals of gold from the treasury since the 1st of March, 1895, have been $355,347, of which $281,087 have been for the redemption of United States treasury notes and $74,260 for the redemption of United States notes, and divided among the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, San Francisco, St. Louis and Chicago. Two of the rebel chiefs were wounded. Forty-three of the insurgents ing the same period the treasury has received considerable gold coin in exchange for various kinds of paper currency. The apparent falling off in the gold reserve was caused by a misunderstanding in the gold reserve statement of the treasury, made up from the statement sent from New York, which should not have been included in the gold reserve until the final certificates of deposit upon which with a bullet hole in his head, he having committed suicide on Friday. "The treasury officials who are charged with the responsibility of these transactions have no anxiety whatever in regard to the method which is and has been pursued by the sell-ers of the gold coin under the recent contract. They are satisfied to contemplate the fact that for five weeks the withdrawls of gold coin have not exceeded the normal amount, with the exception of the instance quoted above, and that no exports of gold had been made during that time. The fact is fully $9,000,000 in gold has already been de-posited on the foreign account in excess of the contract requirements.

"In regard to the excess of government expenditures over receipts, it is well known the latter are rapidly increasing, and that up to this time nothing has been received from the scome tax, and very little from sugar duty, ooth of which will be sources of government receipts in the future.

"There is plenty of money in the treasury to pay the appropriations, and the statement in some articles that if the treasury had the money the passage of the enormous appropri-ations would lead to the immediate disbursement of immense sums of money is totally untrue. There is a question of law as to when the appropriation for the payment of the sugar bounty becomes available, and until that question is settled it will be impossible to make any payment thereunder. Moreover, the claims for bounty must be adjusted before payment, since payment must be made pro rata if the appropriation is insufficient. "The total available cash in the treasury burg district. The men are holding out for the 69-cent rate and reject all compromises. About 1.000 men have been granted their demands and are at work, but this is the case only at a few mines, which are running to supply the local demand.

It is now estimated that out of over 20,000 miners in the district, about 4,000 have refused to join in the strike and are at work at 55 cents per ton or less. A dispatch from Clarksburg, W. Va., states that the Pittsburg district officials are at work there trying to get the miners to quit work in sympathy with the strikers, thus shutting off all source of supply. Thus far they have not met with success and it is probable that the miners of the district will have to fight their battle alone.

Reports from Pomeroy, Kanawaha and other districts indicate that none of the Ohlo coal miners will join the Pennsylvania strikers and that the Pittsburg district will be alone in its fight. for laying a cable from the United States to Hawaii and thence to Japan, with branch cables to the French Islands and extensive mavai stations in the southern Pacific. Negotiations with these governments have processive quietly, but with such satisfactory results that they are well along toward completion. A number of conferences have been held with the officials of the Japanese legation here, and several phases of the negotiations are now under discussion between Tokio and Washington. Minister Kurino is much interested in the project. It is probable five or six of the most influential and wealthy Japanese merchants will be named among the incorporators.

France has also been interested, and in the course of the negotiations she made a suggestion to Hawaii that the French interests will be better subserved by having the cable go via the United States instead of the Vancouver route, which would be controlled by Great Britain. The chief interest of France is in securing cable connections with Tahiti and her other Pacific possessions and with her naval rendezvous, which is now cut off from communication. Russla's interests in the project are regarded as even more important than those of Japan or France. Russia's cable communication with the western hemisphere is now westward through London or Paris, and this filtering of all their news and official messages through Lordon in particular has long been a source of irritation. The Russian imperial family already has a cable from Vadivostock, the easterly point of Siberia, to Japan, so that the new line would give Russia through cable communication eastward instead of through London or Paris. The milliary and strategic importance of this is very great, for should Russian imperial family already has a cable from Vadivostock, the easterly point of Siberia, to Japan, so that the new line would give Russia through cable communication eastward to the United States congress falled to act, and it also declined to vacate the treaty in order to let Great Britain build the cable Makes an Affidavit that He Lied When He

It is believed most of these men perished in the wreck. Pietro, when last seen, was clinging to the bowsprit, and may have been saved. An inquiry will be made into the affair by the American consul at Callao. The story is borne out by a telegram received by Hager & Co., the agents of the vessel in this city stating that the wreck had been preceded by a mutiny, in which the captain and all hands but two were killed. report the result of the pententiary, therefore, be it

But little more can be accomplished in this time than a surface investigation. Two years ago the senate appointed a comnittee to investigate charges of extreme ruelty upon the part of attaches of the pen-committee said, among other things, that:

CONDEMNED TWO YEARS AGO.

