Technical Terms Prove a Little Difficult for Her but She Sticks Vallantly to Her Post-How the Sporting Page Would Look in a Woman's Paper.

The last exhibition game of the season was played yesterday, and won from Lincoln by the Omaha boys. It was a good coin by the Omana boys, at was a good game, a fine day and every one present enjoyed it and went away pleased with the afternoon's entertainment. The Lincoln team fielded and batted well, but could not find Eagan's curves when a hit was needed to bring in a run. They were shut out up to the sixth inning, when hits by Hill, Kennedy and Sullivan and a home run by Ebright brought in three earned runs, which made the score a tie. But it didn't which made the score a tie. But it didn't stay a tie long, for Omaha's lucky seventh was at hand. Eagan, coming to the bat, got first on a fumble, Ulrich and Hutchison bunting the ball safe. A hit by Shaffer and a beautiful home run by Pace brought in five runs. Lincoln in their half scored one, which was the last run of the game, both sides being zeroed in the eighth and ninth. The score:

SOUVENIRS FOR THE LADIES.

Opening of the Season Tomorrow-O'Brien on First Base.

The championship season of the Western association in this city will be opened to-morrow at the Charles Street park at 3:15 p. m. The Quincy club will be pitted against the home club, and if good weather against the home club, and if good weather prevails no doubt the seating capacity of the grounds will be taxed to the utmost. The management is determined to make the opening day a gala one. There will be a parade of both clubs in carriages, headed by the band, through the principal streets, thence to the park, where both clubs will do battle for first honors. To show that they appreciated the large attendance of ladies at the games last year, the management will start this season by giving, on the opening date, a souvenir to each lady present; also a season pass to the lady who guesses nearest the number of paid admissions to the game. Guess must be enclosed in an envelope with address and dropped in the basket on entering the grand stand.

During the first championship game in Des Moines last spring, in the first part of the game, one of the players knocked the ball over the fence. Inexperience in the game led Prick, the owner of the club, to remarked: "It's too bad, after all those people have paid to see a game that it is over so quick." He remarked to a member of the association on the train one day that he had signed a new player and considered him very strong. When asked what position the player filled he said striking was his long suit, and wanted to know if it could be fixed with the other clubs so that this player could do all the "striking" for his club.

William O'Brien will play first base for prevails no doubt the seating capacity of his club.

William O'Brien will play first base for the Omaha club tomorrw. O'Brien should strengthen the club greatly where it was most needed. He is an experienced player in that position, having played with the Washington club and Western league. He is a first battern.

Derby favorities met. American horses were entered for several events.

The prince of Wales, the duke of Cambridge and a large party drove here from Sandringham this morning, and Lord Rosebery, the duke of Portland and a host of other notables were present.

Mr. H. McCalmont's Raconteur, a bay gelding out of Plaisantre, is an easy favorite for the One Thousand Guineas, which is to be run tomorrow, in splite of the fact that he is to meet Lord Rosebery's Sir Visto, who was formerly considered far superior to Raconteur, who was bought as a yearling for 3,000 guineas, and who did indifferently as a 2-year-old. But he has improved rapidly and an exciting contest is expected.

For the Two Thousand Guineas stakes, to be run on Thursday, only a small field is expected, and Mr. Daniel Cooper's Float, bay filly, by Sheen, out of Footlight, is regarded as a certain winner. The weather is splendid and good racing is looked for.

For the Visitors' welter plate, the first event on the program today, Mr. Richard Croker's Eau de Gallie and Mr. Michael F. Dwyer's Banquet were entered. All the American horses were heavily handicapped. The conditions of the trial plate were as follows: The Two Thousand Guineas trial plate of 200 sovereigns, 3-year-olds to carry ten stone ten pounds; 4-year-olds to carry ten stone ten pounds; if for £000, allowed twelve pounds; if for £000, allowed thirty-two pounds; if for £000, allowed thirty-two pounds; entrance fee, 5 sovereigns; course, the Rowley mile.

The result was as follows: Mr. Dwyer's bay gelding, Banquet, aged, by Rayon d'Or, out of Ella T. Simms up, eight stone, first; Legal Tender, bay colt, by Minting, out of Aureoline, seven stone eleven pounds, second; Esmond, bay horse, by Loveland Chief, out of Clarissa, carrying eight stone eight pounds, third. Seven horses ran, Chibiabos, a 3-year-old chestnut colt, cut out the work, closely followed by Banquet and Legal Tender, and 6 to 4 against Esmond.

