At the close of the seventh inning in yesterday's game, when the score was everyway in Omaha's favor, Old Grandpa Traffley gathered his little flock about him on the bench and informed them that this would have to stop. He said that if the Indians were allowed to make it three straight he would never be able to hold up his little head among the prohibitionists again, and with tears in his eyes told them that he would put a rope around the neck of every mother's non of them and drop them into oblivion if the game was lost.

Then when the inning began Grandpa stood upon the side lines and cast a hypnotic spell upon Eagan, Ulrich and Schaffer. It was enough. In a short dozen minutes eleven great big juicy runs rolled across the plate, each with a velocity that would put the Kid Edghill in the shade, and Grandpa crowed the little crow of his second child-

For three innings the game was as pretty a one as one ever expects to see. Then Omaha began to tumble to the intricacles of Andrews' delivery, and at the end of the sixth he commenced to wonder whether life was worth living. To spare his feelings further Grandpa gently buried him and sent into the box a long, lanky, lean Cockroach. Eagan pitched a good game up to the eighth inning, when eight hits were made off him, but the miserable support he received was enough to make a wooden Indian grow weary. Look at the error column.

Tuesday was pay day, see? Old Joe Waish appeared in the diamond again, this time for Des Moines, and put up a fine article. Traf says he is going to make him captain. Voris did not do as well as yesterday. He made a couple of bad base de-

SEMI-FINALS IN THE DOUBLES PLAYED

Collingham and Harte and Haskell and Austin Left to Compete for the Closing Honors-Harte and Cullingham in the Singles.

The wind interfered a great deal with the play yesterday afternoon in the city tennis tournament matches. The gusts that swept over the courts from all points spoiled many strokes that would otherwise have scored points, and they also raised so much dust that the players were frequently unable to gauge the balls correctly and made bad returns. This condition of weather also kept many people from attending, but with all the discomfort of dust and wind those that were present were fully repaid by the brilliant work that was often done.

The matches that were schuduled were the semi-finals in both the singles and doubles. and all the games were well contested, although, as was stated above, the wind interfered considerably with the play. The fact that the wind seemed to come from every direction and also the usual changing of the contestants from one end of the court to the other after every set gave the advantage to neither player. In one of the matches tween two players over this matter, one of them apparently believing that he was get ting the worst of it, but, fortunately, i was not carried to extremes. Young and Bannister rarely did this.

The first set was won by Cullingham and Harte, and then Bannister and Young got the following two in quick order, having several ove games to their credit. Their play in these two sets was brilliant. In the other two sets they played badly in comparison, and lost them as quickly as they won the Haskell's play was always good and some-times brilliant. The net play of both was very good. They both placed balls excellently, sometimes finding their opponents asleep. Neither, however, played their strongest game, preferring to allow their points to be made for them by their opponents than to go after them. A large number of balls were sent out of the lines by both Bancker and Findlay, especially the former. Occasionally they made a pretty stroke or return, but not frequently enough to put the Cullingham was saving himself for the doubles in the evening and consequently did not exert himself as much usually does. Harte also won from Haskell in the single after three sets had been played. Haskell played a very good game, as also did Harte, and the rivalry between the two made the match very interesting.

The results yesterday were as follows: Singles-Harte beat Haskell, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4 Cullingham beat Wallace, 6-2, 6-4.

Doubles—Cullingham and Harte beat Ban-

Today the finals in both the doubles and singles will be played. In the latter Culling-ham will meet Harte in the afternoon. At 6.15 this evening Cullingham and Harte will meet Haskell and Austin in the doubles. The matches will undoubtedly be hard fought, for considerable rivalry exists between all of the players.

cup, arrived here from Southampton today and were greatly pleased with the quarters which Commodore Hastings of the Cornell navy secured for them, on a hill at Underwood, a pretty little place overlooking the Thames and situated about a quarter of a mile from here. The two paper shells arrived here with the crew, and after they had been carefully examined evrybodly was pleased to see that they had sustained no damage during their trip across the Atlantic. The weather this afternoon is beautiful, and the visitors gathered in force on the banks of the Thames when the crews took their first spin over the course. The young men created a favorable impression among the onlookers, but the expert Britishers ashore expressed the opinion that they were too light.

