Business in a Jobbing Way Shows Some Improvement in Staple Lines.

COLLECTIONS CONTINUE RATHER SLOW

Confidence in the Future of Nebraska Causes an Expansion of Credits-Values on Many Lines of Merchandiss Bave an Upward Tendency,

In the movement of merchandise in the wholesale district there is here and there evidence of a little more interest among buyers, which jobbers are disposed to accept as the first ripples of the rising tide of demand. The fact has been realized all along that the indifference of country buyers was due to the uncertainty as to what the future had in store, and that with few exceptions stocks were reduced to the lowest erop is practically assured and while weather conditions are most favorable for the growth of corn, the time has arrived corn, s.000 bu.; corn, 8,000 bu.; corn the growth of corn, the time has arrived when some expansion in the volume of business is to be anticipated.

It is frequently remarked that there can be little improvement in business until there is more money in the country and that the cannot show any material increase until the corn crop is marketed. Small grain and live stock will bring in some ready cash, but not enough to restore business. This view of the situation would preclude the possibility of any substantial improvement in trade until some time next winter or spring, after the farmers had had time to gather and sell their corn crop.

The fact of the matter is that the greater portion of all business transactions is conducted on a credit basis. It is not necessary to have the cash in hand in order to secure merchandise, but only a good assurance that the money will be forthcoming in the course of time. Merchants contract or expand their credits according to their customers' ability to pay hinges almost entirely upon the growing crop of corn.

If the were possible to know beyond all question of doubt that there would be a corner or of 200,000,000 bushels this year business would put on such activity as has not been witnessed in many a long day. Every one would want goods and every one would be ready and anxious to sell on time. Such a shing, however, is an impossibility, but as each week brings the crop so much nearer maturity archards and the line of credits is gradually expanded. This is the explanation of the seeming anomaly of a gain in the volume of goods moving, at a time when money is scarce and the amount in circulation is not being increased to any material extent. Thus the jobbers are sending out more goods than they were thirty days ago, but are not receiving any more money in return.

CITY RETAIL BUSINESS.

As regards the retail trade of Omaha, the past week cannot be said to have materially altered the situation. In a general way business of a purely local character is duil, though here and there an exception may be noted. The larger department stores are doing a fair business and yet they are not coming up to expectations and their managers generally report trade as duil. The small dealers are not doing any better, if as well. Occasionally a merchant is found who professes to have an active trade, but they are rare. The demand is largely for such goods as are commonly classed as necessities, while the call for fancy goods is very light.

There is only one explanation for the present condition of the retail trade of Omaha, and that is the lack of working people. Every business man is aware of the fact that the men and women who work in the factories and shops are the ones who create business. A city that has a good many manufacturing establishments always enjoys a good retail trade. Omaha has never had any too many factories and the number of people employed has always been small for a city of its size. At the present time the number of people employed in the factories is less than usual, owing to the dull times, and the retail trade suffers in copsequence. This fact, however, does not appear to deter the retailers from sending thousands of dollars east every month for goods, while Omaha factories run on half time and the operators are idle.

PREPARING FOR A GREAT CORN CROP Indications that it May I xceed Any Heretofore Gather d. There is nothing so interesting to the average business man these days as information regarding the growing crops of the state. The reports published in The Bee as to the amount of rainfall and the condition of the crops are read with the closest attention. While the condition of the crops has absorbed so much attention. there has been very little said regarding the acreage or probable yield for the whole state. Rusiness men have appeared satisfied state. Business men have appeared satisfied to know that the amount of moisture was sufficient for the perfect development of the growing plant and have not attempted to speculate on the yield.

Grain men, however, have already figured on the number of bushels of grain that the state will produce, and while they do not all agree, there is not as much difference hotween their figures as might be expected. It is generally admitted that the acreage of come is larger than last season, many placing the increase at 10 per cent. They also figure on an increase in the acreage of onts, but a decrease in the wheat acreage, owing to the fact that a good deal of the wheat was plowed up and planted to corn.

Taking the present condition of the corn crop and the estimated acreage as a basis on which to figure, a good many of the most sanguline among the grain and elevator men are placing the corn crop of Nebracks at an even 200,000,000 bushels. The more cautious admit that should the present favorable weather continue such a yield for this state would not be in the nature of a surprise.

for this state would not be in the nature of a surprise.

The burner year for corn, so far as the whole country was concerned, was 1859, when the yield for the United States amounted to 2,112,822,000 bushels. The largest yield in Nebraska was in the year 1801, when 167,652,000 bushels were produced. In 1834 there was a falling off of about 19,000,000 bushels from the extreme high point. The following figures will show the yield in Nebraska of corn and of wheat, also, for the past ten years.

There is one feature of the situation that is the absence of demand for what are generally termed ituxries. The demand is for staple goods, the necessities of everyday life.

Some of the increased demand from the country, especially in the grocery line, is due to the fact that the farmers are hard at work and that the working man is a greater consumer than the idle man. As a wholesale grocer expresses it, it is the man with the "tin bucket who consumes the goods.

The market on most lines of staple goods in demand at this season of the year is firm to say the least. In groceries there has been a steady hardening of offices on a good many lines, due to the increased demand and general improvement in all sections of the country.

The hardware market is very strong in fact it is hard to recall a time when there was a more healthy market. There have been few occasions when goods were as scarce at manufacturing points and the demand as good. The demand for bleycles keeps up and jobbers and manufacturers allke are stuffed with orders. It is practically impossible to supply the demand.

In the line of dry goods the market during free past week has revealed unabated strength in all staple cotton goods departments advanced prices fall to represent a kill in values commensurate with the rise in the price of raw material.