The punishment in vogue in the Nebraska penitentiary for many years has been inhuman, barbarous and cruel in many cases. We find especially that the system of punishing convicts by handcuffing their hands behind them, passing a rope around their necks, which rope is connected with the handcuffs, and drawn tight in order to lift and support their hands, is one that should not be tolerated in this enlightened age, or in a civilized community, and that such punishment is one which is likely at any time to be the indirect cause of the death of the convict undergoing it.

Your committee believes from the evidence that the death of Convict Powell was the direct and proximate result of the cruel and inhman punishment inflicted upon him.

Your committee finds from the evidence that instances of inexcusable cruelty upon the part of guards, cell-house keepers and other employes have been far too frequent.

Your committee finds that the system of contract labor is demoralizing to the discipline of the institution and should be done away with at the earliest possible moment. The prisoners soon realize that they are not working for the state of Mebraska and that every moment of their labor yields a reward to a contractor with whom they have no sympathy, and they soon begin to be slack in their work, which results in a report to the warden and the consequent punishment inflicted for that reason only simply causes the convict to become soured, gloomy and dispirited; and as long as the contract system is permitted to prevail the discipline of the prison will be far below the standard which should exist.

These extracts are quoted to show that nothing has been done to put a stop to the capitalists. Besides these there will be several wealthy Japanese capitalists heretofore mentioned.

Negotiations are also in progress, which cannot now be made public, by which a financial house known the world over will be among the projectors. The principal work of organization is being consummated here in Washington. The only question at present is whether the incorporation shall be under the state laws of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia or California. Their advantages are being compared and the corporation will be under the state laws most favorable. An effort was made a few days before congress expired to secure a national incorporation bill, but it was denied, as it threatened at that time to be harmful to the government's cable project, then in conference. It was not known at that time that France, Hussia, Japan and Hawaii were interested. But the failure to secure a national charter has in no way checked the enterprise. The organization will be under one of the state laws, as heretofore stated, and the arrangements are so far along that the artigles of incorporation will be filed during the present month. The consummation of the plans, which are now made known, cannot fail to arouse keen interest in Great British project of a cable starting from Vancouver appears to be ended

These extracts are quoted to show that nothing has been done to put a stop to the cruel practices of the state penitentiary and to show the drift of the present investigation. It may be assumed with tolerable accuracy that the senate investigating committee will make the same complaint in regard to the contract system now in vogue in this state. This much has practically been agreed upor out Europe. The British project of a cable starting from Vancouver appears to be ended with the failure of the senate to so modify our treaty with Hawaii as to let the British cable land on Neckar island. The only recourse for Great British would be to induce Hawaii to break this treaty obligation with the United States, but it is known positively this will not be done: Instead, therefore, of a British cable across the Pacific, as has now long seemed imminent, France, Russia, Japan and Hawaii are now uniting with American enterprise to execute this work of vast commercial and military importance. The dollars purport to be of the issue of 1893 and are of such good quality that it is almost impossible to detect them from the genuine. After being arrested Tribble made a full confession, and also told who were the confederates, who will be arrested tonight. of St. John's cathedral, is at the head of the company. The petition is filed by H. C. Wilson, who charges that the company is insolvent and that the officers have diverted to their own use at least $40,000 collected on notes and coupons. The petition recites that the business of the corporation has been for a long time recklessly, extravagantly and fraudulently managed. Money has been invested and money, it is alleged, collected on notes previously sold by the corporation, amounting to $25,000, in the La Junta and Lamar Ditch company, which is now insolvent, and this is practically lost. The principal and interest from other loans previously sold by the corporation, it is said, have been used in the payment of favored investors, who are now buying the loans of the corporation. The stockholders have organized other companies, bought real estate with the money of the corporation and made loans on the land greatly in excess of its value. If the entire assets of the corporation were sold they would not pay over loper cent of said loans, the petition says. The entire capital stock of the corporation has been attached, except three shares belonging to Aldrich. Mr. Aldrich denies the important allegations in the complaint. Mr. Wilson, the plaintiff, was the eastern representative of the company and Mr. Aldrich says this action is the result of complications when sued during a settlement. SEVERAL MATTERS HANGING FIRE

