THEY BLAME THE JUSTICE HAYDEN

Complaint that He Accepted Low and Worthless Ball in Case of Belsons Crime, The tension of feeling among citizens at Benson and Irvington continues at a high pitch over the Lauder incident. Knots of men were yesterday gathered about the stores discussing the escape of the accused man, whose bond was placed at such a low figure that he found it convenient to leave Omaha the day set for his preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Crosby. Some talked of tar and feathers, but the more frequent expressions related to a rope in the event of his capture.

Frank Hibbard and others of the neighborhood have prepared to make a showing be fore the county authorities for holding an investigation of the action of the justice of the peace. The charges will be preferred at the meeting held today by the Board of County Commissioners.

It seems that on Saturday, one week ago, a charge of assault was filed with this fustice against James Fadden. The constable G. H. Fitch, carried the warrant in his pocket for several days, when the case was dis-missed. In the meantime parties who had been working up the testimony in the case of assaults made from time to time, last winter by some wretch on defenseless women, believed that they had placed their mark on the real parties. They hastened down to the sheriff's office Sunday, and that evening Abrabam W. Lauder was arrested at his resi-Abraham W. Lauder was arrested at his residence at Forty-third and Burdette streets. The crowd was angry and threatening when it heard the news, but Lauder was lodged in jail to await identification. Miss Locke, however, was ill, and could not come to the city, so Lauder, who was held without a warrant, was arrested, a complaint being filed by Frank Hibbard with Justics Crosby, reciting that an assault and an attempt to reciting that an assault and an attempt ommit an assault had been respectively ommitted on Miss Carlson and Miss Locke This arraignment was at 12 o'clock Monday noon. The justice then asked Lauder if he wanted to give bonds, and Lauder said,

I guess I will put it at $500 in each case, said the justice. "Can you give that much? Attorney Day was present, representing the state, and objected, stating that the crime was o serious that the bond should be made much larger. The justice said that there was no evidence of guilt before him and he would not require anything more and suffered Lauder to depart with Constable Fitch. About 1:30 o'clock that afternoon Lauder returned with his brother, William Lauder, and gave the

No qualifications as to property were required. No examination was made to see whether Lauder was worth the sum named, except that the justice asked him, so the justice says, whether he was worth anything and Lauder said he was. The bond was accepted and Lauder released. The following day when Constable Fitch went to serve i warrant upon Lauder at his home, charging his with assault on a Miss Anderson, the constable says Lauder had flown. This state of affairs was not known, however, until the following day at 2 o'clock, when the witnesses to the number of a dozen gathered to identify Lauder and his wagon, which had certain peculiar marks. They were then for the first time informed that he had left. The crowd was excredingly angry, but made every effort to make up for lost time and some called on the commissioners and others went to the sheriff's office to see that rewards were of fered.

County Attorney Baldrige, when his atten tion was called to the bond, declared it an out rage that so small a bond should be require in a case where a helnous crime had bee charged. He says that the bondsman should have been required to qualify. In po-lice court all bondsmen were required to qualify in state cases and he knew of no rule which would except a justice court from such law.

Commissioner Williams expressed the sur prise the commissioners felt by stat-ing that in a misdemeanor case the bond Investigations as to Lauder's financial worth are to the effect that he is not financially re-sponsible for the amounts named in the bonds. though the justice says he declared to him that he had property when the bond was ac-

Justice of the Peace Crosby admits that in civil cases it is necessary to require sureties. North Twenty-fourth street, was started to qualify, but says that as the blank form Thursday. The defense offered the testimony of bond which he used did not have a property qualification he did not think it necessary to require one, especially did he not think i require a first class bond, as Lauder had not yet been proven guilty.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Peter F. Dalley, in "A Country Sport," supported by May Irwin, John G. Sparks, Ada Lewis, Andrew Mack, Maud Harris, Harry M. Morse, James Callahan, Belle Muni Charles Sturgis, Freda Depew and a dozen other eminent farcical comedians, opens a three nights' engagement at Boyd's theater on Sunday evening next. This is a bill that will arouse the lethargic lover of farce-comedy and cause him to prepare for some real old time fun. Briefly, this announcement presages the coming of popular "Pete" Dailey as a star. He has been often seen and admired as a clever comedian in the support of somother artists, but to welcome the genial Peter at the head of his own organization, in what is claimed to be the best of farce-comedies surrounded by a coterie of superb farceurs, will cause general joy, and when "A Country Sport" has been seen it is safe to say that there will be no cause to regret that Peter has launched forth on so pretentious an undertaking. The sale of seats will open at 9 o'clock

A genuine treat is in store for all lovers of light entertainment, and they comprise about nine-tenths of all patrons of the theater, in the performances to be given at Boyd's theater of "The Passing Show" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week. "The Passing Show" is one of those modern com-binations of all that is taking in the line of Passing Show" nonsensical diversion. One has but to glance over the list of names of those who appear in the production to become convinced that any claims of excellence that are put forward for he performance will be fulfilled. Here are names of those most prominent in the : Vernona Jarbeau, Lucy Daly, Madge Lessing, May Ten Broeck, John E. Hen-shaw, Gus Pixley, William Cameron, George A. Schiller, La Petite Adelaide, Seymour Hess, E. S. Tarr, Minnie Miller and Lida Lear. Besides these people there will be a great number of less conspicuous ability, who swell the company's membership to 100. The mounting of the piece will be as attractive as any other feature of it, and it is said for the COURT LAYS DOWN NEW LAW. Criminal Judge Will Exclude Admissions Made by Prisoners.

