Fears Are Entertained the Killing Will Result in International Complications as the Victims of the Mob Have Not Been Naturalized.

WALSENBURG, Colo., March 13 .- The United States may have an international complication on its hands as the result of the mob violence here last night, in which five Italians, who are believed to have been tack on the wagon party early last evening, as described in the Associated press dispatches last night, all was comparatively quiet until soon after midnight. About that time seven or eight men wearing masks knocked at the door of the jail where Lorenzo Danino, who was charged by the other Italians with having struck the blows that killed Hixon on Sunday, and the Italian wounded in the wagon attack, were confined. In answer to a question, the men said O'Malley, the sheriff, wanted to enter. As soon as the door was opened the guards found guns in their faces. Part of the masked men then went to the cell where the two Italians were confined and fired eight or ten shots. Each prisoner received four or five bullets. One died instantly, but the other lived a short time in great agony. The list

The other five suspects had been released from custody before the mob arose. Some fears were entertained at Rouse last night that the Italians, who outnumber the Americans and other nationalities, might rise up and attack their neighbors in revenge. Nothing of the sort happened, nor is it much anticipated, but the feeling is very intense. The bodies of the three missing Italians It is therefore certain that the five men held for the murder of Hixon have all been assassinated.

DENVER, Colo., March 13 .- A special to the Rocky Mountain News from Walsenburg Colo, says: Four dead bodies are now in the hands of the coroner of Huerfiano county as the result of the vengeance wreaked last night on the Italian miners who were charged with the killing of Abner Hixon in a most brutal manner at Rouse last Sunday night by beating him over the head with a club, and two more Italians have unquestionably been riddled with bullets by friends of the popular saloon keeper. · A few ore will almost certainly bring the dis covery of the corpses and every man against whom there was the slightest suspicion of complicity in the killing has met with sum-mary and frightful punishment. When the three Ital-lans captured from the wagon at Bear creek where Welsby was killed, had been made away with, the small but determined mob waited for the excitement to subside and then came to the county fall here, and a few minutes before 1 o'clock this morning completed the work of revenge on which they had commenced six hours before. Ron-chetto, who had been wounded in the breast at the Bear creek trouble, was asleep in the calaboose with Lorenzo. The guards who calaboose with Lorenzo. The guards who were placed in the jail, William Smith and Henry Farr, were playing high five when a rap came at the outer door of the jail. They asked who was there, and were told that it was Sheriff O'Malley. Without a moment's hesitation they unbarred the entrance, and instead of seeing O'Malley they looked down the barrels of two revolvers, in the hands of two masked men.

PROFITED BY EXPERIENCE. Experiences of others earlier in the night taught them to obey the command to throw down their pistols and throw up their hands. While the first two men covered Farr and Smith with their pistols, another pair, with their faces hid by handkerchiefs and carrying big guns in their hands, stalked in. One of the last arrivals picked up from the table the keys to the cell in the jail, and going back into the building unlocked the doo where lay the now trembling Italians, who felt sure their time had come and in their broken English begged piteously for mercy. The avengers had some mercy, but not for the doomed Italians. In the cell with them Frank Olk, who is charged with a al rape. He was gruffly told to stand aside, and slunk into a corner of the cell, later, has been quick to act in the matter The masked men then turned their pistols loose on the Italians, who shricked in agony as bullet after bullet was sent tearing into their defenseless bodies. One of the first fore the news of the further violence of today shots must have brought relief to Lorenzo, had been received. It was solely on account whom the men seemed to regard with especial hatred as the officially declared murderey, for their leaden balls were sent into his brain. Ronchetto was not so fortunate.

One bullet passed through his head and two tore great holes in the thoracic cavity, but instant death was not to be his good fortune, for he writhed and grouned in intense agony for as much as twenty minutes. When the vigilantes felt that their work was surely done they turned away, leaving their victims in their own and one another's blood, while the cowering brute who had seen it all was oo terrified to utter a sound.

When the last bullet had been fired that was thought necessary to avenge one death with six the men who had done the latest piece of killing walked out from the jall into the dark night. A moment or two later the keepers of the two guards backed out through the door and closed it behind them. Farr and Smith now picked up their own revolvers and fired five shots through the heavy wooden door after the retreating men. Summoning up courage, they peered out themselves in a few seconds, and seeing six or eight men making off on foct across the railroad tracks they shot at them until their pistols were empty, but without effect. They gave the slarm, but before sufficient men for a pursuit had gathered the men who had done the latest deed were sofely away, and Farr and Smith could give no description in detail of their recent visitors. A physician was summoned and for ten minutes the now good sized crowd was com-pelled to watch and hear the evidences of Renchetto's death thross. The work so vigorously begun early in the evening was now complete, and every one was sure the three

Italians captured at the bridge had long since met death. CAPTAIN OF THE TRIO.