A representative of the Associated press had an interview during the morning with a member of the Cornell crew, who said: "The beys are delighted with the course. It is a direct contrast to our canal, which afforded casy rowing."

When asked about the slleged lightness of the crew, he remarked: "They were selected with that very thing in view. If we win here we must do so in a spurt, and the lightness will be an advantage. The boys are greatly pleased with all of Hastings arrangements."

Commodore W. T. Hastings of the Cornell navy said: "Wa have our own servants, do our own catering and cooking, and the house selected for the quarters of the crew in in every way convenient and healthy."

Mr. C. S. Francis, manager of the Cornell crew, expressed similar views regarding the prospects of the crew and their accommodations.

LONDON, June 7.—Sporting Life says that the comparative shortness of the stroke of the Cornell crew was the first thing that attracted the attention of the ordicaters when the Americans took their first spin over the course. The methods of propulsion are entirely different from that adopted here. The shells are very pretty crafts.

He said it such a the newspaper reports. He said if such a challenge had been sent the chances for a meet are pergagood.

G. B. K. Wade, president of the Track Athletic association, said he had not received any challenge. It was not possible, he added, to tell whether a meet could be arranged, although personally he is in favor of it. The faculty must be consulted, and Harvard's consent is also necessary. Besides this, Oxford might impose conditions which would not be acceptable. If, however, all these difficulties were removed, he thought a meet could be arranged.

moved, he thought a meet could be arranged.

At the Yale conference this evening the only topic of conversation, aside from a few remarks on tomerrow's examination, was the Oxford-Cambridge challenge. Officers of the Athletic association have received no official communication as yet, but all express themselves as favorably disposed to accept should Harvard be willing and the terms satisfactory. Lewis P. Sheidon, the newly elected captain, said: "For some time I have known that the Oxford and Camb I ge and orities were desirous of sinding over the team. I personally desire such a meet, but, of course, the advisory committees and graduates will be consulted before any definite action will be taken, should the challenge be received. The reception given us in England lost summer makes us feel warmly toward our English cousins, and we will take pleasure in giving them a true Yale welcome."

lenge of Oxford and Cambridge universities to Harvard and Yale for an intercollegiate meeting in this country next September has not yet been received by Harvard. M. W. Bonham, captain of the Harvard Track athletic team, is out of town. Members of the team who were seen knew nothing about the challenge, except what was contained in the Associated press dispatches. They thought it was rather doubtful if Harvard would participate in a meeting next September. The athletic team went out of training immediately after the intercollegiate games in New York on May 35, and in order to enter a meeting next September would have to resume training in August. Some of the athletes thought, however, that Harvard might decide that the opportunity to meet the Englishmen on this side of the water was too-good to be lost, and in order to take part in the contests, Harvard's best men might train specially. In view of the fact that Yale is now intercollegiate champion, Harvard will undoubtedly wait for the New Haven men to take the initiative in the matter of accepting or rejecting the challenge. Harvard men would like very much to take part in a meeting such as that proposed, but the athletes generally consider the time suggested as very inconvenient. As far as could be learned tonight, no one at Harvard has received the challenge from Oxford and Cambridge. Although Captain Bingham has been absent all day, it is thought the challenge he would have at once forwarded it to Prof. Ames, chairman of the Harvard athletic committee. The general verdict on the campus tonight was that the challenge will not be accepted by Harvard when it arrives.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Charles Sherrili, ir., the Yale athlete, a member of the Yale graduate committee on track athletes, was somewhat surprised today when shown a dispatch to—the, effect that Oxford and Cambridge had cablest a challenge to Yale and Harvard. Mr. Sherili said: "The challenge has not been received, as far as I know. It may be sent to the undergraduate committee, where it belongs. If it should be sent to me it will be referred to the Yale and Harvard undergraduate committee. Our committee, which is composed of Walter Camp. Alexander Cox and myself, act only in the capacity of an advisory committee to the undergraduates, with whom the final decision rests. At the annual meeting of the intercollegiate association, field in February, the suggestion to send a team to England was discussed. I opposed it for several reasons. Public interest would be centered in the Cornell race, and it would be very difficult to select a trainer. Altogether it seems to me the matter was inopportune.

