

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS HOT

Wrought Up Once More by Statements from Board of Health.

SAY THAT WRONG STORIES ARE TOLD

Contented that County is Doing More Than Its Duty by the Poor-Center Street Road Grading-Business Done Yesterday.

Yesterday the county commissioners met at 10 o'clock. It was designed to have a hearing of both sides regarding the protest of a number of residents of Batavia Park against the change of the license of Balthas Jetter to run a saloon in that neighborhood.

This is the same saloon as the running of which without a license, C. W. Woodridge is under indictment by the grand jury. The people of the neighborhood object to a change of the license to Jetter on the ground that he does not reside in the vicinity and allows the saloon to be run in a disreputable manner by irresponsible parties.

Attorney Yates appeared before the commissioners, but Jetter was not present. The board declined, upon motion of Stenberg, to go into the matter unless both parties were present, or at least until they had satisfied themselves that they could refuse the license after hearing one side, in the event of the applicant not appearing after notification. The subject was deferred until 2 p. m.

A communication was received from D. W. Morrow, the assignee of the contract which was awarded to E. J. Fitzgerald for grading Center street road, stating that he had resigned all of his interest in the work to Lamoreaux Bros. At the time for the completion of the work had long since expired there was considerable discussion as to whether new bids for the balance of the work should not be advertised for. Jenkins advocated this course, but on motion Stenberg, who called the attention of the board to the fact that the price was as low as they could possibly get, the matter was referred to the committee on finance.

St. Vincent de Paul association in a communication called attention to the case of James Walsh, a blind man in the county hospital. The association has located a brother of this man in Ireland and he is willing to take charge of James provided the unfortunate man be procured transportation to that country. The association will send him to New York, but asked that the county commissioners allow $50 for expenses from that city to Ireland. The matter was referred to the committee on finance with power to act.

The finance committee allowed claims amounting to $252.28, among which was an item of $78.43 to Charles Unit for collecting delinquent taxes. Sheriff Drexler's bill of $174.18 for the care of cringing his prisoner and inmate at the county jail during January and February was also approved by the same committee.

At 2 o'clock the commissioners reconvened. The application of Balthas Jetter for a renewal of his license was refused on the ground that his bond was insufficient to guarantee the sureties, a woman, having notified the board that she desired to withdraw her name from the instrument.

A. P. Akers and Samuel Witt were appointed to direct the county grader during the balance of 1895 at $10 per day.

BOARD OF HEALTH CRITICIZED.

Mr. Jenkins then proceeded to pour some more hot oil into the camp of the Board of Health. He was armed with a copy of Thursday evening's Bee, from which he read an article giving Dr. Towne's account of the trouble with the board. He had discovered the Anderson family on Twenty-eighth avenue.

"When I read that article yesterday," said Mr. Jenkins, "I immediately determined to investigate it, not, however, that I believed there was any truth in it, as I knew it came out through the Board of Health, but because I wanted to show up still another of the malicious attacks made on this commission. And here is what I have discovered. This man Anderson applied to the charity store for the first time on January 12, and received 75 cents worth of groceries. On the 20th of the same month he received $2.25 in groceries; on February 2, $1.00; February 3, 50 cents; February 22, $1.00. Every time he applied up to this date he received assistance. A few days later he came in with an intoxicated condition and was refused help, and was refused. That was the last heard of him at the charity store. His boy receives $2 per week for work for the Associated Charities, and I am informed, I am told, that the medicine may be charged to the county. The next thing he will want is that we pay his salary."

Mr. Stenberg agreed with Jenkins that the city was sinking its duty, but so far as the cases reported were concerned, The Bee was always willing to give both sides of the question, and he did not fear but that the board of health would be able to take care of any neglect of the sick or unfortunate.

Mr. Liversay said that he had got tired of paying attention to the reports circulated in this way. If the commissioners were to follow up every one of them they would have no time to do anything else. No one was applied for aid who deserved it and went away without it if he knew it, and out of twenty cases passed in this way by the city authorities there was scarcely one that was anything in.

Poor food provokes dyspepsia. Pure food, made from Dr. Price's Baking Powder, prevents it.

CHOOSE A BAD NIGHT.

Chicken Thieves Traced to Omaha by Tracks in the Fresh Snow.

Tom Brewer of Glenwood, Mo., Thursday night made a tour of his neighbors' farm yards and gathered together 149 chickens. He immediately came to Omaha with the intention of selling them. But he has a crooked wheel in his wagon, and by this mark his route to Omaha could be plainly traced in the fresh snow. When the neighbors awoke yesterday morning they discovered their losses and also the wagon wheel tracks. Four of them got on horseback, and two of them in bugles, and followed the tracks to this city. Brewer was selling some of the chickens on lower Howard street when he was pointed out to an officer and arrested. When he was taken to the grand jury he admitted that he had been stealing chickens from his neighbors for a year.

While the pursuers were on their way from Glenwood, John Kinzie of Sarpy county was also following the tracks of wagon wheels to Omaha. His coops had been robbed of six geese, twenty chickens and several pigeons. The tracks led to Ed Coffey's house on West Farnam street, and a warrant for his arrest was sworn out.

Woodridge Not Held for Contempt.

H. L. Woodridge, who was cited to appear before Judge Scott to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court, was yesterday afternoon discharged, the complaining witness failing to make out a case in the opinion of the court. Woodridge was cited upon an affidavit made by John Plath, one of the witnesses who testified before the grand jury against Woodridge for selling liquor without a license. Plath claimed that Woodridge had threatened him, and warned him to move his residence.

