A meeting of the anti-Brown members was held in the morning and a share of stock was issued to George W. Hewitt, attorney for Willow and DeLes, and another share to Henry Stevenson. They were then made members of the board of di-rectors with the understanding that their stock was to be paid off in work.

Brown notified the other fellows that if they sold the stock which they issued to themselves the day before and paid for in worthless notes he would bring a criminal action against them. Willow and DeLee decided that the stock should not be issued

One very important thing to the welfare of the company is the possession of the fran-chise which was granted by the city council last Monday night. This ordinance is iss until Mayor Cleaver's signature is affixed. He has fourteen days in which to veto the prdinance, and there is not much doubt that it will be vetoed if the present appearance of fraud is not removed. Until the franchise is completed by the mayor the company will be able to sell very little stock and the career of the organization, which made such great promises, will be brought to a sudden end. It is probable that an application for a receiver will be made by Mr. Brown in the course of the next few days, although the ttachments have tied things up so effectually that there is no need of haste.

BID HAIL TO THE CHIEFS

Greeting to the First Returning of the Conquerors at Memphis.

Enthusiastic Escort from Depot to Armory Where Congratulation is Expressed by Mayor and the Boys Are Heard from Lefore Luncheon.

At the Union Pacific depot last evening Omaha's first greeting to the military heroes who won honors at Memphis was given, for at that hour the Gatling section of the Omaha enjoined, but afterwards settled regarding the Guards which carried off a first prize of $500 arrived.

The members were met by the First Regiment band, Mayor Bemis, members of the city council, High School cadets, Omaha Guards, veterans of the Omaha Guards, eight nembers of the Thurston Rifles, a crowd of spectators, and a number of ladies, who occupied a tallyho. As the train approached the depot the First Regiment band struck up "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." This was followed by a salute of three guns fired by the Omaha Guards. After a short delay in unloading the gun, the column was formed to march to the armory. In the following order the divisions marched up to the armory: High School cadets, the eight members of the Thurston Rifles, Veteran Omaha Guards, (alias Cane Brigane, alias Colonele), Omaha Guards, ladies in tallyho and the mayor and members f the city council in tallyho.

Leaving the station the column moved over the viaduct to Jackson, to Eleventh, up Eleventh to Farnam, to Fifteenth, north or Fifteenth to Douglas, east on Douglas Fourteenth, south to Farnam, west on Farnam to Sixteenth, north to Capitol avenue thence to the armory.

AT THE ARMORY

Mayor Bemis, on behalf of the citizens, welcitizens of Omaha felt proud on account of the way in which the boys had carried everything before them, and said that the achiev ment was rare Captain Mulford responded. He said that boys had all drilled hard and that they well deserved the trophies which they had Dean Gardner, chaplain of the Guards, comlimented them. He said he supposed that they would have taken the ground if they could have carried that off. Dean Gardner proposed three cheers for Memphis, which were given with a will. Then followed the luncheon which Mrs Mulford, assisted by a number of ladies, had prepared. The boys say that they were treated with every courtesy, and, in owned the town. A very pretty floral tribute in the shape of a heart, presented by Miss Hues of Memphis, was among the pretty decorations on the flag.

SHOWING OF THE VETERANS. The veteran Omaha Guards (or as they will be in the future known, the Colonels) cut quite a dash, with their long canes deco-rated with the yellow and purple ribbons, as they marched along the streets. Colonel Dakin, with his sixteen-foot broom decorated with ribbon, was quite an important factor at the head of the Colonels. The broom brigade from the offices of Paxton & Gallagher was one of the features noticeable on the line of march. Among the ladies who ably assisted Mrs. Mulford were Mesdames Purvis, Dakin, Pix-ley, Connaut, Parrish, Squire and Misses Williams, Wheritt, Manchester, Walker, Wollenhaupt, Hentoon, Blessing, Herbert, Marty, Dunham, Werhner, Standish, Dolan, Norris, Eram. The following members af the veteran Guards were in line: Captain Ten Eyck, First Lieutenant Webster, Second Lieutenant McAllaster, First Sergeant Gregory, Second Lieutenaut Squires, Dakin Allen, Allen, Bryans, Belt, Burleigh, Bur meister, Berlin, Boyelle, Cook, Campbell Coe, Conklin, Guckert, Goodman, Hull, Johnson, Kennedy, Kemper, Landegren, Lawrence, McCormack, Murray, Morse, Potter, Stevens, Searle, Seiffert, Simpson, Touzalin,