The first step of the avengers was not so horrible but they knew what they were about. At 6 o'clock Ronchette, Glacavino, about. Vattari and Zapetto were loaded in a wagon at Rouse, six miles from Walsenburg, where they had been to testify at the Hixon inquest, and were started for the jall here. The prisfive Italians, who are believed to have been oners were in charge of Under Sheriff Earl unnaturalized, were killed. After the attown marshal at this place. Harriman was mounted on a horse and rode a few b-hind the wagon as a rear guard. Danford sat on the driver's seat beside young Joe Welsby, who handled the horses. Five miles of driving brought the wagon to the bridge over Bear creek, which lies at the bottom of the hills. Harriman heard horse-men cantering up behind him, and as they drew near turned his head to see who was coming. By this time a masked man was at his either side, and though it was almost pitchy black he could see that when they told him to dismount they had something very persuasive poked into his face. jumped from his horse and was told to get out. He did not develop sufficient speed as a sprinter, but some shots fired into the earth at his heels made him set out at a good rate for town, and he did not stop.

Meanwhile some others of the masked men. of whom there were six or eight, rode up be side the wagon and commanded it to stop. They were obeyed, and then told the four prisoners to jump out, and began firing their pistols. The shooting frightened the horses and they started off. Welsby meanwhile had jumped to the ground, and was tugging at the reins. Danford also got off and went to the side of the road, more shots being fired in a moment, and Welsby fell to the ground dead, with two bullet holes through this body, one in the neck and one through the chest. Ronchetto received a slight flesh ment and gratification in official circles here, the chest. Ronchetto received a slight flesh wound in the breast. His death was not to be and it promises to conclude the incident o soon, nor so easy.

Danford and Harriman soon arrived here and the sheriff and other officers started to the scene. They came upon Welsby's dead body, and also found Ronchetto crouching by the roadside. He was again taken into cus tody, and when he had recovered himself said the horsemen had taken his comrades said the norsemen had taken his comrades to a neighboring field. Diligent search failed to find them, however, and though many searchers have been out all day no trace of the bodies of Zapetto and Giacavino has been found. Vittari's corpse was found at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the bank of Bear creek one fourth of a mile seat of where one-fourth of a mile east the wagon was attacked. It was riddled with bullets. A coroner's jury this morning investigated the killing of Welsby, and rendered a verdict that he met his death at the hands of ner sons unknown. An inquest over Lorenzo and Ronchetto is now in progress, and the testimony thus far adduced warrants the belief in a similar finding in their case trouble is believed to be over and excite ment is fast subsiding, except among the Italian miners, of whom there is about 100 in the district, who are congregating, terror-stricken, at Brunneli's saloon. The Italian consul at New York wired Jo Moran this morning inquiring into the killing, but it is now doubtful whether complipossibly four of the dead men have renounced their allegiance. No satisfactory motive for the wholesale killing can be learned, except it be that the Italian is always hated in western Colorado and metaliferous mining districts generally, added to the ill feeling surred during the strike a year ago by killing a very popular man without ap-

ALL IS QUIET NOW. Never before in the history of Walsenburg has there been such intense excitement as commenced last night and is gradually dying out. Tonight every one is confident that the trouble is over and that this peaceful town will resume the even tenor of its way and be allowed to drop from the unenviable newspaper notoriety which this last occur-rence has gained for it. Though there was ore hurry-skurry during the exciting times of the strike, there never was the same suppressed feeling as has existed today. Last night the people thought the road to Rouse was one that would bring sure death, and even the most hardy men declined to ven-ture out. Today the quaint wooden bridge where several lives were lost is curiously examined. The locality is a peculiarly favorable one for such an attack as was made there last night. The creek itself amounts to but a third of a mile on either side, so that when picking the point for attack the men knew that the sound of their guns would not reach this place, though it is but a short distance