CHICAGO, June 29,-Wheat, corn, cats and provisions all closed at some improvement to-day. The grain markets were weak to begin with but provisions struck a builts gait at the start and kept it up. Wheat rose from 71% for September to 72%c, and corn from 47%c to 48%c. Liquidations of July wheat, which was the chief feature of the first hour's trading in that article. had run its course in that time, and having done so the short sellers found themselves confronted with probable small deliveries on July contract and the old wheat all tied up again for another

Bradstreet's reported the shipments of wheat and flour at 1,946,000 bu., against 2,837,000 bu, the week before and 1,717,000 bu, on the corresponding week of 1894. The Argentine shipments for the week were $50,000 bu., which is about double want was sent out on the previous week, and so large as to upset all confidence in the previous report of exhausted stocks in that country. The day's receipts at Chicago were nominally ten cars, but that included five cars transferred from irregular to regular city houses. Minneapolis and Dolluth received $27 cars, compared with 307 cars on the corresponding day of last year. The opening prices were about the same as the previous day's closing quotations, and for a minute or two there were enough buying orders to give an appearance of strength to the market. That gave way before the persistent selling of July by those who did not wish to take want might be tendered to them on Monday, if they should remain holders of their contracts till then. The price of September at the start was steadily downward until at The the selling resulting price for a couple of minutes. Following that the tendency for an hour was steadily downward until at The the selling related and the rathey confident conviction of a still further breaking gave place to sharm on the part of those who had been trading upon such conviction. The reaction was sudden and in ten minutes the decline which an hour of persistent sellings had brought about was recovered and an advance established. About half an hour for minutes the decline which an hour of persistent sellings had brought about was recovered and an advance established. About half an hour for minutes the decline which an hour of persistent selling had brought about the unsatisfactory yield and the miserable about the unsatisfactory yield and the miserable of market not much better than the tailings of previous years, was the upperment tought in the short side with the new wheat, which is coming to market not much better than the tailings of previous years,

Yesterday it closed at from 25c to 25%c and today at 25%c.

Provisions recovered the bullish tone which appeared to have deserted them yesterday. The hog receipts were only 11,000 head, and all told for the week only 113,000 came to hand, compared with 127,000 on the week a year before. The expected run of next week is guessed at 109,000, and that also helped to produce the firmer feeling which prevailed. Compared with the previous day's closing prices the following are the gains established by the general transactions: In pork, 17%c; lard, 5c, and ribs, 7%c. actions: In perk, 17%; lard, 5c, and ribs, 7%c.

CATTLE—The cattle market of the past Week has been about as devoid of interest

Herry rees in the Future. CATTLE—The cattle market of the past week has been about as devoid of interest as could well be imagined. While the receipts have been larger than for the previous week, that fact has not noted materially to the interest in the trade. The fact of the matter is that about half of the cattle on most days of the week were consigned direct to the packers and were not offered on the market. The packers have been forced to buy in southern markets and ship the cattle here in order to keep their houses going. With the actual offerings on the market so light it was hardly possible that the market should present many new or interesting features. What cattle have been offered have sold tolerably well. The tendency of the market has been toward higher prices, and considerably may been offered have sold tolerably well. The tendency of the market has been toward higher prices, and considerable improvement has taken place in the prices paid for handy fat steers. Heavy fat cattle have not shown as much gain. Cows and heifers have commanded strong prices all the week, while feeders have sold higher.

The market today did not show any material change from yesterday. There were only about so head on sale, the balance of the receipts having been consigned direct to the packers. There were a few steers here good enough to bring $1.55 to $1.59.

Cows and heifers sold at about the same old prices. The trade was without feature and the offerings consisted of only a few odds and ends. Calves, it was claimed by some, did not move off quite so freely, and that the feeling was not quite so strong. There was nothing of any consequence doing in stockers and feeders. There were no cattle here and very few buyers. Representative sales:

SPRINGFIELD. IL, June 29.-The new law regarding incorporations making a sliding scale according to the amount of the capital stock will go into effect Monday and a hasty calculation of the amount of feer that would be paid by the company's licensed today if they had been one day longer making their applications shows that it would be required to pay fees amounting to more than $250,000. Among the applications today was one for the reorganized Whisky trust. It does not appear among the list of certificates of in-corporation issued for the reason that the name chosen is so nearly like that of another corporation previously licensed as to make confusion probable, and the secretary has asked the incorporators to choose an-with the secretary of state for the Transcon-tinental Railway company. The principal effice is to be in Chicago, and the capital stock is $200,000,000. Authoritative Announcement to that Effect NEW YORK, June 29 .- Bradstreet's publiation today prints in a conspicuous place the following: "Inasmuch as many usually well informed newspapers appear to continue in doubt as to whether the bond syndicate has ompleted its work or not, whether it is about to dissolve and leave the treasury gold reserve, now well above the $100,000,000 mark, to the tender mercies of the market for foreign exchange, it may be well to state thus prominently that the syndicate has not completed its undertaking. It expects to continue to lend all proper support to the treasury in maintaining $100,000,000 of gold reserve until October, 1895, in the same way and manner that it has thus far. Therefore Lombard and Wall street operators who have remained in doubt as to the probable future of the market for American securities because of their uncertainty on the point referred to, they may at once replace that doubt with a sonse of security which this information must tend to impart."

This will mean a distribution of about $250,000 among the Iron Hall holders, and will, with the 30 per cent dividend now being paid, bring the funds in the hands of Receiver Failey down to about $15,000.