Farmer Tebeau had been in Illinois for ome little time on business and arrived in the city yesterday on his way home. He was strolling about the depot platform, looking out upon the bright and beautiful world, when a nice appearing stranger engaged in conversation with him. The two were delving deeply into the mysteries of crop raising when an individual hurriedly approached Farmer's new friend and asked ome money to pay express charges on his baggage, offering him a check as security. Farmer's friend expressed his sorrow that he had no money and then suddenly turned upon Farmer and asked him how much he had. Farmer had $15-the very amount, the stranger remarked, he needed. There is no need of detailing the operation further. The stranger departed with Farmer's $15, his new acquaintance suddenly dropped him and mehow the world appeared a little gloomier to Farmer Finally it got so gloomy that Farmer unbesomed himself to a peliceman and discovered that he had been beautifully worked. Then Farmer went to the police station and was given a square meal and a night's lodging, for he had been worked for all he had. He was unable to give more of a de-scription of the confidence men than that one was short and the other a little taller, and that one had on a brightly polished pair of square toed shoes, the unusual brilliancy of which had probably engrossed Farmer's attention.

Prisoner Charged with Burglary Released Because State Was Not Ready.

JURY SWORN BUT NO WITNESSES THERE

They Were Visiting in Iowa and Subpoenas Issued Three Days Refore Had Not Been Served-Jury Instructed for Defendant.

William Ryan, who was held for trial on the charge of burglary, was released in the criminal court yesterday afternoon. The witnesses to prove the commission of the crime were not on hand.

Ryan was charged with burglary at the residence of J. H. Watson in April and obtaining therefrom a $10 overcoat and a $6 jacket. Detective Savage was inceased that Ryan should be released, stating that he believed a good case could be made out. Watson and his family, however, failed to appear at 2 o'clock when the trial was Assistant County Attorney Winter crose and stated that the witnesses were not on hand, The judge of the criminal section of the district court instructed a verdict for the It appears that Watson is in Iowa on week's visit. He lives at Twenty-first an California streets, where the burglary was committed. Mr. Winter states that he had been engaged in the trial of three cas to this one and depended on the bailiff to g the witnesses on hand when the case we set for trial and did not learn until the tri was taken up that the witnesses had not be found. The subpoenas had been given to sheriff three days ago, he said, and he s posed that the witnesses would be in couready to prove the case, having depend an another department to get his witness At the sheriff's office it was ascertaine that the subpoenas had not yet been returns and would not have been until evening. In this particular case they were being held in the hopes of catching the parties, though subpoenas had also been left at the resident the sheriff states, as required by law.

HE WAS NOT THE RIGHT PARTY Service on the Wrong Man in a Squatter Ejectment Suit.

It develops in the squatter cases that the wrong man has been sued. Joseph Pospenshill was merely boarding at the house of his sister-in-law, so he inyesterday afternoon upon the usual victim, a forms the court in an answer he has just genuine farmer with a bushy bunch of filed to an ejectment suit brought by the whiskers under his chin. His name is An- First National bank of Chicago, which is seeking to oust him from the possession of a much litigated strip of property fronting on the Missouri river. He alleges that the bank made a mistake when it served its ejectment papers on him, that he not only makes no claim to the property at the present time but never has made any. Pospenshill has so small an interest in the attempt of the First National bank of Chicago to oust him from his rights in the premises that a short time since he left on a trip to Germany, instructing his attorney to enter up a dis-claimer in the case. He admits, however laimer in the case. that his sister-in-law for eleven years past has been living on the property plains his having been seen premises by stating that he was a constant boarder with his sister-in-law, a widow, to whom he paid board regularly every week The property in question is a bit of accretion soil about 200 feet square, situated in the squatters' heaven on lower Leavenworth street and vicinity. For years past the bank has been trying to get possession of the land. The city also, with an idea of clearing its streets in that vicinity of some houses, hired an attorney to offer the various squatters $50 each to vacate. It is charged that they took the money gladly, but the permanent clearing of the property has been a problem, as the parties appear to have always felt free to come and go. Old settlers can recall the time when there was no land at that point, except beneath the waters of the river. At just about this point the ferry d to run from Omaha in a northeasterly direction to Council Bluffs

Case tiets a Backset. The Marrow-Hespeler fight in district court has received a setback at the hands of Judge Ambrose. He refused to entertain two motions made by the plaintiffs, one asking that the verdict in the case be set aside, and the in court so long that the details relating the fight between the two in the house of th former are well known. For being beaten with an ax and other weapons, the former her sister, who is now dead. This verdict Judge Ambrose set aside. When tried again the case was lost. The overruling of the present motions means that the fuses to re-establish the first, or $4,000 ver dict, and also refuses to settle a bill of exceptions in the case so as to appeal to the supreme court. These Want the Canal Another petition of intervention in the canal mardamus suit has been filed in the district court.