DETECTIVE PYBURN'S BILLS.

Trying to Make a Good Thing Out of Spying for the County.

Charles Tietz, who has been keeping a saloon on the old Military road, is on trial in Judge Scott's court charged with selling liquor without a license. Babson Pyburn, one of the witnesses against Tietz before the grand jury, testified to having bought beer at Tietz place on February 18 and 24. Being asked his business at present, Mr. Pyburn answered that he was in the employ of the county attorney as a sort of special detective to collect evidence against parties who were selling liquor without license, and that he expected to be not only paid for his services by the county commissioners, but also to be reimbursed by them for the amount of money expended by him in buying drinks at the offending gin mills. He has a bill before the commissioners for $50 for labor and illicit fire water.

County Attorney Baldridge says that Pyburn told him that he had been paid $100 by the county commissioners for no objections to his employment as detective, and thereupon he went to work. But his opinion is that all Pyburn could collect would be his fees as a witness before the grand jury. These amounts to over $20. Chairman Williams denies that he paid Pyburn anything in the matter of collecting evidence whatever.

Pyburn's itemized bill would indicate that he places the value of his services pretty high, considering that all he has to do is to go to visit gin mills and absorb their liquid contents at the county's expense. For instance, he went out to Fifty-four and Dodge streets on February 10 on the motor, laced up 55 cents worth of booze and charged the county $5 for the service and adds his liquor bill and care fare. On February 12 he made another $5 trip, but this time the cars were not good enough, so he puts in a $1.50 charge for buggy hire and bus expenses of 60 cents.

On February 15 and 19 he plunged the county in debt to him to the extent of $11.05 by making two trips to Paul and Mary Johnson's place in East Omaha. Of this trip he claims to have been paid 65 cents for liquor and 40 cents, care fare.

Charles Tietz's place was visited by Pyburn on February 16 and 17 at $5 per visit. Here, either the liquor was good or the evidence was difficult to get, for he charges $1.65 for the amount guzzled. But it was at C. A. Jensen's resort on the old Military road that Pyburn got in his deadly work. Here on two visits, each at $5, he claims to have paid $9.95 for drinks.

In addition to these amounts, Pyburn says that the county is indebted to him $5.25, paid out by him in its interest in procuring the attendance of witnesses in various ways. All of this is in addition to the fees which Pyburn earned in his capacity as a witness before the grand jury, and what he is earning and will continue to earn as a witness in the criminal court.

Chairman Stenberg of the finance committee of the county commissioners significantly remarked when the matter was called for discussion by the county attorney, "The bill is not allowed yet."

Damaged by Water.

Theodore Williams complains in a petition in the county court that Christ Martie flooded him out of his premises on March 5, 1895. He says that in the fall of 1894 Martie, who owns a tract of land adjoining his place, constructed a large pond or artificial lake on his own premises, which of course he, Williams, did not object to so long as Martie put in his water to himself. This he says Martie did until the 1st of this month, when he deliberately cut a hole in the dam which confined the water, which poured over the plaintiff's land, causing damage in the sum of $300.

Found for the Plaintiff.

In Judge Ferguson's court yesterday a jury brought in a verdict for $1,250 in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Bancroft Sons & Co. against Dietz.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

A testimonial concert to Jules Lundberg is to be given Monday evening and the interest this concert is arousing testifies more than anything else to the sterling worth of the beneficiary. Mr. Lundberg has sang in season and out for numberless charities of Omaha. He has always inclined a wing car to those who needed help, and the musical colony of Omaha there is no worthier artist who may be honored by such a concert as the one of Monday bids fair to be.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me," with its Indiana, its lovely melody, its beautiful acting company, its magnificent scenery will delight the patrons of Boyd's theater for three nights and Wednesday matinee, beginning Tuesday, March 19. With its splendid and Pyles beautiful love story will appeal to the heart of the spectator, the mammoth stage pictures will charm the eye. The story of Kate Kennon's love of the brave and mainly Lieutenant Hawksworth, who, to blot out the charge of cowardice made by a companion officer who is himself guilty of the charge, faces what seems almost certain death to save a massacre threatened garrison. The rescue scene at the end of the third act surpasses in its stupendousness and daring any effects yet attempted on the stage. It requires a very large company to play the new "Girl I Left Behind Me." The more prominent of the players are Maud Harris, Lottie Alter, James E. Wilson, Maclyn Arbuckle, Myron Calice, Byron Douglas and Thomas Oberle.

Little Edna Reming will appear in "A Little Heroine" for the last time at the Empire at the matinee today at 2:30, when any reserved seat may be obtained for 25 cents. The engagement closes with a production of "The Governor's" tomorrow afternoon.

Hearing of the Sheeley Rioters Set for This Morning.

Judging from the appearance of the police court room yesterday Sheeleytown, despatched, as all the rioters must, with the friends of the Poles who took part in the trouble last Tuesday, and whose preliminary hearing was expected to take place yesterday morning. The audience, however, was disappointed, for upon the application of County Attorney Baldridge the hearing was postponed until this morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Baldridge said that he anticipated that the case would continue for three days or a week before it was finally disposed of. He said that the rioters were so arranged it would be impossible for himself or one of his assistants to be present throughout the trial if it was held at that hour. Smith, who appeared for the defendants, reluctantly consented to this arrangement. He desired the matter to be disposed of as soon as possible.