Mr. Croker's Eau de Gallie and Mr. Dwyer's Banquet were scratched for the Visitors' w locks, clad in canvas garments adorned with mud and gore, pervade the grounds at Twenty-eighth and Dodge, and the air resounds with yells and jeering remarks impartially bestowed. The streets are gay with blazers, white trousers, bright parasols and generally festive attire of youths and maldens, on their way to see strong men chase the clusive tennis ball, or "put the innocent "stone" as far from them as possible. Roof room in the vicinity is at a premium, and the man occupying the colgn-er of vantage overlooking the tennis courts might make money is "so dispoged." The homes of Judge Lake and Lee Funkhouse are so near as to rouse suspicions of bribery and collusion. Sandy Griswold's house is near enough in case of a revolt of the fans, when he umpired, for him to bid his family an agitated farewell on the fly and reach The flee office in time to get a scoop on his loathsome contemporarica. The atmosphere is altogether sympathetic and athletic. Do you remember spunky little game-cock Robinson, with a chip on each shoulder. lilue Air, Disordered Hair and Long Speeches-How the Council Looked to a Woman-Long Grind and Short Imsiness.

WATER COMPANY STAKED ALL AND LOST

The city council has no excuse for not enjoying itself. The beautiful room, with its bright carpet and exquisite appointments, is a pleasant place, and it is an awful pity that men are not always able to strike the cuspidore. The city ought to pass a law compelling each member of the council to spend several weeks after his election in practicing this feat, so that he may be able to hit it at least as often as he misses it. Retrenchment was the order of the evening. and this is merely an item in carpets that was not mentioned. The cuspidore at the desk of the reporter was as bright and shining as any woman could wish, and of ample proportions.

Mr. France looked handsome and smiling. Mr. Cahn was alert and witty, and pale blue air is quite becoming to his blonde complexion. One of the charms of the council chamber is the color of the atmosphere; it varies from pale blue to dark gray, as the cigars are few or many.

The president has a very happy way of disposing of the business in the shortest possible time and acts as if he had grown quite accustomed to hearing men talk all the time. Mr. Millar was there, of course, and was polite and even kind to the reporter, handing her quite a little grind, already prepared.
Mr. Burkley and Mr. Jaynes seemed to understand matters from a straight business point of view, and to talk and vote accord-ngly.

The orators of the council, Mr. Howell and Jacobsen, were as flowery and persistent as orators generally are. We have them in the Woman's club, and knew what to expect, of ourse. Space forbids a stenographic report of the seventy or eighty speeches made by

The clerk is an object of pity. He must stand there and read at the top of his voice for hours and every now and then the speaker breaks in, "Brig's an-Viaducts," then another loud reading, while the members gossip and visit, then from the president, "Alleys and Crossings," and so on until even the women the gallery, who are trying to look as if they understand it all, begin to have a dazed

The mayor vetoed the water works approriation as follows: "I have vetoed an item in the appropriation rdinance under voucher No. 10,338, being the bill of the American Water Works company for hydrant rental for the six months ending January 1 of this year, amounting to $42,-162.04. The flimsy pretext that the receivers need spending the money in making improvements in their system is too ridiculous for notice. There is nothing in evidence to show that the United States court has con-sented to such an arrangement, and the re-ceivers have no power in the matter. This pretext, however, of itself furnishes further evidence, if any were necessary, in support of my position that the service has been utterly inedaquate in the past and that the system is incapable of supplying the service required by the contract."

Mr. Lemley made a strong speech in support of the veto and charged the American Water Warks.

Water Works company with various crimes.

Mr. Burkley was in favor of the veto and so stated in a convincing speech. Jacobsen and Jaynes spoke for the workingman—and both seemed much affected by their own elo-quence—while Mr. Saunders voted his honest sentiments—so be said. The roll call resulted: Yeas—Back, Bechel, Gordon, Jacobson, Jaynes, Prince, Saunders, Thomas—8. Nays-Burkley, Cahn, Holmes, Howell, Ken-

Mayor Bemis vetoed the resolution ap-pointing W. M. Carter as assistant to the clerk of the police court. He was upheld. The item in the appropriation ordinance in favor of Contractor Casey for meals furnished to city prisoners was also vetoed by the mayor, who recommended a reduction of $58.86. The veto was not sustained. The veto of the resolution locating a water-ing trough at Thirty-fifth and Leavenworth streets was overruled, Street Commissioner Kaspar's report relative to street cleaning by day labor advised the council to take action looking toward that end, and in this connection Holmes introduced a resolution providing that on the expiration of the present contract all street cleaning should be done by day labor by electors of the state of Nebraska. Both the report and the resolution were referred the committee on streets, alleys and boulevards.

The official bond of Mary L. Hibbard as custodian of the Byron Reed collection was approved.

Holmes introduced a resolution that men were running elevators in this city without a license. Referred to boiler inspector. Resolved that an appropriation be made to supply the city electrician with a testing room. Referred to committee on public property and buildings.

A resolution for repairing watering troughs in various parts of the city, to cost a total of $91, was passed by a vote of 15 to 2. A resolution appointing Mrs. Mary Luding-ton Hull a member of the library committee was unanimously adopted.

A number of resolutions for repairing streets in different parts of the city were read and adopted.
