PEOPLE CLAIM THE GROUND

Organization to Defeat Bonds for Buying Syndicate Park Will Go Forth.

WILL TEST THE QUESTION OF TITLE

Movement to Have the Park Thrown Open as Belonging to the Public—Rumor that a Brewery is to Have It.

The disposition of Spring Lake park continues to be the all absorbing topic of many of the prominent people of South Omaha and the property owners in the vicinity of the park. The latest report is that the park is to pass into the hands of a brewing company, and that the natural park, with all of its rugged beauty, will soon be converted to a piece of a beer garden. This causes indignation.

It has been known for several years that the South Omaha Land company was desirous of disposing of the park to the city of South Omaha, and when Mr. Johnston, the agent of the land company, made his race for mayor on the last two occasions, this proposition figured more or less in both campaigns, in the first of which he was defeated. After the last city election, which terminated in the success of Mr. Johnston, very little was heard of the park question until the 19th of this month, when the council met and ordinance 629 was suddenly sprung before its members without any previous notice.

The repeal of the ordinance has not satisfied the opposition which was developed immediately after the passage of the ordinance and the members and subscribers to the fund to be used to defeat the proposition are continuing right along in the line mapped out, and most of the money subscribed has been collected within the past two days, and will be used in an endeavor to have the park thrown open to the public. It was decided a few days ago to await the opinion of the attorneys retained by the opposition, but since it is rumored that the park is to be converted into a beer garden, another form of procedure is developing. A movement was started yesterday afternoon, which was vigorously advocated by a number of the opposition. The proposition advanced now is the outcome of the rumors fed to make a beer garden out of the park, and those who are working to defeat it are advocating the idea of immediately proceeding against the South Omaha Land company and enjoining it from making the transfer, and in this way bring up the question of title immediately. Members of the opposition state that it has been the intention to settle the question whether the park shall remain a public resort or not, and that the present rumor will necessitate quick action.

the bond proposition met with no opposition, eighty-four acres of land would have been sold to the city for $60,000 and the remaining $5,000 would have been expended in beautifying the park. It is also stated that was the intention of the land company to give the city block 161, to be used for a high school site, but this proposition was not made public.

WILL FIGHT BEER GARDEN PLAN. Since the rumored deal between the brewing company and the land syndicate, the property owners and residents in the vicinity of the park are wrought up to a high tension. A rumor was spread that any resident adjoining the park were seen, and several of them stated that they were bitterly opposed to any such transaction, and would do all in their power to defeat a deal of that kind. They claim that if they are unable to establish the title of the city to the park and the brewing company should gain possession of the park, they will make it very disagreeable for the brewers in case it is made a beer garden, and that they will fight half of what their property is worth or all of it, if necessary, to keep a saloon license from being granted for a saloon in the park. It is also claimed that a beer garden would be a disgrace to the city, and that this can easily be prevented, as it would be contrary to the Saloon law. One of the property owners exhibited to a reporter the map of the South Omaha Land company's maps of different dates, and claimed that it had been the intention of the company or its agents to deceive the people who had bought the park, and that the map printed in 1888, and the existence of the park was plainly shown on it, and was designated as Spring Lake park, which in many cases, had been the means of selling much of the property in the blocks adjoining the park, and it is claimed that this was accomplished by the means of the citizens of South Omaha. During the session of the last legislature, when the changes were being made in the charters of the cities, the first class to issue bonds for the purchase of parks, and it is claimed that this was accomplished by the efforts of the lobbyists from South Omaha.

Ordinance 629, containing the bond proposition, was referred to the committee, reported favorably and passed all in the same evening, without giving the citizens of South Omaha, who were opposed to it, any opportunity to make a fight against it. Within a few days a strong opposition was organized and considerable money was subscribed to defeat the proposition. The opposition developed rapidly and grew to such proportions that it became evident that they try to carry the question would be a needless expenditure of money without any results, and accordingly the ordinance was repealed at the meeting held Wednesday evening last.

WILL TEST TITLE QUESTION. The repeal of the ordinance has not satisfied the opposition which was developed immediately after the passage of the ordinance and the members and subscribers to the fund to be used to defeat the proposition are continuing right along in the line mapped out, and most of the money subscribed has been collected within the past two days, and will be used in an endeavor to have the park thrown open to the public. It was decided a few days ago to await the opinion of the attorneys retained by the opposition, but since it is rumored that the park is to be converted into a beer garden, another form of procedure is developing. A movement was started yesterday afternoon, which was vigorously advocated by a number of the opposition. The proposition advanced now is the outcome of the rumors fed to make a beer garden out of the park, and those who are working to defeat it are advocating the idea of immediately proceeding against the South Omaha Land company and enjoining it from making the transfer, and in this way bring up the question of title immediately. Members of the opposition state that it has been the intention to settle the question whether the park shall remain a public resort or not, and that the present rumor will necessitate quick action.

BOLLN EXPECTED TO STEP OUT

Probable that His Resignation Will Be Before City Council Tuesday Night.

SAYS HE IS WILLING TO LEAVE THE OFFICE

Will Meet with His Bondsmen Tomorrow Morning—He Tells How the Due Bill Process Began.

