SECRETARY GILLAN'S FIGURES. According to the figures given by Secretary Gillan of the Board of Education the school funds will be a practically nullity until the receipts from salcon licenses are in. The payment of the interest obligations, which mature June 25, will practically eat up the balance which now remains in the treasury. The receipts of taxes during July should be about $40,000, but as there are outstanding about $40,000, but as there are outstanding warrants which aggregate this amount, the finances of the board will be very nearly at zero mark August 1. The receipts for the balance of the year will aggregate about $70,000, divided as follows: Taxes, $40,000; state apportionment, $20,000; police courfines, $5,000; peddlers and miscellaneous, $5,000. Out of the August receipts will be substracted the expenditures for the necessary vacation regains to the school buildings. sary vacation repairs to the school buildings. These amounted to $11,960 last year and will These amounted to $11,000 has year and win probably run about the same this year. The fall term of school will begin in September and for the remaining four months of the year there will be the regular expenses of the schools, which run up to $35,000 per month. From this it is apparent that alternative his board will sart out with a small though the board will start out with a small balance September 1, the expenses of the schools will be so much greater than the receipts that the balance will soon disappear and the fund will be $30,000 short when the saloon licenses begin to come in. Only a few months of the year, and there is no apparent way in which the heaviest balance at any time could reach $25,000.

Cadet Taylor, chairman of the finance com-mittee of the council, said he was not able to say just how the city funds would stand during the remainder of the year, but he thought a bond for from $600,000 to $800,000 would be amply sufficient to cover any pos-mible contingency. Placing the city bond at the latter figure and that of the school fund would make a total bond of 900, or $300,000 less than the one given

CITIZENS' MOVEMENT FAVORED Executive Council of the Municipal League

Endorses the Idea. The citizen's movement was endorsed by a upanimous vote of the executive council of

it. At his suggestion Secretary Byrnes read the declaration of principles upon which the citizens' movement bases Its campaign and which demanded reform in local government by the election of men to office who would conduct the affairs of the city with the same care and attention that was bestowed upon private enterprise. They condemned the sectarian element in politics and pronounced for public ownership of the franchised corporations.

After some discussion Mr. F. M. Richard son moved that the league indorse the citizen platform and give its support to the movement. He contended that there was no member of the league who would not indorsits sentiments. It was directly in line with the purposes of the league, and the league could not be true to its own principles unless it got into line in this movement and con-

In seconding the motion Dr. A. B. Somers said that this movement presented exactly the opportunity that the league wanted. Every day brought developments which added to the evidence that a reform was needed. It was time for the people to decide whether they would continue the same ring in office or have a radical change. He unreservedly ap-proved the sentiments expressed in the platform, and believed the league could do noth-ing else but join hands and assist in a reform that served its own purpose. was not shared by any of the other members. W. A. L. Gibbon, Secretary Byrnes, John Rush and D. Clem Deaver urged immediate action. They contended that half-hearted support was no support at all. The movement was exactly in line with the objects of the Municipal league and all members should give it all the force that an unqualified endorsement would carry.

This view prevailed and Mr. Richardson's motion was carried a unanimous vote.

Luncheon to Mr. Watterson.

Mr. Henry Watterson, who is the mospleturesque Kentuckian of his time and one of the ablest of the newspaper profession, was the guest yesterday afternoon of a few of his admirers at luncheon at the Omaha club. Mr. E. M. Bartlett and Mr. Arthur Wakeley were instrumental in getting a few congenial friends together to mest him and the result was a day to be remembered by those fortunate enough to dine with the brilliant son of old Kentuck. In addition to those mentioned there were present Mr. Curtiss Turner, Mr. Edward Rosewater, Mr. E. M. Flexner, a traveling companion of the M. Flexner, a traveling companion of the colonel's, also from Kentucky, Mr. C. H. Wilson, Mr. Dulley Smith. Six courses were served, and until almost time to take his train for Lemars did Mr. Watterson remain with his friends.

SOLVED THE MYSTERY.

Man Who Hanged Himself at the Barker

The identity of the man who was found sanging from a bedpost in a room at the Barker hotel several days ago was fully established yesterday at the inquest held over the remains. The witness who identified him was L. Barnett, a bartender of San Francisco, who has been stopping in the city for a few days while on his way to

Kansas City.
The name which the suicide had registered on the hotel blotter, J. H. Bourke of San Francisco, was the one under which he had been known to Barnett, although it was not his real name. Bourke was a traveling man and about three years ago worked for a dry goods firm in Kansas City. It was at this place that Barnett became acquainted with him. Some time later Barnett went to San Francisco and there he again mer Bourke, who was then working for a seed house. About two years ago Bourke made some collections on the road and sent them in to the house, but the remittance was delayed on the road. The firm jumped to the concluson that Bourke had embezzled the money and caused his arrest in Louisiana. He was brought back to San Francisco, but be-fore he arrived the missing money turned up. He was released from custody and com-menced suit against the firm for $25,000 damages on account of false arrest. The suit hung in the courts until six months ago, when the firm compromised with Bourke for $1,200. Bourke began to live high and spent the greater part of the money in a couple of months. He left San Francisco, but before leaving he told Barnett that he intended to commit swicide. Since then Barnett had no ews of him until he read the account of the

ON TWO SERIOUS CHARGES

Yesterday afternoon Judge Berka bound Ed Petry over to the district court on two charges, one of burgiary and the other of grand larceny, on the former in the sum of $1,000 and on the latter in the sum of $800. On a night in last March it is alleged Petry entered the house of H. N. Jewett, 504 South Twenty-eighth street, and stole nearly $200 worth of lewelry. The other crime alleged was committed a few days earlier. Petry tole a visiting card of Mrs. Stokes and key to the front door of her residence a 1912 Emmett street from a buggy in the central part of the city. He then went out to the house, entered at the front door and stole lowelry amounting in value to nearly $200. He left the city, but was arrested in Chicago some time later on a description that had been sent out. The arresting officer was Detective O'Donnell of the Chicago force, who met him coming out of a saloon. A part of the jewelry stolen from both places was found on his person. Detective O'Donnell was a witness at the preliminary hearing yesterday.