The little adobe, red stuccoed jail, only half a block from the depot, presents a gruesome sight. It is but one story in height and has lost its epidermis in many places. The door faces the business portion of the city, and through the heavy panels five bullet holes, made by Smith and Farr's firearms, sug gest a struggle within. A peep through one of the small windows on the south side of the jail tells the tale. Sticking out from beneath two coarse gray blankets two pairs of coarsely shod feet were to be seen, and here and there a tiny rivulet of blood, which ran from the bodies. The killing occurred in an outer room, where the cage is located. Entering the door a glimpse of the faces was suffi-cient. Abject terror was shown in every were killed by persons unknown. It is believed to be very unlikely that the men who did the killing will ever be definitely known, except among themselves. The opinion prevails, however, that the mob of six or eight men were Rouse miners and personal friends of Hixon, men of perhaps some prominence in the community. Telegraphic Correspondence Between the State Department and the Governor of Louisiana Made Public-Crews of Vessels Now in No Danger.

WASHINGTON, March 13.-The State department has made public the telegraphic correspondence which has passed between the department and Governor Foster of Louisiana relative to the rioting at New Orleans and gations from the various exchanges and the the shooting of a British subject. It begins with the following telegram sent last night by Assistant Secretary Uhl, who is acting as secretary of state in the illness of Secretary Gresham:

tary Gresham:

WASHINGTON, March 12, 1895.—To His Excellency, the Governor of Louisiana at Baton Rouge: The British ambassador represents to this government that, according to advices from the British consul at New Orleans, there were continued disturbances along the wharves of that city this morning. Purser Bain of the British ship Engineer shot in the head. Agents and captains asking for protection. Crews state that they are in danger of their lives. Meeting of consuls here at 12 o'clock today. The ambassador desires to know the present situation and what measures have been and are being taken for the protection of life and property.

Governor Foster's reply came to hand this morning in the following:

morning in the following:

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—Hon Edwin F. Uhl, Acting Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.; Your dispatch, repeated from Baton Rouge, reached me here tonight. Rioting occurred along the wharves here this morning. On my arrival this evening I find everything on the surface quiet. Vigorous steps are being taken by the municipal and state authorities to prevent a recurrence of violence and to afford full protection to life, property and commerce. I am satisfied that crews of vessels are in no danger. The purser of the steamship Engineer was shot while on the wharf during the riot, and I am not satisfied that his identity is known. Grand jury now investigating the whole matter.

Sir Julian Pauncefoie, the British ambassador, has directed the British consul at

The am-bassador has laid before the State department the consul's statement as to the shooting of Purser Bain. No further steps are contemplated, as the ambassador is satisfied that the local authorities will deal with the uprising in such way as to give British subjects the same protection as that afforded to Americans. The moderation of the British officials, and their evident desire to credit without any of the protests and bluster which frequently mark these minor interand Stay Away. NEW ORLEANS, March 13.-The agents of the foreign steamship companies held neeting at the office of Alfred Leblanc, agen of the Harrison line, whose wharf was the scene of Tuesday's riot. The proceedings of the meting were carefully guarded, and all of the agents who took part refused to state what had taken place or to discuss the situation. Numbers of negro screwmen were the day, and it was understood that the steamship agents were arranging with their tevedores to put them to work as soon as the requisite police or military protection i assured them. This evening it is positively announced that a number of the men will commence work tomorrow. A company state troops is stationed at each ship to state troops is stationed at each ship to bloaded. The agent of the White Screwmen' association says work is going on on all ship which are being loaded by that association except one or two, which are out of cotton and are waiting for a fresh supply.

Where yesterday's crowds of cited workmen, armed with all of weapons, patroled the river front nothing was to be seen this morning but squads of policemen discussing the affair of esterday and its probable outcome. The police did not wait until actual shooting began before they took action, as was the case yesterday morning. Their experience yesterday was never to be forgotten. Word was sent to all precinct commanders last night to have their forces on the river front at daylight this morning. Consequently the police were on hand in large numbers to prevent a repetition of yesterday's bloody affair. There was a heavy fog hanging over the river all morning and the police were under the impression that the ripters would again take advantage of this fact and commit deeds of violence. But this belief did not pan out for the simple reason that not negro put in an appearance on the levee.

They realize that the white acrewmen have been worked up to a pitch of fury and that if an attempt was made to work today more blood would be spilled. All ships that are being loaded by agents employing colored laborers are undisturbed today. Taking the version of the affair as given by Captain Crossman of the Allianca, Minister Muraga says it is apparent the American ship was in the jurisdictional waters of Cuba and not on the high seas It is evident, the minister says, from the firing of the blank shot it was in order that she might be asked as to whether insurgent goods were on board.

