

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

COUNCIL BLUFFS. OFFICE - NO. 13 PEARL STREET

Delivered by carrier to any part of the city. H. W. TILTON, Lessee. TELEPHONE-Business office, No. 43; night editor, No. 23.

MINOR MENTIONS.

Grand Council Bluffs. E. F. Clark, prop. Mayne Real Estate Agency, 539 Broadway. Stella Hermes was granted a divorce from Frank Hermes by Judge Smith.

The Lady Macabees meet in regular session at Grand Army of the Republic hall this afternoon. Cora Highsmith was granted a divorce yesterday from I. H. Highsmith on the ground of drunkenness.

H. C. Pomroy, charged with confining the Seators out of $200 on a land deal, will not have a hearing until the morning at 10 o'clock in Justice Cook's court.

St. John's English Lutheran church will hold their holy week services prior to Easter every evening this week, excepting Saturday when in their church room in James' hall, No. 17 Pearl street.

Rev. H. P. Dudley says the statements that the young married woman who procured the photograph of Mayor Slosser for the New York prohibition organ is a member of the Broadway Methodist church is false. Her mother was a member at one time, but was expelled.

An alarm of fire at 11:30 o'clock Sunday night called the department to the residence of J. J. Shea, on South Eighth street. The fire caught from a lamp and spread to the floor and then communicated to one of the partitions. It was extinguished without much trouble, and the damage was slight.

A committee of the committee of the whole of the city council will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock, and the aldermen will pay a visit to North Street, where they will be looking into the merits of the petition for and protest against the lowering of the grade of that street four feet at the corner of Avenue E.

L. Swearingen, overseer of the poor, purchased some witness fees from William Wallace, a well known character about town, and went to the city clerk's office to collect them yesterday, when he found they had been paid. Upon investigating he found that Jack Hughes and James O'Brien had each paid the same witness fees.

Two desirable cottages for rent. Plenty of money for farm, home, fire insurance. Loans for local investors on best of security. Special bargains in real estate. Lounge & Towle, 235 Pearl street.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

J. M. Templeton has returned from a long visit with his relatives in Glenwood. Deputy United States Clerk Ed Mason of Des Moines is in the city attending United States court.

Josee Annis and wife of this city have moved to Atlanta, Ga., to make their home there. They are the parents of A. D. Annis. S. P. Proby of Des Moines is in the city representing the Des Moines branch of the Grand Union Building and Loan association fans.

Collector Brown of the internal revenue of the Third district of Iowa, stationed at Dubuque, is in the city attending federal court. E. A. Troutman, J. H. Arthur, George H. Jackson and F. B. Warner were among those who left for the city attending federal court.

Headed Not Guilty. Smith and Wilson, the Griswold bank robbers, were brought before Judge Woolson again yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock to plead to the indictment of robbing a United States depository of $600 worth of United States property of the government. Each entered a plea of not guilty and they were both immediately taken back to the county jail in charge of Sheriff Hazen and Deputy United States Marshall Hillweg.

More bootleggers were brought in yesterday for trial, and the one who was found guilty in the proceedings was that many of those who have been convicted at previous trials of the crime of retailing liquor without government permit have gone into the business of reforming others in the same way as they themselves were reformed, and are giving evidence against their fellows. Whether their motive is to purify the country's morals or merely to make the other fellows behave as well as they have to behave can only be guessed at, but the fact remains that the government has a number of its most valuable assistants in the persons of men who have heavy doses of bootlegging hanging over their heads from terms of court now on file.

Joseph Foster, Charles Ginn, Dan Hanney and A. W. Baldwin failed to show up when their names were called yesterday. They were ordered their bonds forfeited, and bench warrants issued for them. They will have to answer to the charge of contempt, as well as bootlegging. Will Jones and Charles Mann pleaded not guilty to their indictments. Al Shattuck and Will Jones were each given a $100 fine and costs.

Dispatches indicate Chinese marines are desirous of improved air ships when confronting their virile foes. No barking powder equals Dr. Price's in enduring qualities.