Omaha's Charter Need Expedition. LINCOLN, March 8 .- (Special Telegram.)-The senate committee on public lands and buildings went to Geneva tonight to visit the Industrial School for Girls. This is the last visit the committee will have to make. The covering the condition of every state institution, and its chairman, Senator Tefft, states that there will be some valuable facts and figures presented to the senate.

Chairman Crow of the house committee on inance, ways and means stated this evening that he hoped to call up the appropriation bills early next week. He believed that they would pass the house with but little amendment. Several senators state today that they begin to think that the appropriation bills are being purposely held back in the house In order to prevent the senate from making radical amendments. The senators announce it is their purpose, however, to take their own time to the consideration of the appropriation bills. The claims committee in the house has still a large amount of work before it. The bills for legislative supplies, printing and labor and material furnished in preparing the cap itol for the legislative session are yet to b reported to the house. The extreme delibera-tion with which the bouse is proceeding with reference to the appropriation bills is ex-citing much comment in the senate, and there are not a few who are asserting that the house is making a serious mistake Major Wheeler and City Attorney Connell of Omaha were at the state house today in an effort to expedite the senate committee's report on the Omaha charter. The committee has as yet taken no action, but Senator Hahn, chairman of the committee on municipal af-fairs, said that the committee will endeavor to report the charter to the senate by the middle of next week. It will require consid-crable work to save the amendments so carefully prepared by the revision committee, and the hope has been expressed by several inter-ested citizens of Omaha that the charter will remain untouched when the legislature flually adjourns. The house committee will hardly report until after the charter has been re ported in the semate.

LINCOLN, March 8 -(Special Telegram.) -Today a petition was presented to Governor Holcomb, signed by every member of the house, except four absentees, recommending Captain Patrick Barry of Greeley county, for appointment as adjutant general to succeed General Gage. Speaker Richards headed the petition and also acted as spokesman of the committee of five which waited on the gov-ernor. The committee comprised Speaker Richards, Conaway of York, Thomas of Hamilton, Van Housen of Colfax and Scott of Buffalo. Captain Barry has not been an applicant for the place and the petition was a great surprise to him.

There Was No Middle Course Open-Erwin's Final Passionate Plea-Prisoner Made a Bet on His Life in the Morning.

MINNEAPOLIS, March S .- "In two hours will be a free man."

Thus said Harry Hayward today, and in less than three hours a jury of his peers. gave the lie to his words and placed its seal upon the word "Guilty." With the same immovable stolidity with which he has watched the trial of his case the prisoner received the verdict of the jury. There was not the shadow of a change in color, not the relaxation of a single muscle; no visible collapse or sign of any emotion; ever the same evnical and sneering indifference.

According to the statutes of Minnesota only one fate can await Harry Hayward-a. sentence to be hanged by the neck until he is dead. Neither the jury nor the judge could alter the sentence, no matter how strongly inclined they might be toward leniency. For murder in the first degree thelaw provides only one penalty. Judge and jury alike are but the agents of the state forthe execution of that law.

At the request of counsel for the defense the pronouncing of the sentence was deferred until next Monday morning, but theverdict of the jury has made the sentence of Harry Hayward as certain as though the judge had already announced it.