The letter of Captain Crossman was re-ceived at the State department in the after-noon mail. It had already been published in full by the Associated press and so had come to the notice of the department unofficially has already formed his own conclusions as to the course to be pursued. The statue is on exhibition in the dry goods store of a local exhibition in the dry goods store of a local firm and has attracted thousands of sight-seers. It rests in plain sight of the street and is very easy of access. Late tonight two men, who it later developed had hidden themselves in the store when it closed this evening, got so far as to wrench an iron bar off the door near where the statue stood, and were opening both doors when discovered. The men fled and were chased for several blocks, and though fired at half a dozen times, escaped. They left tools of various descriptions, which would have been necessary to remove the statue, showing their intentions, and tracks in the allcy near by, where another door had been opened, indicated they had confederates. The statue was that for which Ada Rehan posed as a model.

THREE WERE BURNED TO DEATH. Fatal Fire in a Small West Virginia Hotel.

HENDRICKS, W. Va., March 13,-The hotel of J. D. Jenkins, at Maceyville, four miles from here, was burned last night. Three lives were lost and four persons were injured. The hotel was a big, two-story frame structure and the fire was sweeping through when it was first discovered by Mrs. Jenkins, who aroused the family and guests as quickly as possible. No effort could be made to save any effects. All had retired when the fire broke out in the kitchen and rapidly spread to the second story. The only two stairways in the building, one in the front part and the other in the rear, were both cut off when those from the lower floor gave the alarm. Those who escaped jumped injuries in addition to their burns. Every room was occupied. There were over forty people in the hotel. Jacob Coffner, William Wilson, J. K. Williams and James Jenkins were in one room. They were driven back Tarifa. to jump through a furnace of flames. They are expected to steam twenty knots. were all so badly hurt and burned that Coffner is the only one of the four who can recover. In two other rooms on the second floor were Eugene Sisson, Homer Catlett and James Corley. They all perished and their remains were so charred as to be beyond recognition. It is believed they were suffocated and unable to get out of their rooms. The loss was only $5,000, but nothing whatever was saved. The building was burned to the ground in a short time. The

it May De Commuted. VICTORIA, B. C., March 13 .- The steamship Miowera has arrived, seven days from Honolulu. The inquiry into the revolution was concluded last Friday, when the judge advocate of the military commission announced that the government had no more cases to bring before that body. The sentences of only a few minor offenders have yet to be made known. The natives convicted have, as a rule, been sentenced to five years imprisonment at hard labor. The ex-queen had been sentenced to five years imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5,000. She is still confined in the room in the executive build-ing where she was placed on the day of her arrest, and is under military guard. Just what is to be done with her is a question which the government has not yet answered. It will not be the policy of the government to assume an arbitrary attitude should the exqueen make a reasonable proposition. Though the work of the military commission is completed, that body will n missed or martial law be declared off until all those who have signed agreements to leave the country have departed. The last batch is due to leave March 16. Should any of these men show a disposition not to comply with their agreement, they will be ar-rested, put on trial before the commission and sentenced. The restrictions of martial law have been retired to a great extent. Citizens are allowed on the strests at night with-out passes and the police have discarded their rifles. The movement for annexation is gaining among the natives and the formation of an annexation league by Sam Parker, one of the ex-queen's commissioners to Washington, and other prominent natives and half-whites will doubtless result in monster annexation petitions from all parts of the islands.

INVENTOR TESLA'S WORKSHOP BURNS Fears that the Disaster Will Cause the Great Electrician's Collapse.

NEW YORK, March 13.-The large factory building at Nos. 33 and 35 South Fifth avenue burned today, causing a loss of $100,000. It was occupied on all but the top floor by Gillis & Geoghan, steam fitters' supplies, and the top floor was used as a manufactory and workshop by Nicola Tesla, the electrician. The loss of Gillis & Geoghan is $60,000; of Tesla, $10,000, and of the owners of the building, $30,000. The destrucowners of the building, $30,000. The destruc-tion of Tesla's workshop comes just when it was whispered in the scientific world that the inventor was on the eve of the greatest of discoveries connected with the problem of improving the electric light. It is feared the disaster may result in the physical col-lapse of the great inventor. He has been long in a state bordering on exhaustion through overwork. Mr. Tesla is the control-ing electrical engineer of the Niagara Power company and of many other important con-cerns.