Altogether it seems to me the matter was inopportune.

"I can very well understand why the universities were unable to accept the challenge of the University of Pennsylvania that winners of the Mott Haven games be allowed to compete in England with a team selected from Cambridge and Oxford. PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The University of Pennsylvania, having been instrumental PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The University of Pennsylvania, having been instrumental in the issuing of the challenge to Oxford and Cambridge, naturally feels chagrined at the action of the athletic committees of the two English colleges in refusing to meet the winners of the intercollegiate games. E. R. Ellis, a leading member of the University of Pennsylvania athletic committee and the framer of the resolutions, said to a representative of the Associated press that the resolutions expressly stated that the Englishmen were at liberty to select their representatives from any college in Great Britain. He further stated that Secretary Geyelin of the University of Pennsylvania committee had received a letter from Secretary Jackson of the Oxford athletic committee in which the latter stated that the resolutions were perfectly satisfactory and that he saw no reason why the meet should not take place. Mr. Ellis said it looked to him as if the Englishmen had waited until they saw the records of the intercollegiate is winners before replying to the challenge. nsylvania, having been instrumental

Betting on the Manchester Cup Race LONDON, June 6.—The absence of rain has made the Manchester course very hard and some suprises may be in store when the great handicap for the Manchester cup and some suprises may be in store when the great handicap for the Manchester cup of £2.00 is run at Manchester tomorrow. Following is the betting and a list of probable starters: The prince of Wales' Florizel II, 7 to 2; Gottschalk's Cypriak, 5 to 1; P. Buchanan's The Docker, 8 to 1; J. H. Houldworth's Busy Pārk, 8 to 1; Nashel's Camaranajo, 9 to 1; Leopoid Rothschild's Rodmont, 10 to 1; M. A. Dwyer's Banquet (Simms), 10 to 1; Cohen's Greelawn, 12 to 1; Sir Thurston's Convent, 12 to 1; Blake's Rock Dove, 12 to 1.

The handicappers have given Florizel II, the 4-year-old of the prince of Wales, the top weight, eight stone, while the American horse, Dwyer's Banquet, also carries eight stone. The sharp bends for which the Manchester course is noted, are regarded by many as being unfavorable to Simms' peculiar style of riding, but Banquet has been very freely supported, and if he starts it is believed in many quarters he will have the race at his mercy. Camarananajo, just purchased by Captain Marsiall for £1,500, has many admirers.

The Sportsman says Banquet is thought a certainty or next to a certainty by the American party. Even Dwyer himself could not have wanted to see him better handicapped.

The interest that is being manifested in this race exceeds anything of the kind ever known here, with the exception of the first professional race in 1887 and the first ladies' At 9:30 last night there wasn't a vacant seat in the house, but up to this time there had been nothing of a surprising or sensational nature. Morgan dropped quietly out of the chase on his 174th mile, leaving only Holloway, Fredrickson, Gadke and Heinzman to dispute the triumphal onward whirl of the Wonjerful Kid. Both Fredrickson and Hollowsy made numerous altempts to take a lap from the messenger boy, but it availed them nothing. He was watchful as a fox, and would not be caught napping. The two big fellows would make a spurt, but no matter how desperately they worked the Wonderful Kid clung to them with the tenacity of the Old Man of the Sea to hapless Sinbad's neck.

and when he felt like it he shot past them like an arrow from the bow. They finally got tired of the fruitless undertaking and for a full hour were content to "apar for wind." Chasing the kid was "to "apar for chasing a phantom. The result was that the crowd was treated to a rather monotonous exhibition. Still it seemed to enjoy it im nensely, and at the slightest provocation nade the big building fairly quaver and quake with cheers of approval and encouragement Several available special prizes will be of fered tonight for the encouragement of the

The finish last evening was another hair raiser, and Fredrickson won. The Kid be-gan the spurt fully five minutes before the closing hour and Fredrickson was consequently enabled to beat him out on the final lap and thus gets the special prize, a handome step watch. Score:

TERRIFIC DUMP AT ST. LOUIS.