"Here comes Hayward," shouted the pushing, pulling, yelling mob that surrounded the court room door. No one knew yet what the verdict was, and the attitude of the crowd was that of curiosity rather than of threats. The judge's order that no one should be allowed to enter or leave the court room until remarkable gathering of colored citizens at the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Hayward was safe behind the bars was effective in preventing trouble. When wordchurch tonight, the occasion being a joint debate between Prof. William H. Councill was brought back that the prisoner was safeof Alabama and Rev. Charles S, Smith, D.D., of Tennessee, two of the leading rep-resentatives of their race in the south on the verdict was read by the judge and then passed to the clerk and announced by Foreman Neil McNeil. A poll of the jury was. he question: "Resolved, That the American of African "Resolved, That the American of African descent can never rise to full manhood in the United States of America, and that the redsemption and civilization of Africa as the future home of the American of Africa descent is desirable."

Prof. Councill, who has visited Africa, argued in the affirmative, while Dr. Smith defended the negative. The discussion is an evidence of the re-aroused interest in African emigration among the negroes here, and derives additional pertinency from the demanded and without hesitation each man answered "Guilty."

The Associated press reporter dropped the verdict written on a piece of paper out of the window, another below caught it and handed it to an operator who was 'In communication with the office of the Associated press, some eight blocks away, so that the fact was flashing over the wires before th excited crowd below knew what in fact it

John Day Smith and Shumaker, counsel for the defense, expressed the greatest confidence in acquittal. Hall, the assistant county attorney, moved for immediate sentence, ing to the absence of Mr. Erwin, the leader of the defense, passage of sentence was postponed until next Monday morning at 10

When Judge Smith arrived he issued strict orders to admit no one, and the injunction was religiously observed. Koebler, the deputy county clerk, asked in a tremulous voice whether the jury had agreed upon a verdict, and Neil McNeil, the foreman, stood up. His face was ghastly in its color and there was not a man on the jury unaffected by the intense gravity of the situation. Timberlake's dark eyes shone like fire from his ashen visage, and even the farmer members were visibly horrified with the stern duty devolving upon them.

"We have agreed upon a verdict," said McNell, in a voice that was scarcely audible. and the folded piece of paper that meant life or death to the accused was handed to the clerk. Judge Smith looked over the document first and returned it to Deputy Clerk Koebler.

"We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty," he read. Every eye was turned toward the condemned man. There was nothing in his face to indicate that he had heard a word of it. He threw his head back as the word "guilty" was pronounced, but it was only to adjust his collar band. He did not change color by a single shade. Twice he coughed that strange, hard, metallic cough that has been heard so often in the last few weeks. Then, looking around at the crowd, he raised his eyebrows inquiringly, as though to-ask: "What next?"

the jury at 2 o'clock this afternoon. By agreement between the attorneys the case was submitted without argument. At 11 o'clock tonight the jury had not agreed upon a verdict, consequently Judge Scott went home. A verdict will not be returned until tomorrow morning at the earliest. Those who heard the testimony in the case predict that if the jury agrees upon a verdict it will be manstaughter. A disagreement is feared. INTERESTED IN THE POLL. During the polling of the jury he listened with evident interest to the answers, though what they might be could signify nothing to him. The expression in his face was one of indignation rather than any other sentiment. Judge Smith then voiced his thanks to the jury for their labors in connection with the case. When the court announced that sentence would be deferred until Monday morning Hayward was evidently pleased. He expressed the opinion while being renoved from the court room that the verdict was an outrage and that he was a long way from the hangman yet.
Albert Hall, the assistant county attorney received the verdict in a manner that each as plainly as words, "I knew it." When he rose to move an immediate sentence Hayward half smiled, and then glowered at the state's lawyer in an enraged manner. He state's lawyer in an enraged manner. An immense crowd awaited the orisoner's coming. He grinned at the mob-as it pushed forward over the pavement toward him, and it is doubtful whether Harry Hayward would have regretted an op-portunity to mix matters with some of the noisiest. PRISONER WAS GAME.

"Goodbye, Harry, old hoy," cried one man, at the top of his voice. "You're a dead duck."
"Not yet," said Hayward, loud enough to be heard in a radius of twenty feet. "Not quits a dead duck yet."
Matters looked threatening for a time. The officers massed around their prisoner deter-minedly, and there would have been serious minedly, and there would have been serious trouble had any threatening act been attempted. The entrance to the jail was crowded, but a side dodge sent a dozen members of the crowd flying in different directions. Whatever the demonstration may have meant it resulted in nothing.