It is more than probable that at the meeting of the council to be held next Tuesday night the resignation of City Treasurer BOLLN will be presented for the consideration of that body. Tomorrow morning Mr. BOLLN and his bondsmen will hold a meeting, at which it will be decided what course he will pursue in the premises. Last night Mr. BOLLN was seen with reference to tendering his resignation, and at that time he volunteered the information that he was in the hands of his bondsmen. "I have not talked with all of my bondsmen," said Mr. BOLLN. "Some of them, I understand, want me to resign, while others want me to continue in office and pay up the shortage, if any, out of the salary which I would receive during the balance of my term. Tomorrow morning all of the bondsmen will meet, and I will be with them. At that time we will consider what is best to do for the interests of all concerned. I want it distinctly understood that if they conclude that I should resign I will get out of the office."

When asked what he would do in the event that the council remanded his resignation, Mr. BOLLN said: "If it is the desire of the council that I resign, I will willingly step out, as I have no desire to stand in the way. I don't think, however, that the council will ask me to resign, as several of the members have met me and advised me to continue to serve out the balance of my term. Some of the members may want me to resign, but there are others who have advised me to remain."

Going into the questions pertaining to the shortage in the office, Mr. BOLLN stated that he was of the opinion that when the experts had concluded their labor, it would be found that he did not owe the city so large an amount of money as had been stated. There were some due bills in the cash drawer of the office last Monday, Mr. BOLLN said, but all of them had been taken up and money substituted for the paper.

GENESIS OF THE DUE BILL. Talking upon the subject of the due bills and how they happened to be in the place of city cash in the cash drawer of the office, Mr. BOLLN divulged some information that has never before been made public. He stated that during the first month of his incumbency, C. L. Chaffee, who was then a member of the city council, called at the office and asked for the month's salary in advance. "I refused to let him have the money," said Mr. BOLLN, "but it was not long before other councilmen came with the same request. For a time I refused to advance any money, but eventually I broke over. I knew that it was wrong, though I could not see what harm could come from letting men have money when I knew that the salaries would be due them in a few weeks."

Here it was suggested that one councilman had drawn sufficient money to cover the salary of his office for more than a year after his term would expire. Mr. BOLLN admitted that this was true, and added that he knew that it was wrong, "but how could I stop after I had commenced the plan?" he continued.

"Were there others than councilmen who drew money from the city treasury without authority of law?" was asked.

"Sometimes I accommodated the city officials," continued the treasurer, "and at intervals all of them have drawn their salaries in advance and before they were earned."

FOR BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Series of Meetings to Last Through Monday Begun Last Evening.

ADDRESS BY NATIONAL ORGAN ZERHAMILL

Local Manifestation of an Enthusiasm that Prevails in All Parts—What Will Be Done Today—Mass Meeting at First Methodist Tomorrow Night.

The interdenominational conference of the Sunday schools of Omaha and vicinity opened its session by holding a meeting last evening in Kountze Memorial church. The conference will continue today and tomorrow, closing with a mass meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall.

Rev. Frank Crane presided last evening and introduced Prof. H. M. Hamill of Illinois, who has devoted his time for the past ten years to Sunday school work in several parts of the country.

He said he had noted in all parts of the United States an enthusiasm to do better Sunday school work. He has found that the pastors are more anxious than ever to give their teachers the advantages of normal work. The churches in their arrangements are built for meeting the wants of the children as far as possible. Communities, too, show a similar disposition toward the Sunday school pupils, and believe them to be the salvation of the nation. There is need of organizing for Sunday school work, just as efficient Sunday school workers are those who have joined efforts with some interdenominational conference.

Prof. Hamill spoke of the necessity for more bible study and showed the need of having the teacher admonished not to depend too much on the modern "helps" instead of becoming directly acquainted with the bible. To most teachers their Sunday school work is more incident in their lives, but they are always anxious to learn, he said.

Co-operation was laid down as the first principle which the teacher must adopt. The teacher must know what he is teaching and the pupil must be interested. Sunday school workers must have a better idea of the bible and they must know something of the Sunday school and its history, just as the secular teachers do of their schools. The teacher should have definite aims and seek to be thorough. Pupils are the apt to get only general laws of the bible. "Drill the whole school in the fundamental facts. Around the mind of the scholar and get him to study the bible in context."

The great aim of all Sunday school work, the speaker said in conclusion, should be to impress the heart and conscience of the pupil.

The committee in charge of the convention consists of Revs. S. Wright Butler, Frank Crane, S. B. McCormick and D. D. Odell.

This morning Prof. Hamill will preach at St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church. The preliminary Sunday school questions will be discussed at the First Presbyterian church, the meeting opening at 3 o'clock. This evening Prof. Hamill will address a Sunday school mass meeting at the First Methodist church.

Pastor Hays Checks. LANDEB, Wyo., June 22.—(Special Telegram.)—A very smooth individual about 30 years old has been doing Fremont county pretty thoroughly with bogus checks, and has been successful in passing a large number of them. Sheriff Grimmetts is sending out a description of the swindler, who in some instances called himself Del Raymond and at other times W. C. Irwin. He claims to belong to a Kansas City cattle company.

Lander Must Stand Trial. The case of the State of Nebraska against Abraham S. Lander for an attempted assault upon Amanda Locke, was finished up to the preliminary hearing in Crosby's justice court yesterday afternoon, and he was turned over to the district court, the bonds being placed at $5,000. The other cases are still to be heard Monday, unless a change of venue is secured.