A decision was announced yesterday by the judge of the criminal section of the district court, which attorneys who heard it pronounce little less than remarkable. If carried out, the law as administered by the criminal section of the Douglas county court will be different from any in the land. Con fessions of criminals behind the bars, when made to officers of the law, are to be wholly being offered in evidence.

The trial of J. W. Carter, held for burglar-izing the premises of R. F. C. Ruhmor on of Dillon, a barber at 2309 Cumings street, who says he was present at the time Carter was arrested and heard the conversation of Carter with the officers. He tried to explain where he got the cigars in question and finally wound up by throwing a cuspidor at the officers. The court allows Dillon to re count the convergation, but the testimony of all officers of the law who have in their custody a prisoner who makes admissions hereafter the court said he would exclude. The police force is engaged in debating as to just what will be the consequences of this rule, if neither confessions of prisoners nor testimony in regard to admissions are admissible for the state, Detective Donahue, present as a witness, was asked how it would affect the cases brought by the state. "If we are not allowed to ask the prisoner any questions," he said "Or get any information from him in the way of admissions, at any rate we have done our duty and that relieves us of our responsibility and throws it somewhere else.

"The court holds that it is no part of an officer's duty to ask a prisoner questions. Take nine-tenths of the large cases all over the country, take the Hayward case, they all depend on confessions to prove the man's guilt. The courts hold the admissions and confessions made to an officer, whose duty it is to find the links of testimony connecting a prisoner with the crime, admissible in evidence. How would Sam Payne have been convicted had he not freely and voluntarily admitted his guilt?"

"It has always been the rule of law," said a prominent attorney, who is engaged in criminal practice and consequently did not wish his name used, "that unless it is shown that duress or threats were used in extorting the testimony admissions are admissible The reason given by the court for making his new rule was that the accused would be inclined to deny his admissions when he got on the stand and so would commit perjury.

The jury acquitted Carter, the negro charged with burglary, yesterday afternoon. Administration has been asked in probate court upon the estate of John Hokan An allowance of $150 a month has been made by Judge Baxter for the support of the

LAWYER IN THE TOILS. Charged with Negotiating Mortgage Upon

Mythical Property. Andrew Bevins, an attorney who offices it the Paxton block, was arrested by Sergeant Haze yesterday for obtaining money under false pretenses. The complainant is George Albrecht and the amount which Bevins is charged with fraudulently obtaining is

According to Albrecht's story Bevins came to him a few months ago and applied for a loan of the amount stated. He was accommodated and gave his note, the same being secured by a mortgage. The mortgage was signed by James Warner and Bevins represented that Warner had given him the mortgage to cover a debt of $45. Warner lived about six miles out of town and was the owner of the horse, buggy and harness which the mortgage purported to cover.

Recently Albrecht was unable to get the note taken up and fell back on the mortgage.

He then ascertained that the latter document was a fraud, that there was no such person as James Warner in the neighborhood design nated and that the property named in the mortgage was also fictitious. He swore out a complaint and Bevins was locked up.

$1.50--All Wool Boys' Suits--

A volume of excitement in the department, where these $1.50 boys' suits are.

Precisely what we expected. Very pleasant, too. We like activity-anything-buy, sell, chatter, entertain, come when you please, depart when you feel like. Buy if the deal is satisfactory, don't buy if you ain't thoroughly pleased. Just as you want to. Pleased to have you here at any time.

We've seen more ladies in the elevator ever since that $1.50 all wool suit was put on sale. Some of moderate circumstances and a good many who apparently represent wealth. That suit is good enough for any purpose, rather for the same purpose you invest $2.50 to $3.00 elsewhere.

. All wool smooth cheviot, 2 shades of gray, either will hide the results of michlevious playing, sewed as strong as any of our suits, made up as clean as the rest.

Chances are there won't be one left next week.

We did not like the idea of black and blue cheviot to represent a special $2.50 sale, although the coloring seems to suit, so we added several shades of light and medium colors. There! You have a big pick for your $2.50, good, honest $4.00's worth.

She said that he was a "horrid, nasty pig," but her aunt, with whom she was staying, sup-posed that her aversion to the dentist was on account of the pain that he had inflicted and did not inquire into it. Subsequently the little girl told her aunt the particulars of her exadvantage of the opportunity to take unwarrantable liberties with her, and, although he had not succeeded in his purpose, he had gone far enough to entitle him to a free ride out of

The facts were made known to Mr. Lay and few of his neighbors and Tuesday called on Jackman at his office. He did not deny his offense. He admitted that the deny his offense. He admitted that the declarations of the child were absolutely true and said that before God he could not tell what made him do what he had done. He was told that the best thing he could do was to leave town at once. He said that he could ot possibly go under a week, but he was induced to believe that he could not get out any too soon. No direct threats were made, but he was assured that the residents of the neighborhood were thoroughly aroused and that it would be very unsafe for him to remain over another night. The result was that is immediate belongings were at once packed and he left for Kansas City the same night. Yesterday it was reported that Jackman had returned, but if this is the case he is well concealed. The neighbors claim that a cost of tar and feathers would be the least that he would get if he were seen in Omaha again and it is thought that he will not take the risk of returning. Mrs. Jackman was pros-trated at first by his action, but now declares that her husband is the victim of persecution This theory is discounted, however, by his unreserved confession, which was given in the celerity with which he took to flight as soon as his misdeeds were made publ

Escaped from the County Jail. John Shee and J. White, who were con fined in the county jall, made their escape last Wednesday. They were engaged in the laundry in washing the fall clothing. Shee had seven days left on his sentence and White had six. White was under sentence for housebreaking. He had been in jail about ten months. His sentence, imposed last December, was for $100 and sixty days with costs. He stole a quantity of old clothes. Shee
