

SPEAKING FROM THEIR EXPERIENCE:

OMAHA, Neb., April 15, 1895.

MANY are the vexations that beset the busy cook. The problems that meet mistress and housekeeper every day are quite as trying. Any one thing, therefore, that will come to the aid of these often over-taxed people is hailed with satisfaction by all.

THE ROYAL BAKING POWDER is one of these things. The mistress is sure, even when the cook is left to her own devices, that no harm can ensue; and happy results will come from its use. Absolutely pure, and accomplishing the best results in the production of superior and most wholesome food, the use of this powder is most heartily endorsed by the following ladies of Omaha. To the excellence of the viands they serve, all their friends can bear witness:

Mrs. Henry B. Gates
Mrs. C. E. Gester
Mrs. L. M. Bennett
Mrs. Julian Buck
Mrs. Ben. B. Wool
Mr. George E. Pritchett
Mrs. Preston H. Allen
Mrs. J. B. Meredith
Mrs. J. C. Denise
Mrs. W. G. Maul

Mrs. Wm. P. Keyser
Mrs. J. R. Lowe
Mrs. Mary M. Pugh
Mrs. Charles Roswater
Mrs. Augusta B. Henderson
Mrs. L. N. Ferguson
Mrs. J. D. Rankin
Mrs. John Gordon
Miss Ethelwynne Kennedy
Mrs. J. M. Watson

No other Article of Human Food has ever received such emphatic commendation for purity, strength and wholesomeness, from the most eminent authorities, as the ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

No other Article used in the domestic economy of the household has so many enthusiastic friends among the housekeepers of America.
