CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Members Get to Playing Horse and Two Special Sessions Are Held.

FUN WAS BEGUN BY MR. SAUNDERS

June Salary Ordinance Defeated by His Joke and an Adjournment Taken, After Which Another Session is Held and the Ordinance is Passed.

It took two special meetings of the city council last evening to pass the salary ordinance for June. This was an account of a "practical joke" played by Mr. Saunders.

It was found that in the ordinance was included an item for $175 for clerk hire for the Board of Public Works, though an ordinance was passed several weeks ago, and taking effect June 1, providing that clerk hire for this board should be thereafter allowed only on the basis of $1,800 per year, or $150 per month.

Several other witnesses were called in rebuttal to show that Bachman was not in the jail office all the time of the interview.

W. N. Morsman spoke in Baker's behalf and declared that "there are 10,000 people in Omaha who would not give a bag of peanuts for the man who had done this."

Julia Flanagan, an ill-colored woman, unfolds a tale of woe in the district court in a petition that she has placed on file, whereby she discloses how her own and her husband's ignorance have cost them their family property, some $2,000 in value.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Flanagan could read or write, and trusting to the statements of their neighbors, they placed a mark on the deed, which was not a mark at all, but a simple "X" made by the husband.

As a result of Judge Ambrose's ruling in the injunction suit of Ann E. Campbell against Treasurer Irey and the county, brought to restrain the collection of taxes for the year ending in 1895, released, after compromise, the building will have to be sold under the auctioneer's hammer.

In deciding the suit of the Southern Land company against the Texas Land and Cattle company, involving a contest among creditors for about $50,000 of investments, Judge Ambrose allowed the First National bank, one of the intervenors, to get the first money and Jenckeb & Rylander, the Chicago emigration agents, and their assignees to come next in the disposition of funds.

In the case of a man who has been indicted for the murder of a woman, the jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the man was sentenced to the state prison for life.
