by a Subterfuge.

A sensational prohibition sheet published in and conviction of any such thief will receive New York has uncarthed what it considers to be a mare's nest in Council Bluffs, and its columns have been filled lately with references to the failure of the authorities to enforce to the letter all the provisions of the mulct law. Several weeks ago a letter appeared from the Council Bluffs correspondent of the sheet, denouncing Mayor Cleaver and the police force. A little over a month ago The Board of Supervisors spent a good share Mayor Cleaver received a letter from a man in Toronto, Canada, asking him some questions with regard to the article which appeared in the paper referred to. The mayor answered the letter as he would any other pertaining to city business. In it he gave a straightforward account of the conditions of things in Council Bluffs, and the means adopted to regulate vice. It now transpires that the letter was written by a representaissue it appears in full, together with some found open yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, tive of the New York paper, for in its latest but a careful inspection failed to show the issue it appears in full, together with some editorial hysterics, pronouncing Mayor Cleaver republican anarchist, comparing the people f Council Bluffs with the victims of Tam-nany, and calling for a Parkhurst to show many, and calling for a Parkhurst to show himself and lead the people out of darkness. The following is a copy of the letter:

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Feb. 23.—My Dear Sir: Your letter commenting on the article in the new York ——, giving our city a sensational write-up, at hand. You say you trust there is another side to this question. The other side is this: The life of this paper depends upon its ability to serve up says and the state of the side is this. depends upon its ability to scrape up sensa-tions. Now, I am not going to say that these assertions are groundless, but that they are exaggerated goes without saying. The time has never been in the history of this city nor any other that there has been prohibition, nctwithstanding it has been a state law in lowa for several years; and yet I am not prepared to say that the morals of our city lag behind that of the average progressive western city. I can say personally that I have never drank as much as a glass of beer in a saloon in the city library. beer in a saloon in this city, although I have been a resident for ten years, nor do I ever frequent them or public places where there may have been (in the past) gambling. At present there is no gambling going on that our police can get evidence sufficient to convict. If you had a correct knowledge of the dark side of life in all cities, you would sot be surprised that ours has its share of crime in all its forms; and yet I can say without successful contradiction that our city has better order by dealing liberally and openly with this element, and has a less expensive police force than any city of its size in this country. We do attempt to regulate and control crime, but recognize the absurdity of professing to abolish it, as ome municipalities do. We do not comply trictly with the law of this state regulating the liquor traffic. Why? Because it has some absurd features that make it impossible to do so, and an attempt to enforce it would bring down upon our heads, under existing conditions, a dismal failure. As to the Sunday closing, we allow them to have access to the saloens through the back entrance; but our police department permits no gathering of noisy crowds, and Sunday would find us up to the average in morals, thrift, intelligence and the other qualifications that go to make us good citizens. remain, respectfully, About two weeks ago a young lady, member of the Methodist church, and closely connected with the prohibition element by family ties, called upon Mayor Cleaver and him she had a friend all the mayors of Iowa. In response to her request, he gave her his photograph. The lady in Muscatine has not yet written her card of thanks. Instead, the mayor's phoograph adorns a page of the sheet, in sort of an "I have been cured" attitude, to give the horrified prohibitionists an idea of the moral monster who is allowing the

F., D. & W.

Smith and Wilson Succeed in Disguising

Themselves by Growing Beards. A new deal was brought out in connection with the Griswold bank robbery case yesterday by the returning of an indictment by the federal grand jury, charging them with breaking into a United States repository and stealing $600 worth of postage stamps, the property of the government. James Riley, William Butler, alias James J. Wilson, and George Willard, alias William J. Smith, were each indicted. There was no vault in the ostoffice at Griswold, and so the postmaster, by direction of W. G. D. Mercer of the secre service put the stamps for safe keeping in the vault of the bank which was "touched" by the robbers. It has been suspected for some little tim that the government would ultimately try the two men now in custody, for its case is much stronger than the charge preferred against them in the state courts of assault ing Deputy Sheriff Nick O'Brien. been some uncertainty as to who fired the shots, but there is not the slightest tainty of all three of the men being con-cerned in the robbery of the bank. Smith and Wilson were brought into the court room yesterday afternoon to be arraigned before Judge Woolson. Their best friends would hardly have known them as they sat with their wrists bound together with handcuffs. Each of the men has let his beard grow, and as each is blessed with whiskers that cover all his face excepting the eyes, the transformation is complete. This has undoubtedly been done with a view to disguising themselves in the hope that the witnesses who are to swear to their connec-tion with the case will be unable to identify them. If Judge Woolson can find any way of compelling them to shave there is but little doubt of their conviction, but if any of the witnesses are compelled to swear that these grizzly veterans are the same sleek, smooth ooking fellows they saw six weeks ago, there s quite a possibility of their getting free. Both the men in custody have claimed all College Songs on Tap. The glee, banjo and mandolin clubs of th University of Wisconsin were tendered a cordial reception by the people of Council Bluffs Monday evening and the young men sang their college songs and twanged their instruments with a zeal worthy of the good cause of entertaining their friends. Every desirable seat in the house was taken, and the audience was composed of the best people of the city. The program was a varied one, and each number was rendered finely. The glee club caught the audience from the first, and the elections sung afforded the opportunity of hearing some excellent solo voices, the tene of Mr. Bacon being particularly sweet. The mandolin and banjo clubs did their work with great precision and attention to phrasing. Encores were frequent, and the boys were not at all chary about responding. The program was remarkable for containing eight out of thirteen numbers which were composed or arranged by members of the various clubs. The closing number, "Conceited Things," in which all three clubs united, the music and words both being written by Wis-

