Nevertheless, though I own that in things Nevertheless, though I own that in things which are so counted of the flesh, I am far from being a brave man, yet now, from very desperation, and because I feared that the evil spirits would come and take me away in like manner when they had disposed of their present burden. I got courage to rise and do my breeches upon me. Then I went out and followed on to see what the spirits might contrive. But because by their master's arts they were invisible, I saw no more of them till I had stumbled down the steep bank to the river side.

It is an ill place thus to adventure into under silence of night, for the trees grow body and which appears in another column close together, so that I knocked and bruised of this paper. myself as I went. But to my great joy I came, by the way, to a little burn with water still running in it in spite of the frost. So this I crossed, and when once I stood on water still running in it in spite of the frost. So this I crossed, and when once I stood on the other side I thanked God, knowing that no evil spirit could now overpass to me. Then, whether it was that by my crossing of the running water the spells of the spirits had no power to render them lavisible, or whether it was that my eyes had become more accustomed to the darkness of the night, but as I stood behind a great rough tree I gagain gat eight of the demons with their burden. They were scrambling by the side of the water, and I saw them lay their bur-den upon a cake of floating ice which the chief devil free w toward him with a thing like a shepherd's "clep" or crook.

Impeachment proceedings will be com-

A. N. Hagan, secretary of the board, and the hearing is set for Saturday at 2 p. m. It was so decided at a special meeting last night. The affair started over an affidavit filed by A. C. Sloane, ex-janitor of the East Albright school, in which Sloane alleges he has paid Hagan $10 a month for two years in order to hold his job. An intimation of this case was given in Sunday's Bee. The affidavit alleges that during the years 1893 and 1894 Sloane paid to Hagan $185 in cash and did $15 worth of work for him to pay the bal-ance of the amount. Further, Sloane alleges that Hagan approached him a few days ago and wanted to enter into a contract for an-other year at the same rate. At this proposition Sloane rebelled and as a result hi not on the pay roll of the Board of Education. Sloane drew $40 per month, and after dliding with Hagan had only $30 left to keep himself and wife. The charges when read rather surprised the members of the board. A petition signed by thirty persons asked for an investigation into the affairs of the board. This has been looked for by citizens for several days, and yesterday afternoon the rumor of a rousing meeting of the school board was current on the streets. After reading the affidavit President Gidson stated that in his opinion the board ought to go into committee of the whole and investigate the charges and also install some mem-ber of the board as secretary until the charges were proved or disproved. Mr. Pearl, addressing the chair, said that Hagan was not prepared to answer the charges on such short notice, and suggested that the investigation be put off for a week. Hagan stated that he wanted every janitor, teacher and contractor in the board's em-ploy to be present and testify as to his connection in any transaction regarding the Board of Education. Member Talbot wanted the board's attorney present before further action was taken, and a messenger was sent to Judge Montgomery's residence. In the meantime the members talked the matter over in a quiet way for fully twenty minutes. Montgomery finally arrived and the question was put to him as to the legality of compelling witnesses to attend. The judge said there was no law to compel witnesses to attend such cases if they did not wish to. At this stage of the gime Hagan jumped up and said that Gideon had stated on the streets that the board would be better off without such members as Pearl, Hagan and better off Cheek. Gideon denied this charge and ordered the secretary to take his seat. Mr. Pearl was then called to the chair and Gideon read a resolution directing the attorney of the board to secure evidence in the case in ques-tion and if the proof was sufficient, formution and if the proof was sufficient, formu-late charges sgainst Hagan. Talbot thought that the resolution left too much power in the hands of the attorney, and suggested that the board's attorney be directed to draft charges of impeachment. There was some discussion, but the resolution finally carried. Hagan then made some serious charges against Gideon, Gideon stated that he would make Hagan prove his charges in a higher court, and there the case rested. court, and there the case rested. The board meets next Saturday.

sioner Ragan. Parties desiring to make objections to the value liked on property appraised for sale under execution, whether on the ground that such valuation is too high or too low, should make and file such objections in the court where the case is pending, together with a motion to set aside such appraise-ment, before the sale occurs. 2. Appraisers of property for sale under execution act judicially, and on motion made after such sale to vacate the same the value fixed by them on the property can only be assailed for fraud. 3. To justify the setting aside of a sale on the ground that the property was ap-praised too low the actual value of the property must so greatly exceed its ap-praised value as of itself to raise a pre-sumption of fraud in the making of the appraisement. Yought against Foxworthy, 3. Nebraska, 780, followed. 4. It is the duty of an officer holding an execution for the sale of real estate to cause said real estate to be appraised and forth-with Immediately deposit a copy of the appraisement made with the clerk of the paperaisement made with the clerk of the appraisement and with the clerk of the paperaisement too high or too low that they know what value has been placed thereon by the appraisement on that ground before the sale occurs. 5. Campbell against McClure. Error from Buffalo county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ragan. In July, 182, one Campbell sold and con-veyed to one McClure cortain real estate by general warranty deed. The deed con-tained a covenant that the real estate con-veyed was free of encumbrance. At the time of the conveyance taxes had been as-sessed against the real estate for the year, but such taxes were not then due. Camp-bell neglected to pay these taxes after their maturity and McClure, to prevent the sale of the real estate, paid the taxes and sued Campbell before a justice of the peace to recover the amount so paid. Held: (1) That the covenant against incum-brances was a personal obligation, did not run with the land, and was broken at the time the conveyance was made. Chapman against Kimball, 7 Nebraska, 39, followed.

(2) That the suit was not an action on a

(2) That the suit was not an action on a contract for real estate within the mean-ing of section 907 of the Code of Civil Pro-cedure, nor was the action one in which the title to real estate was sought to be re-covered or could be drawn in question, and that a justice of the peace had jurisiliction of the case. A wender who sells and sector for the case. But it was soon clear to me that the con-fused din about the house, which went and came like a fitful wind, was no imagination, but proceeded from the machinations of the evil spirits which Mr. Renwick had presaged would follow me. Then, indeed, I was in a terror to which all that had gone before was of the case. A vendor who sells real estate after the first day of April, in any year, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, is, under the statute, liable for the taxes on such real estate for that year. McClure agains Campbell, 25 Nebraska, 57.
