YOUNG SOLDIERS AT BETH-IDEN CHURCH

Lads Given Drill With Uniforms and Guns-What is Required of Recruits -Method of Improving Them in Manners and Morals.

'A soldier's cap and a soldier's gun have an Indescribable charm for a boy. Give him opportunity to don the military regalia and you will draw any American lad away from his marbles, base ball or the swimming pool without fail. What he longs for if you could look down in the bottom of his heart is a military career. At least, if this is not so, there is an institution in Omaha which, from its practical workings, seems to point to this as the only possible explanation of the ardor which and mates a small battalion of lads so thoroughly as to draw them together day after day for military exercises as exacting as those enforced at the United States government posts

It may seem a little singular for a church to engage in training boys in military tacties, but it promises to soon be such a common, everyday affair that the singularity will not be a matter of long continuance. The indications all point in the direction of seeing within a short time churches everywhere with their regularly organized brigades of boys, accoutered in military style, and going through the manual of arms like the soldier of the regular army. Not that the churches are seeking to raise an army of young military heroes and train the youthful mind to gloat over scenes of blood, but some of the foremost leaders in evangelical movements maintain that by some such method as this, whereby the boys are drawn together through this love of military work, a vast deal of and one way tickets to Florida at about half practical good can be accomplished for the the regular rates. Ask your ticket agent boys of this land, physically, mentally and about it, and if he cannot sell you excursion merally, which it would be impossible to accomplish by any other method. The Boys' senger agent, Louisville, Ky., or George B. Brigade has been the upshot of this theoriz-

THREE OF THEM IN OMAHA. There are three companies in Omaha of the famous United Boys' Brigade of America, the very latest movement in the way of practical effort for reaching the small lads of the country and throwing wholesome influences about them. The three companies are the result of the work of Rev. D. D. Odell of the Beth-Eden Baptist church. He has taken a lively interest in the particular line of philanthropic activity which is now sweeping over the east like wild fire, and lately made a special trip to Europe to study the workings of the move-ment. He came back enthusiastic in his bement. He came back enthusiastic in his be-lief in the possibilities of the movement from his studyings of the brigades of Scotland, England, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland and Switzerland. In consequence, about a month ago, the work of organizing a brigade in Omaha was begun.

First of all the movement had to be talked It was explained that boys, irrespective of religious belief, would be received as re-cruits and entered in one of the three prospective companies, according to their age; that the boys would be given neat caps and guns and be trained in the manual of arms and general military deportment; that they would hold meetings at least twice a month on Saturdays for regular training. There was to be nothing especially religious in the affair at all, although the expenses of the equipment were, of course, furnished by the church people. In-the space of a few days Mr. Odell was flooded with applications from boys of all ages and their parents who were besieged by the children for the word of consent allowing them to join the military company. Boys living as much as four miles from the church were recraited and have been regular in their attendance, in cases considering it no hardship to walk the entire distance for an hour's drill. Three companies were formed: Company

A. ranging in age from 10 to 12 years, under charge of Captain Lester Odell; company B. ranging in age from 7 to 10, under charge of Captain Gaybardy, and company C, consisting of the larger boys, under charge of James Eastman. Twenty-seven boys are allotted to each company. As the general commander of the three brigades connected with his church, Mr. Odell has seservices of Private Morris E. Eldridge of the fort.

UNIFORMS AND GUNS.

The regalia of the boys consists of a regulation military cap of blue for the older boys, together with guns somewhat under the regular size, but suitable to the needs of the boys, and such paraphernalia in th of swords as the command requires. The smaller lads are togged out with Tam O'Shanter kilts and caps of a flaming red color, tipped with a white feather. The boys thus arrayed cut quite a figure, and are the admiration of their girl friends, who usually gather in a crowd to watch the young soldiers go through their maneuvers whenever they display themselves on a fine day in dress parade on the church campus

One of the adjuncts to the brigade is the commissary department. It fills an important place in the eyes of the boys, and is believed by those in charge of the army to be one of the strong links which chain boys' affections to the army. At Beth Eden church rations have been served, consisting of sandwiches, sometimes, or crackers, or as was the case last Friday, upon the occa-sion of the special drill, pies, of which they had a dozen, together with two cakes and

The enlistment blanks state that the object of the Boys' Brigade is "The organization of boys with a view of a development of patriotism and piety." In making his application as a recruit each boy pledges this: "I prom-ise and pledge that I will not use tobacco or intoxicating liquor in any form; that I will Intoxicating liquor in any form; that I will not use profane, vulgar or indecent language; that I will obey faithfully all the company rules, and that I will at all times set an example of good conduct to my comrades and other boys." The application also contains a minute of the boy's age, address and the Sunday school to which he belongs, together with the parent's consent.

PRACTICAL WORKINGS OF THE PLAN. Mr. Odell is secretary of the Boys' Brigade for the state of Nebraska. He has in full charge all the organization work in this state. Recently he organized a brigade in Lincoln and has now many applications from various sections of the state. The Baptist church has taken hold of the movement chiefly, so far, though he states that it is undenominational and can be established in undenominational and can be established in any church or school house or Young Men's Christian association. "People make a mistake," said he, "in making a movement of this nature too religious. It will repel the boys. We are not a religious body, though we are not irreligious. The aim, you see, is to throw good influences about the young lads and teach them, as our constitution states, to be manly and patrictic. In my brigades I have Jews, Catholics, Bohemians, Germans, in fact everybody, including a number of street arabs. They all take an number of street arabs. They all take an interest, but if we made it a religious affair I do not think we could get the boys to leave their sports as they do now. The boys are not even required to attend Sunday school except twice a month, when in full uniform they attend church in a body. However, it has increased the attendance at every Sunday school greatly. Now school greatly. Now, as to the practical workings on the boy, I can say, in the first place, we allow no boy to enter the march unless his clothes are clean and his face, also, and his shoes blacked. Then, also, no boy can use bad language, or tobacco or liquor. In the third place, each boy is re-liquor. In the third place, each boy is required to obey orders when commanded to be present. We teach them the manual of arms and patriotism to their country, and we try to teach them devotion to God."

Mr. Odell explained that the movement had been started by Prof. Henry Drummend of Glasgow, who by this means had found an efficient way of reaching the street arabs of his city who would otherwise have been are registered at the Paxton.

occasion. Some came on bicycles, some on foot. When called into file they passed into church and gave their drill in the manual of arms, after which Mr. Odell and Mrs. J. H. Dumont gave them a short talk on the bibland patriotism. The brigade talks of making an encampment at Lincoln within a month.

From a sanitary standpoint, natural colors are to be recommended. Chemical dyes are injurious to the skin. However, your health is yours. Abuse it if you want to.

The bulk of our underwear is of natural coloring, but we have other shades, too-flesh color, cream color, gray, blue, brown tints, nile green and peacock blue.

The fancy shades are in lisle thread; they're seventy-five cents a garment; ought to be $1.25; they're worth it.

Cream coloring goes with balbriggan at 45c and 65c; finished with pure silk wristlets. $1.00 and 75c is what everyone sells 'em for; if it ain't so we'll apologize.

Twenty-five, thirty-five, forty-five (ought to be forty, sixty and seventy-five) is our main stronghold. Anything you like for these prices, plain, light, dark, mottled and fancy colorings. Balbriggan, Egyptian
