This claim dates back some time ago, when Meehan, to-gether with Petterson and another workman, were at work on the Orphans home building which was being erected then at this place.

They were engaged on the flues, and whe at a height of about sixty feet the scaffold which they were standing broke, and Meeban and Petterson fell to the ground. To make this accident the more serious, a pile of brick lay directly under them. Meehan lived but a few hours after being picked up and Petterson was unconscious for several days as a result. The other workman es caped by clinging on the ledge of the build-ing. As a result of this accident Petterson brings a claim against the estate of Meeha for $10,000 for damages he sustained in the same. He claims that he was injured in such a way that it will forever bar him from working and earning a living for himself and family, and that his eyesight was ruined. As Meehan was the contractor in the work he holds him responsible for the accident. The judge sustained the demurrer, and held that the plaintiff had no cause for action. The plaintiff will, however, appeal to the district court. Meehan was well to do and his estate is valued at $25,000. - He had a wife and two children, both of whom live at this work. place at the present time.
