PASSENGER TRAIN HELD UP

Florence & Cripple Creek Express Robbed Near Victor, Colo.

EXPRESS CAR AND PASSENGERS WORKED

VICTOR, Colo., March 24.-The masked robbers who held up the Florence & Cripple southbound train just outside the Two robbers boarded the train at Victor. One entered the sleeper and began immediately to wake up the passengers and seize their money and watches. He got about $500, including the Pullman car conductor's

The other robber got on to the blind baggage car at Victor and climbed over the tender into the engine, compelling the engineer to stop the train at a point a mile and a half south of Victor, where four or latter party commenced work on the mail and express cars, and soon had them open. The robbers were dressed in miners' clothes and wore slouch hats and masks. They were jovial in their treatment of the trainmen, but hurried through with the work, enforcing their commands with a ready disgineer started the train back to Victor, but the robbers objected and commanded the out south, which he did. Immediately all officials of surrounding robbers will be given a merry chase.

The train was fairly well filled, quite a number of ladies being on board. Besides a large number of valuable watches, rings and diamonds, about $1,000 in money was secured. The job was doubtless done by part of the same gang that robbed John Hargan the night before in his cabin here in the town.

A special train came in this morning with the bloodhound that did such good work recently at Walsenburg tracking the Italians' murderers. The dog seemed to get a scent two or three times, but the officers put in the whole day without being able to locate any of the robbers

The dog, upon being placed on what was supposed to be the trail of one of the bandits made a straight shoot for some of the cabins near the Strong mine in the outskirts of

ENTERPRISING CONGRESSMEN. of Public Documents and Seed Received for Distribution.

Sales of public documents by retiring con gressmen have never reached such proportions as within the past month, says a dispatch to the Globe-Democrat. The unusually large number of defeated members accounts for this, together with the increasing output of the government printing office. These publications are intended to be distributed free by congressmen to such of their con stituents as yearn for the character of information furnished by the government. It is nevertheless true that nearly every book or phamphlet issued by the government can purchased in Washington from the men who deal in this form of literature. They are obtained by the dealers from the congressmen themselves, or from some clerk or friend to whom they have been presented. Every congress authorizes the publication of thousands of volumes, most of which are of no more use to the average member of the house than so many blocks of wood would be. For instance, the last congress allowed each member of the house something over 900 copies of the report of the secretary of agriculture. Dealers, however, who know where agricultural reports can be profitably disposed of are too wise to ask for the publications outright. They ap proach the member through his clerk or friend, and offer to take the whole lot for fixed sum. It not infrequently happens that the member is not a party to the transaction, but merely authorizes his clerk, to get rid of the whole lot the best way he can. Thousands of these reports are sold at the close of every session for only a few cents apiece, and are retailed in the rural districts for from 20 cents to 25 cents a volume. A member of the Alabama dele-gation, who believes that such books should reach the people in another way than through the dealers in government publications, recently purchased for distribution among hi constituents from the clerk of a member 2,000 volumes for $50, some of them very valuable. This gives an idea of the prices paid by the dealers. Each congress that assembles increases the number of publications placed at the disposal of members, and each session augments the business of the dealers. It has now become so extensive that public attention is being attracted

Secretary Morton, before he leaves the Ag-ricultural department, intends to abolish as far as possible the free distribution of seed. He says this business has been so much abused that it has become an evil instead of benefit, and he intends to put a stop to it His next annual report to congress will contain names of several congressmen who have actually sold their quota of seed for a monetary consideration. It has been com-mon practice for members from large cities to exchange their quota of seed with their colleagues who represent agricultural dis-tricts, but the fact has just been brought to light that an extensive business has beer carried on by brokers who dispose of seed for members of congress. Secretary Morton, how ever, has caught one member in a trap, but who this member is will not be known until the secretary's annual report is made pub-lic. Some officials of the Agricultural department say he is from Tennessee, while others maintain that he represents a New York City district. He sold his quota of seed to a broker for $75, receiving a check, which he indorsed and cashed. This check was turned over to the secretary by the alleged broker, who was a special agent of the de-partment, and Mr. Morton now has both the order of the congressman for the seed and the indorsed check in payment for them. The signatures are identical. The whole matter will be printed in the secretary's report.

Secretary Morton also says that he could have purchased recently from a second-hand book dealer in this city the quota allowed to three members of congress for $150 each. Besides these, he says he has the names of probably 100 members of congress who have given orders for the transfer of their entire quotas of seed, or a great portion of them, to other persons. Some of them are probably in exchange for patent them are probably in exchange for patent property and other soverment publications. office reports and other government publica-tions, according to the constituency of the respective members. He will print all of seed distribution for the fiscal year of 1896, $20,000 of which is to pay the expenses in-cident to the publication of farmers' quota, notwithstanding the secretary suggests that only $500 be allotted to each of the fortyeight experiment stations to purchase new and improved varieties of see is, cuttings, etc.

