CHENG TU RIOTS SPREADING

Place is One Which Has Just Been Opened to Foreign Commerce Under the Chinese-Japanese Treaty, Which Likely Angered the Inhabitants.

SHANGHAI, June 10 .- No definite news has yet been received here in regard to the thus carelessly thrown away was urgently latest report concerning the fate of the missionaries at Cheng Tu, capital of the province of Sachuen, who are said to have been massa-cred. It is known however, that serious cred. It is known, however, that serious rioting occurred recently at Cheng Tu, but affairs there have since been reported quiet, although the rioting was spreading in the country southward. The report of the total destruction of the missions of Cheng Tu, Kia Ling and Yoa-che-bu has been confirmed. The local officials for the total performance must be explored protection to the interest allied to the voters, not men whose interests lie chiefy in Ber-int, among people without an area of land or without a blade of corn to their names. He advised the agrarians not to give their votes to any one desirous of becoming a public minister, not to vote for any one whose wife wished to shine in Berlin society. From people of this character come the burrs who st ck fast to ministerial posts. It is useless to explore them to chamion agricultural in-tary. cred. It is known, however, that serious refused protection to the missionaries until the mob completed the work of demolishing the buildings. The mission stations at other places have been threatened. About twenty adults, besides a number of children, have taken refuge at Chong Tu and Yamen. Viceroy Ling is blamed for the affair.

wASHINGTON, June 10.-The Chinese le-gation has received no news as to the re-stand shoulder to shoulder against the drones po ported massacre of all the missionaries in-Cheng Tu, and strong hopes are entertained that the affair may be less serious than the meager reports indicate. It is stated at the legation that Cheng Tu is a large city in the interior of China. The people are far removed from centers of foreign commerce, such as Canton and Shanghai. Recently, however, by the treaty of peace with Japan. this interior city was one of several places to be opened to foreigners and foreign com-merce. This no doubt, it is stated, has agimorece. This no doubt, it is stated, has agi-tated the people who have lived by them-selves from time without remembrance. It is said that the number of m ssionaries, in-cluding their families, in the entire province of Se Chun, of which Cheng Tu is the capi-tal, must be less than 100, including all nation-alities. The missionaries' headowarters are at tal, must be less than 100, including all nation-allities. The missionaries' headquarters are at Cheng Tu, where it is believed there are not exceeding ten missionaries, the rest being scattered through the province. But this estimate is based on the general information of Chinese officials, as there are no exact details of the extent of the missionary serv-ies through China. The Taung Li Yamen sought to secure from each foreign government a complete 1st of the missionaries and their places of service, but this was not given. It is said that the emperor of China and the Tsung Li Yamen have given every possible protection to the missionaries, although it has been found impossible to guard against mob violence, par-ticularly at remote interior points. The Chinese government has asked foreign governments to appreciate these difficulties and has advised that the missions should be kept within safe limits, but the zeal of the miswinner is has led them to push inward with-out fear of results to points where the Chinese officials have had difficulty in affording full protection

VICEROYS HELD RESPONSIBLE. VICEROYS HELD RESPONSIBLE. Notwithstanding this, the authorities at Peking have done their utmost. They have placed upon the vicars of the provinces the responsibility of protecting the missionaries, churches, etc., the viceroys understanding that they will be degraded if mobs are permitted to disturb the missions. As a result, the viceroys and their prefects or police are active in restraining mob outbreaks. The official gazette of China, recently received here, shows that a change has been made in the terms of the transfer, embodying as does the Utah Southern, a property which has not paid operating expenses. Our people feel satisfied with the terms of the order as made by Judge Merritt and if it is accepted by the American Loan and Trust company it must be done at great cost to that corporation. The American Loan and Trust company, through its attorneys, has fought the co-receivership idea from the beginning, and this, coupled with the interest feature of the order, which is along the lines out-lined by the attorneys for the first mortgage interests, receivers of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line will probably prove too much of a load for the receivers to carry. The story that The Bee published yesterday advancing that theory was fully corroburated by the evidence that was discovered during the day, and was finally and positively proven by the confessions of both Ish and his wife, who decided to tell at least a part of what they know of the killing of Chapple.

During the early part of the day Ish perdsted in maintaining the story he told at the time he was arrested, to the effect that the dead man had been killed by his wife. His wife seconded him by giving the same ac-count of the shooting. In giving the details of the tragedy the Consequently, when Chapple came to the house at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, ostensibly to fix a sewing machine, he felt satisfied that he came to meet Mrs. Ish. The suspicion was strengthened by the evident fact that Chapple did not expect to find him at home, because when he saw Ish he remarked that he had called to fix the machine, but had decided to let it go to the following day. Ish insisted, however, that he should do it at once.

After Chapple was scated before the ma-chine in the bedroom Mrs. Ish told Ish to go down to the cellar for kindling wood. Ish left the rison, but instead of going into the cellar he got his revolver, and in a few minutes re-turned and opened the door of the room.
