

WAS A SUNDAY SCHOOL NIGHT

Prof. Hamill Addresses Four Congregations at First Methodist Church.

BIBLE INSTRUCTION FOR THE CHILDREN

History of the Great Institution Traced from the Beginning in the Piety of the Old Jewish Fathers—Elements of Its Popularity.

The pulpit of the First Methodist church was last night occupied by Prof. H. M. Hamill of Jacksonville, Ill., who for the past ten years has been engaged in advancing Sunday school work...

Prof. Hamill spoke on the "Sunday School Idea," and in his address outlined the progress of Sunday schools, their advantages and the forces that were necessary to strengthen them...

It first existed in the home, but it does not properly belong there, although it often furnishes more of the homelike than the school itself...

Latter the old testament makes mention of the synagogues which were found on every hillside and in every valley. These synagogues furnished lyceums, or debating societies, for the young men...

WHY IT IS POPULAR.

Prof. Hamill then went on to explain the popularity of the Sunday school. In the first place, he said, it fulfills the duty which is open to all...

As a second reason of its popularity the speaker said that it appealed to the open heart of the child, it put impressions upon the mind and the conscience of the child...

SHOULD HOLD HIGHER PLACE.

To give greater dignity to the work, however, the speaker said that it was necessary to place it more in the hearts of the people. The Sunday school should not be called the nursery of the church...

IDEAL OF THE CHRISTIAN.

TO OMAHA BY THOUSANDS

Local Pleasure Resorts Made Lively by Visitors Brought in on Special Trains.

FOUND ENOUGH TO ENTERTAIN THEM WELL

Hanscom Park, the Base Ball Grounds and Courtland Beach Aroused a Patriotic Will to Return to Attend the State Fair in September.

Excursionists were very much to the front yesterday in Omaha. They arrived early from all parts of the country, the railroads, particularly the Union Pacific and Burlington, bringing into the metropolis nearly thirty car loads of excursionists from the territory about Columbus and Hastings, although almost as many car loads were taken out of the city by the Burlington and Elkhorn, the former running three special trains of Omaha and Council Bluffs people to St. Joe, while the Elkhorn took nearly 700 employees and friends of the employes of Hayden Bros. to West Point. But with this large number out of the city Omaha suggested a real touch of metropolitan life yesterday, for the first time this season, so far as out-of-town visitors are concerned. They congested the hotels, lunch counters and down town restaurants. They applied the Second Infantry band to the echo, although odious comparisons were made with the band of the Second and the artists who make up the brass at interior places. But they liked the fort band notwithstanding, and thought that some of the pieces were "out of sight." Not content with the green of Hanscom Park, a turn of the wheel and the swells as they drove through the park, the visitors went to the ball game and "holled" for Omaha. Then they went to Courtland beach, took a turn at the Elkhorn and wanted to shoot the chutes, but the management has not got this far in entertaining the public, and is content to let them listen to the consumptive barrel organs grind out something suggestive of "De Bowery," and to a plaintive wail of the street organ on Sunday by a Central City street band. Jetter said that he had not given that any thought, but expected that the question would be brought up at the next meeting of the brewery owners.

LETTERS OF THE BREWERS.

B. Jetter, proprietor of the South Omaha Brewing company, said yesterday that the statement that he was weakening and intended to take his old men who went out on a strike back to work was false. He intends to stand by his agreement with the brewers and will not hire any of the discharged men until all of the brewers reach some agreement in principle. As to the closing of saloons here on Sunday by a Central City street band, Jetter said that he had not given that any thought, but expected that the question would be brought up at the next meeting of the brewery owners.