It was opened by a speech by Tofteman Fredericksen, delivered by Axel Waage. This was followed by a comedy, the English of which is, "In a Boarding School." lish of which is, "In a Boarding School." Mr. John Enkebolle performed the role al lotted to him in a very pleasing way and Mrs. Jonasen made a most charming Lovise. Mrs. D. Thomsen in the character of Laura made a great hit and Mr. Hans Neble as Moeller was very successful. Taken as u whole, the little farce was a great success.

Mr. Clinton A. Case played a violin solo and was vociferously recalled. A pantomime in one act was the next thing on the program and this was performed in a way that reflected credit on all who took part.
The histrionic portion of the program was concluded by a very spirited presentation of Adolph Recke's clever farce, "The World's Mr. Fritz Jacobsen in the role of Valancourt and Mr. Axel Waage as Vesinet, the theologian, sustained the parts very handsomely. Mr. John Enkebolie, in the character of Cabosini Beriderdirektor made manifest that he possessed the germs of good actor and that all he lacked was proper training. The leading character was assigned to Hans Neble, that of Caesar, the world's Hercules, and was well played.

A Turk Editorial.

The Turkish newspapers are a little more areful in their reference to the ruler of that country than the newspapers of the United States. A recent edition of a Turkish journal contains in double-leaded type an announce-ment of which the following is an accurate

"Today our paper reaches the thirteenth year of its existence, and we celebrate this universary in the reign of the finest pearl of the age and the esteemed center of the universe; at whose grand portal stand the camels of justice and mercy, and to whom the eyes of the kings and the people in the west have been drawn; the rulers there finding an example of political prowess and the classes a model of mercy and kindness; it is our lord and master, the cultan of the two shores and the high king (Khakan) of the two seas; the crown of the ages and the pride of all countries, the greatest of all khalifs; the shadow of God on earth; the successor of the apostle of the Lord of the Universe, the victorious conqueror (Alghiz), Sultan Abdul Ha-mid Khan; may God protect his kingdom and place his giory above the sun and moon and may the Lord supply all the world with the goodness which proceeds from His Holy Majesty's good intentions."

Rochefort's Lucky Find.

A story of Rochefort is revived on the oc asion of his return from exile. When Victor Hugo was in exile in Brussels he asked Rochefort to stand godfather to his Charles. Rechefort accepted, and in looking for a suitable present saw in a curiosity shop window a silver table ornament which attracted him, and the price was 35,000 franci Caledonia and his property confiscated, Victor Hugo sold the ornament for the benefit of Rochefort's family. It turned out that it was the work of Benvenuto Cellini, and it brought

The audience at Boyd's theater last nightof very generous proportions-was afforded an opportunity to judge of the loudly heralded merits of "1492," Edward E. Rice's latest operatic, vaudeville and burlesque pot pourri made to suit the tastes of the closing nineteenth century days. And if the general applause, the recognition the actors received count for anything, this latest creation of Mr Rice's won a most enviable success. Its thems deals ludicrously with the voyage of Christopher Columbus and his discovery of up-to-date New York, in fact, Greater York, and introduces not only the king and queen of Spain, but hidalgos, The above property is sold by vote of said grandees, courtiers, followers, until the eye grows weary with the wealth of color displayed, the costumes and groupings being upon a most artistic plane, in keeping with Edward Rice's pre-eminent ability in this

There is little in the score to warrant extended review, the music being of a very light and airy character, much of it being reminiscent, but here and there an air obtrudes itself that quite captivates the ear, notably the left motif which is sung by Mark Smith. "I'm the Daisy Queen of Spain." It will be sung and whistled today on the streets and the success it has achieved in the east cannot help but be duplicated in the west. The book, however, is decidedly superior to the score notwithstanding the liberties that have been taken by the composer in adapting the scenes with characteristic music. The lines ar usually very light and frequently witty The lines are although they lapse at times to the quality found in the so-called funny papers, but this in extravaganza is entirely legitimate, for sembled in Washington hall. The Danes of custom has made it so. To the book and this city had gotten up an entertainment score Mr. Rice has brought a vast experience and the result is entirely satisfactory in every

The choruses were well balanced and usually well sung, while the ensemble was perfect, which is saying a great deal for an extravaganza which aims to give the come dians all the latitude possible in order to bring the essential laugh, meat and drink to the farceur.

The company is large, comprising quite a number of well known favorites, and the freshness and up-to-the-times spirit injected in the performance makes it clearyl th brightest bit of nonsense seen in Omaha this year. Will H. Sloan heads the company, although by no means appearing so on the bill of the play. In this case, however, it is ability and not position on the program that warrants this assertion. Mr. Sloan finds in Ferdinand a part just suited to his talents and he moves through it with that lightness of touch so absolutely necessary to the comedian. However, it is in a character part like Charley Tatters, a dusty roads hero, that he shines with brilliancy. tramp has not been so well done here its possibilities have never been so thoroughly realized. Mark Smith, as the regat mistress of the house of Arragon, presents a magnificent, queenly figure, and his make up will be the envy of half the women who will see him in the part during the engage ment of "1492." Mr. Smith has a righpleasing baritone and sang the numbers al-lotted to him with good finish, particularly the "Queen of Spain" song. Ross Snow, as he royal keeper of the poker chips and other perquisites of the exchequer, was acceptable although he does not touch the outer frings of the part. Charles A. Pusey and Ed Read way are very funny in the role of conspirators, funny because they give an indication of new business, and in the Du Maurier sketch from "Trilby" show decided versatility. Mr. Paxton looks the part of Columbus but gives otherwise a very colorless per

