WELSHAN'S CREDITORS LEFT

Suit for Balance on Fort Crook Plumbing Contract Won by Bondsmen. DECISION BY JUDGE AMBROSE YESTERDAY. Some of the Creditors So Disgusted that They Will Give Up the Fight While Others Will Appeal—Winners Object to a Labor Bill.

The first chapter in the history of the scramble among the creditors of J. L. Welshan & Co. has been closed. A decision was rendered yesterday by Judge Ambrose, which in all points but one gives the bondsmen...

The history of the suit, it is claimed, shows that the United States government is a hard party to deal with and that its insistence upon having the contract completed in a certain way ran the cost to $7,000 above the estimated expense of doing it...

The house was one of the very shabby, passers that abound in that quarter. The very narrow area was railed over and it was three floors, the lowest indented by the door and one window, and the other two by two windows each—mean and dirty all...

When Patterson and Kent were completing the contract the creditors asked them how they could do it and they told them the estimated amount, but it appears that the material men hold $25,000 of claims and so are proportionately anxious to get hold of the $7,000 still due on the contract...

Whoever sees this, and is in any trouble, send a stamp to the only great clairvoyant in Omaha, N. D., who has no questions, but is illuminated by travel. Win. Garfield, 225 4th ave., Des Moines, Ia. This offer three weeks.

THE CHRONICLES OF MARTIN HEWITT. CHAPTER IV. We got rid of our collars and made checkers of our ties. We turned our coat collars up at one side only, and then, with dented hats worn raffishly and our hands in our pockets...

point of a knife was put against his throat and held there, but this time he did not faint, but cried softly, as a man who is drunk, 'Je la nie, je la nie!' So they tried a handkerchief about his neck and twisted it till his face grew purple and black, and his eyes were round and terrible, and then they struck his face, and he fainted again...

There were four men in the room. The light was removed, and a policeman went to the door and opened it as soon as the bell rang. Three men stepped in, one after another, and the door was immediately shut behind them. They were prisoners.

They were left quietly, and, although we, of course, expected that the management and the law would be heard absolutely that the largest array of anarchists ever made in this country was made at the Bakunin club night was made as he came was admitted and—collared.

EDITOR BAKER ON TRIAL. Gabbitt's Alleged Visits to Forbidden Haunts Being Investigated. Before the criminal court, the investigation of the question of what Joseph Gabbitt, ex-foreman of the late grand jury, was doing when he was alleged to have visited a prohibited place in Omaha, has been taken up for consideration...
