

NEW MINISTRY ANNOUNCED

All Except Two Minor Positions Have Been Decided Upon.

FORECASTS WERE FAIRLY ACCURATE

Colonists Given Some of the Most Important Positions—Joseph Chamberlain Not Given the Portfolio to Which Rumor Had Assigned Him.

LONDON, June 28.—The marquis of Salisbury has completed the work of forming a new cabinet. The new ministry is as follows:

- Premier and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs—Marquis of Salisbury.
- President of the Council—The duke of Devonshire.
- Lord High Chancellor—Baron Halsbury.
- Lord of the Privy Seal—Viscount Cross.
- Chancellor of the Exchequer—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

Secretary of State for Home Affairs—Mr. Lord Sir Matthew White Ridley.

First Lord of the Treasury—Mr. Hon. A. J. Balfour.

Secretary of State for the Colonies—Mr. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

Secretary of State for War—Marquis of Lansdowne.

First Lord of the Admiralty—Mr. Hon. George J. Goschen.

Secretary of State for India—Lord George Hamilton.

President of the Board of Trade—Mr. Hon. D. Ritchie.

President of the Local Government Board—Mr. Hon. Henry Chaplin.

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland—Earl Cadogan.

Chancellor of Ireland—Baron Selborne.

Secretary for Scotland—Baron Balfour of Burleigh.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster—Mr. Hon. Sir Henry James.

The other appointments are as follows:

Financial Secretary of the Treasury—Mr. Hon. Sir William Harcourt.

Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs—Mr. Hon. George N. Curzon.

Mr. Campbell-Bannerman remains in the Treasury as follows: When Lord Salisbury's secretary called upon me for the seals of office there was no suggestion, as it is alleged, either of a command from the queen or of a direct order from the king.

When I consulted Lord Salisbury, who agreed that it would be improper to thus surrender the seals.

The above statement of the retiring secretary for war directly contradicts the allegation made on behalf of Salisbury in the House of Lords regarding what was considered as an insult to Mr. Campbell-Bannerman.

JAPAN CANNOT BE BULLIED.

Russia Cannot Rob Her of the Fruits of Her Victory.

NEW YORK, June 28.—"I really don't think war between Japan and Russia is imminent," said Mr. Hashiguchi, the Japanese consul general at New York, in an interview.

"However," continued the consul, "Japan will not be bullied. If Russia attempts to interfere with the affairs of Corea, Japan will insist upon her rights. We are just beginning to recover from a rather exhausting war, and are in no hurry to get into another quarrel, but I wish to say emphatically that Japan is not afraid of Russia. I will go so far as to assure you that there are Japanese who would not be astonished to see a Japanese army in St. Petersburg within the next month."

Mr. Washburn, Russian minister to Corea, is a very clever man. He is over 50 years old and has been minister to Seoul more than twenty years.

Washburn is a successful and an experienced diplomat, and I have no doubt that he has been greatly influential in bringing about the present situation.

"You see, there is no limit to Russia's aggressive and grasping spirit. If Russia could get out of the hands of our victory, she would be a menace to us. It is no doubt that she would be glad to do so. But Japan is not easily scared. We know something about her. She has been at the head of a strategic standpoint Russia would find it difficult to make much headway against us."

QUESTIONED MINISTER'S VERACITY

Member of the Italian Chamber Brings Up the Arrest of an American.

ROME, June 28.—In the Chamber of Deputies today Sig. Engel asked the secretary of state for the interior whether an American citizen named Samuel Rebbin Hamilton arrested on June 26 by the Italian police, and charged with the murder of a man named Hamilton, had been released.

The secretary replied that Hamilton tried to force his way into the House when King Humbert delivered his address on the opening of the Chamber on June 19, and that an officer who tried to prevent this, and was arrested. Having no passports, Hamilton was detained in the police station until papers establishing his identity arrived.

After the arrest of Hamilton, the secretary of state for the interior, Mr. Patterson is now being sought.

At the Chamber of Deputies, he was passing along the route followed by the royal party when he was arrested. Sig. Engel insisted that the man was not recognizable, but the secretary replied that Hamilton had made no complaint.