Hotly Played Horses in the Mississippi Valley Stakes Beaten by a "Dog." ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The talent could only pick three out of the six winners at Fair Association park today. Weather beautiful; track fast. Attendance, 4,000. The event of the day was the Mississippi Valley stakes, a sweepstakes for 3-year-olds and upwards, valued at $2.00. There was a hot tip out on Corrigan's The Ironmaster, who was said to have been shipped here to win the event. He was jumped on by the sports and backed down from even money to 7 to 19 in a short time. Later the price went back to even money, and many thousands were put up at these figures. Sumo, Duillo and The Kitton carried snug sums, and Wekota was heavily played at 3 to 1 toward the last. The Ironmaster got off fourth, but was pocketed for a while. Ben Lomond took the lead and burned the track to the head of the stretch, when he dropped out of it, and Pocahontas and The Ironmaster had an argument for first place until nearing the wire, when San Blas, a 100 to 1 shot, who had been lost in the ruck all the way around quietly slipped out and passed the leaders in a drive, winning the event by a length. He positively identified Howard as being one of the men who did the job, but was not sure that Frank was the other, although he said that he thought he was. Both of the men refused t talk, but it is the opinion of the they are the two men who cracked the safe Detectives Savage and Dempsey are entitle o the credit of discovering the men and the whereabouts, if the prisoners are the right men. They received information on Thursday night from a resident of Bellsvue that four suspicious characters were hanging about Mclarthy's place. From the descriptions given the detectives immediately jumped to the con-clusion that two of the men were the safe-

When the officers left the train at Belle vue one of them noticed Vic McCarthy standing by. They kept out of sight, and as the train was pulling out two men sprang from behind a string of freight cars that were standing near by and ran toward the train. The officers ran out to meet them, and as soon as the men saw them they drew weapons, but before they could shoo they were overpowered. While the fight was going on Vic McCarthy took to his heels and escaped in the woods. The two men who were captured were Frank and Howard.

BUT 2 DAYS REMAIN

In Which to Consult the Magnetic Healers Now at the Paxton Hotel.

No New Cases Will Be Taken for Treatment After Saturday, June 8th.

The past two weeks our city has been electrified and dumbfounded by a strange and most wonderful occurrence. Two young men, known throughout the world as the Human Magnets, have daily been accomplishing cures of the most chronic and ag-gravated cases that have for years defied the skill and ability of the most eminent and learned practitioners. In fact, so truly marvelous and phenomenal have been many of the cures effected that doubt and skepticism no longer exist, especially in the minds of those who attended any of their public demonstrations at the opera or who have taken the trouble to investigate for themselves. The incredulous of whom there were hundreds prior to the public exhibitions-have been forced mit that Animal Magnetism in the hands of these Human Magnets possesses the most unlimited curative properties of any treatment now known to the medical world. Words fail to do justice to the many touching and pathetic scenes which daily and hourly transpire in the private parlors of the Magnetic Healers at the Paxton hotel, as the blind, lame, sick and crippled emerge from the treating rooms to join their anxious friends in the parlors, their step more firm and elastic and their faces beaming with smiles and satisfaction, they realize for the first time in years that finally there is hope of their sure and permanent restoration to a life of health and happiness, and that greatest of all blessings-health-to be accomplished without the use of medicines.

There has never been a medical practitioner in this part of the country who has caused the excitement and comment that have been occasioned since the advent of these Magnetic Healers in this city some honey, and Fritz Frank were arrested at two weeks ago, and it is no wonder that Vic McCarthy's place near Bellevue and such has been the case, for the cures performed, not only upon the public stage, be-fore thousands of the best citizens of Omaha, but at the Paxton hotel in private, have never been equaled by any other mode times more Magnetism than the average man, and the wonderful cures accomplished are all produced by the transfusion of this Magnetic force from one of these Magnets o the patient.

While it has been extensively advertised that patients would only be taken for treatment the first week, or from June 3d to June Sth. there still exists the Idea among many that because the Human Magnets will remain in Omaha at the Paxton hotel one month, or to June 30th, that patients will be taken during that time. Therefore, o correct such impressions, it is now stated that NO NEW cases will be taken for treatment AFTER SATURDAY, JUNE STH. Those who desire private treatment and are able and willing to pay for same may call at the Paxton hotel THIS WEEK ONLY, to Saturday, June 8th, where consultation, a vice and examination will be given entirely free.