After the concert the visitors went to the Grand hotel, where they were tendered a reception by a large number of the seciety peole of Council Bluffs and Omaha. This was ollowed by dancing in Chambers' hall The oung men leave this morning for Sioux City, where they give a concert this evening, and leave behind them, as well as take with them, a great many pleasant recollec-

Casper is not well satisfied with the outcome of the meeting of the council Friday evening, at which the subject of running Omaha trains on Upper Broadway was up for discussion. He thinks the council did not show the right sort of enthusiasm on his side of the fence. The "peace committee he regards with a melanchely sort of mirth for he thinks the kind of peace it will be in for is the kind the lamb indulges in when i lies down inside the lion. It is true the citizens' share of the committee is con of four Upper Broadway men to two South Main street, but he has an idea that the three councilmen appointed on the committee will queer the whole proceeding, from his point of view, by siding in with the motor company and doing its bidding to the letter. Never-theless, he is not discouraged. He has another scheme which is to be sprung in the near future and which will double discount any monthly gives the following favorable notice of the grape and fruit growing interest of Council Bluffs: Council Bluffs, Ia., is becoming the center of the most profitable small fruit growing district in the United States. The hills on the Mosquito valley are especially fitted by nature for small fruit, vineyards and apples. The Shipping association expects a trade of fifty cars in small fruit this year, which, together with the home demand of over 200,000 people within a radius of ten over 200,000 people within a radius of ter miles, makes fruit producing soil valuable The finest table grape raised is produced here. Fruit and garden land, within from one to ten miles of the postoffice, is being sold at from $50 to $200 per acre, on easy terms. Some years ago this bluff land was not worth $5 per acre, but grape growers from the Rhine and elsewhere have proved the absolutions of the land for proved the adaptability of the land fo grape and fruit growing.

The notable musical event of the month will be the concert of the Omaha Glee club, assisted by the Dudley Buck quartet, Jules Lumbard and other soloists. It will be given on the 26th instant at the First Presbyterian church and will be the first appearance of the gles club in Council Bluffs. The club's twenty-five artist members will undoubtedly be accorded a grand reception.

Boat Club Improvements. The directors of the Council Bluffs Rowing association held a meeting last evening at E. W. Hart's office for the purpose of talking ver plans for the improvement of their grounds at Manawa. Various plans have been suggested, but after talking them all over it was decided that the most feasible was to nove the west boat house in front of the east one, raise both to the height of two stories, and run two porches along the entire length. An architect was engaged to draw the plans and figure on the cost, and n further steps. You can reserve seats for the Carpenter ectures at Hart's jewelry store, 415 Broadway, without extra charge. Secure them in Important Litigation Settled.

SIOUX CITY, April 6.—(Special Telegram.)—An agreement was reached today between the Woodbury county board and it the citizens' committee by which the farmous bond injunction case against the county will be settled. The Board of Supervisors resolved over a year ago to fund $25,000 of county warrants. The citizens' committee restrained the issue on the grounds that many of the warrants were fraudulent. The Farmers Loan and Trust company, which held them, offered to release $10,00 if the rest were funded. When the stipulation was drawn the county rejected it for the reason that it provided for only 6 per cent interest, while 8 was demanded. The citizens' committee demurred at first, but today acceded to the county's demand. The warrants released will be funded at once.

The bondholders of the Sloux City Terminal company have notified their local attorneys to make their plans to bid in the terminal property under a foreclosure which it is expected will be granted at the May term of the federal court. A new company will immediately be formed by the bondholders to manage the property. between the Woodbury county board and Costs Money to Prosecute Strikers. SAN FRANCISCO, April 6 .- The United States district court jury in the case of is to pay a number of debts which he contracted at that time. He came at the suggestion of Rev. E. W. Allen the first time, and when he went away and the bills began to pour in, Mr Allen naturally felt a sort of responsibility in seeing that they were paid. At his request Thomas Metcalf, ir., undertook the task of chasing the evangelist over the country. The chase has lasted for more than a year, and within the last few weeks he succeeded in getting $90 in payment of the contract of the country. The trial just closed cost the government $30,000.