UNCERTAIN HUNGER THAT HE WAS ASSASSINATED AT CHANTILLY, FRANCE.

PARIS, June 28.—It is rumored here by the Duc d'Annum, who returned to Chantilly from London yesterday, has been assassinated. The rumor has not been confirmed.

Anti-Parnellite, Carey took.

CORK, June 28.—The election for a member of Parliament to represent the city of Cork, made vacant by the bankruptcy proceedings against Mr. William O'Brien, resulting in his retirement from the House of Commons, has resulted in a victory for the anti-Parnellite candidate, Mr. James Francis O'Brien.

May and honorary treasurer of the Irish National League of Great Britain. The result of the voting was as follows: Mr. James Francis O'Brien, 1,156; Mr. William O'Brien, 1,156; Mr. William O'Brien, 1,156; Mr. William O'Brien, 1,156.

At the last election Mr. William O'Brien was elected by a vote of 5,273, against 4,756 for Mr. O'Brien.

LONDON, June 28.—The Times Hong Kong correspondent telegraphs that Japan's war ships are assembling at Makung and preparing to attack the Black Flag. The Chinese general has repeatedly demanded the withdrawal of the British forces and on one occasion guns were trained on the foreign settlements, but the British men-of-war Spartans, Ratabow, Pygmy and Plover cleared for action when the Chinese commander rescinded his orders.

Honorable Will Exaggerate It is claimed that King Humbert will shortly issue a decree exonerating Premier Crispin from the charges of having been connected with Dr. Herz, the Panama canal lobbyist.

Police Hold the Latin Quarter.

PARIS, June 28.—There was a conflict last night between the students of the Latin quarter and the police, during which five of the students were injured and five others arrested.

INSURGENT VICTORY WAS IMPORTANT

Spanish Commander Did All in His Power to Defeat San Geronimo.

HAVANA, June 28.—The facts about the raid and the burning of San Geronimo, news of which was published Wednesday by the Associated press, as they are learned in more detail are found to be of importance. San Geronimo is the most flourishing village in the province of Puerto Principe. About 5 in the evening Maximo Gomez appeared near San Geronimo at the head of 1,500 men. He sent word to the commander of the village, saying that he must surrender or run the risk of being killed, either by bullets or fire.

The Spanish commander, Lieutenant La Torre, ordered the village to be burned.

"I'll burn it to ashes," he said. "I'll burn it to ashes," he said. "I'll burn it to ashes," he said. "I'll burn it to ashes," he said.

Throughout the night these men kept the village under fire. The flames, as the citizens, aware of Gomez's presence in the neighborhood, left town. Meanwhile the rain was falling in torrents. The insurgents attacked the village at the head of the men inside. At sunrise, Gomez ordered the mayor of the town to tell the Spanish lieutenant that he had the village surrounded and that he must surrender immediately.

Afterward the mayor returned, saying: "Under no circumstances will I surrender."

Gomez then gave an order for 400 of his men to be sent to the village to surround it. At the same time they advanced toward the town and ordered their prisoners to set fire to the nearest houses. Gomez was heard to say: "I'll burn it to ashes, I'll burn it to ashes, I'll burn it to ashes, I'll burn it to ashes."

He then commanded that the whole town should be burned. The fire increased rapidly throughout the night, and by the morning the town was a mass of ruins.

The troops kept firing until suffocated by the smoke, when the mayor lifted a white flag and the insurgents were ordered to stop firing. Lieutenant La Torre, a lieutenant of guerillas, came forward and, agreeing with Gomez as to the terms of the surrender, he was ordered to set fire to the houses.

The marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Maximo Gomez embraced Lieutenant La Torre, saying: "You can shout 'Viva España' and 'Viva San Geronimo' as long as you like. The officers and soldiers with tears in their eyes revealed in their faces the anguish felt at their surrender, which they consented to only after a long and bitter struggle."

There has been a mad enterprise to attempt to defend themselves against an enemy twenty times as numerous as themselves. A few hours afterward the marquis of Santa Lucia and Max