Among the women, it would be hard to say who really led, although Miss Carrie Behr has undoubtedly the most taking part, probably because of the specialties she introduces gowned as a waif of the street, a singer for ennies, the favorite of the newsboys and a not uncommon character in Gotham. She sings well and carries herself with credit Miss Yolande Wallace, one of the handsomest of stage beauties, has a taking role as the infanta Johanna, and she thoroughly appreciates the possibilities offered as the fiance of Columbus. Cora Strong is the character woman of the company, and made a most pronounced hit as Bridget Murphy. One of the bright bits of the evening is contributed by Gertrude Rutledge, who almost realizes Du Maurier's heroine of the Paris studios, la belle Trilby, in figure at least. With Gecko and Svengali she wanders about sing ing "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt, Alice with hair so brown," and she sings the old ballad with remarkable ability in one who has not had a long stage training. It is a pleasure to say that Miss Rutledge gives abundant promise of still greater things in the line Mr. Rice has mapped out for her. Fleurette is a sensational dancer, her impersonation of Lottle Collins being exceedingly good. But "1492" must be seen. It abounds in character studies, in genre pictures, and with its freshness and crispness is destined for long popularity. Hoyt's "A Temperance Town," which scored such a success in Boston, with a run of six months, and about the same length of C. P. Holcombe and D. J. Van Dyne comprise time at Hoyt's theater in New York, comes a party of Kansas Cityans at the Millard. to the Boyd on Thursday night for a stay of one night only. Mr. Hoyt, it is conceded, is the most original of all American play-wrights, and the happy faculty he has of pacifying all parties, after giving each indi-vidual a severe scoring, accounts for much of his success. The characters in Temperance Town" are but the typical New England people in a country prohibition N. J.; Mrs. M. E. Silver of Glenville, Md., town going through a series of joys and and Miss M. E. Cooper of Slate Hill, Pa., slight tribulations. The play will be seen form a party at the Millard en route east slight tribulations. The play will be seen here identically the same as in New York and Boston, including the scenery and cast, which is headed by L. R. That funniest of all comic operas, entitled "Dr. Syntax," will be presented for the first n this city on next Friday evening at Boyd's new theater by DeWolf Hopper and the members of his excellent company, which is said to be the largest and best he has yet had, and the entire production, which held the stage of the Broadway theater. New York City, for eleven weeks, will be given to our amusement patrons in its entirety, and the prevailing features of the opera-such as refined and wholesome fun, sprightly melodies that easily catch the popular taste, as well as a series of elaborate stage settings and brilliant costumes, will undoubtedly form a potent as well as a profitable attraction for the local management.

Mr. Hopper's company includes his pretty oung wife, Edna Wallace-Hopper; Bertha Waltzinger, a former member of the Bos-tonians; Jennie Goldthwalte, an exceedingly clever young actress; Alice Hosmer and Florine Murray, two admirable comediennes, as well as Cyril Scott, Edmund Stanley Alfred Klein, Thomas S. A rank humbug-indeed-as far as cloth trimming and workmanship is concerned, the only creditable feature is the tape around your manly breast but you pay a ten dollar bill or two for that honor.

Anyone wishing to part with his money, for a tailor's signature is at liberty, surely not our affair, but if it is for a finely made garment, our finer class of clothing can command the attention of a competent

We carry the finest from the leading wholesale tailors of this country, who tailor the best of imported and demestic suitings, handfinished, hand-worked button holes, and in general a good many times better than the suit your tailor chages $25.00 to $35.00 for.

Trenty dollars or so buys here the finest. A point more. We'll back our statement with a brand new suit free that our $14.50 suits, contain better fabric, trimming, and lining, better tailored than the best $25.00 suit offered to mersure-As to to precise fitting-Well-What are our corps or tailors here for?

Even suits down to $10.00 will compare favorably with the average. Nebraska Clothing Co

What's in a Name?

mulsion, for instance. What's Ozomulsion? That's a trade name for ozonized emulsion. What's that? That's an emulsion of pure cod liver oil, ozone and guaiacol

What's it for? You've got it; all run down-cough-hack—can't sleep—won't let anybody else sleep—losing flesh—losing spirit—getting blue—get discouraged about nothing. What does that amount to? More blues-

more cough—folks shake their heads—look wise—say

"Consumption"—doctor comes—more head shakes—more wise looks-you know-ills-pills-bills. Take Ozomulsion in time. That will fool 'em-fool your friends-fool the doctor-fool you. One bottle costs a dollar. That'll make you feel better -you'll get hungry

-you'll like good things to eat once more. If it don't, don't buy any more and get your dollar back. We have faith in Ozomulsion-you'll have after you've tried