Still Trying the Insane Boatlegger. John Wiemeyer, a Creston bootlegger, who has already been before the insane commissioners, was there again yesterday by order of Judge Woolson. Wiemeyer, when first arrested, became violently insane, and came very near tearing down the county jail in his efforts to prove that he was unfit for trial. The insane commissioners sent him to Clarinda, although they had suspicions that he was feigning, and after he had been kept there a few days he was sent back with a statement that he was sane, public, but it is understood that it was large enough for the attorneys to get their fees out of.

Competitors of Dr. Price's Baking Powder are growing weary of trying to equal it. Their labors are vain.

Reading Circle Entertained. The members of the Oakland Avenue Reading club, with their husbands, were charmingly entertained Saturday evening by Mrs. Hugh Cole, assisted by Mrs. W. J. Lovett and Miss Clara Evans, at the residence of Mrs. Cole on Oakland avenue. An interesting paper on Shakespeare was read. This was followed by charades, taken from scenes in Shakespeare, enacted by some of the members, which were well presented and thoroughly enjoyed. Refreshments, including games, music and refreshments, made up a delightful evening.

Fred Miller's Condition is Serious. Fred Miller, the Carroll man who was knocked down and robbed while crossing the motor bridge Sunday night, is still in a very precarious condition, and it cannot be told yet whether he will recover. A further examination of his injuries by his physician showed that his head was terribly cut, several blows having been rained down upon it with some sharp instrument. It is thought the wounds are only superficial, but what the skull is really fractured can only be told later. It took about sixty stitches to put the pieces of skin together. He was visited yesterday at the Woman's Christian Association hospital by a lawyer from Carroll, who stated that he had children in Carroll who are well able to support him.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Andrew Hill Ends His Family Trouble by Taking His Own Life.

SHOT AT HIS WIFE AND JOHN WIATT

Drink and Idleness Led to a Separation and the Woman Went to Live With Another Man—Wiatt Slightly Wounded.

A shooting affray took place last night about 9:30 o'clock at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue, as a result of which Andrew Hill has died and John Wiatt has a hole through his ear, made by a bullet from the revolver Hill held in his hand, and with which Hill afterward ended his own life.

Wiatt was formerly a member of the police force, but has lately been driving a team. About a year ago he lost his wife, Mrs. Hill had been living with her husband at 1408 Broadway, but Hill was given to drinking and failed to support her. She had a chance to act as housekeeper for Wiatt and moved to his house, bag and baggage. She has been living there ever since, taking care of Wiatt's house and looking after his children, one of whom has been sick for the past few weeks.

Last evening about 9:30 o'clock Wiatt and Mrs. Hill were just returning from a busy street when they turned in at the residence of Wiatt's house they were met by Hill, who planted himself in front of the buggy and called upon them to stop. He accused Wiatt of trying to separate him and his wife, and Wiatt denied it. Hill reiterated his charge and, without waiting for more words, drew a revolver and commenced shooting. When the first shot was fired his hand, Wiatt says, was not more than two feet away.

The first shot struck Wiatt in the right ear and a second whizzed past Mrs. Hill's face, grazing her forehead. Wiatt grabbed his whip and started his horse up, and as he drove away he heard two shots more, but neither of them seemed to come anywhere near, and he did not stop to see what damage they did.

Wiatt and Mrs. Hill drove to the residence of Dr. Barstow on Sixth street, where an examination was made of the former's wound. He was at first almost unconscious, but had entered his head, but the examination showed that it had merely passed through the ear, inflicting a painful, but not at all serious wound.

After shooting Wiatt Hill went to his home and sat down on the door step. A few minutes later the report of a pistol was heard, and his father rushed out and found him lying down with a bullet hole in the right temple. He was carried into the house and died half an hour later, without regaining consciousness.

He had been working with his father for several days moving houses and had been re-arranging a house, expecting his wife to come back with him, but she had not agreed to do so, but had just written him a note saying she had changed her mind. He was at first almost unconscious, but had entered his head, but the examination showed that it had merely passed through the ear, inflicting a painful, but not at all serious wound.
