Opening Events of the Mud Hook Vacht Club Races a Surprise in Several Ways for the Followers of HUNTERS QUAY, Firth of Forth, July 3, -The challenger for the America's cup, Valkyrie III, started this morning in the race for the Muir challenge cup, her competitors being Alisa and Britannia. To the dismay of those who had built great hapes on Lord Dunraven's new yacht. Valkyrie was squarely beaten in a good breeze by both Alisa and Britannia. race, it was evident when the yachts passed Cloch lighthouse that Valkyrie was making a poor showing. The three yachts, however, raced in fine style from Skelmarlie towards mark boat No. 3 off Ascog, Isle of Bute, which Britannia rounded one minute aboat of Allsa, the latter being half a minute ahead of Valkyrie. There was very little change from that time on until the yachts reached the Kildreggan mark boat No. 4 on the first round. Up to this point Valkyrie had been steadily falling behind, and she fell away still more perceptibly on the beat home after rounding the Kilcreggan boat mark.

BREEZE STIFFENED SLIGHTLY. The breeze increased slightly in strength after the yachts started to reach mark boat No. 2 off Skelmorlie on the second round and it was found necessary to take in Val-kyrle's club topsail. Ailsa and Britannia, however, held on to their club topsails and stood up nicely to the wind. There was little change in the positions of the yachts when Skelmorlie mark beat was rounded on the second round, but Valkyrie had dropped further behind. The recession in the same 3 on the second round, which Britannia rounded a mile ahead of Allsa, which was still leading Valkyris by about two miles. Valkyria stood up hadly on the subsequent easy reach to Kilcreggan and set a smaller topeall, but she had lost ground, which she never regained, and only half-hearted people greeted Britannia's victory. The yachts passed Cloch lighthouse on their way to Kil-creggan on the second round in the following times: Britannia, 2:16:16; Alisa, 2:25:21; Valkyrie, 2:27:01. At this stage of the race Britannia was looked upon as being a cer-tain and easy winner, barring accidents. The yachte reached back to Kilcreggan on the second round in a strong breeze. Valkyric, seeing that she was still falling astern on her competitors, set her working topsail in order to try to improve her speed. But she heeled

The following were the times of the three big yachte at the finish: Britannia, 2:56:37 Allea, 2:57:43; Valkyrie III, 2:59:45. Sufficient proof was given by the America's cup challenger today that she no point of sailing did she show the least ground for proving that she will be a real aspirant for America's cup honors.

Although the main interest of the day was in the race for the big yachts there were the third inning lost today's game for not many people who did not witness the Rockford. It was a battle of pitchers, Kimen Howard Gould's Herres'ioffyacht Niagara and Lord Lonsdale's Eucharis. The latter won decisively in to- Hollingsworth. Score: Niagara, but she has a clean delivery and is expected to go even better in light winds. Dakotah was allowed twelve nigutes and fifty seconds by the other yachts comprising this event, as she is barely an eleven-rater and her competitors were all about twenty-raters. Dakotah was expected to save her time allowance, but Encharis finished first, three minutes ahead of Niagare, and won the race outright. Zicita was a little behind and Dakotah was fourth. Captain Carter, Britannia's skipper, after the race that he was very sorry Valkyrie III lost the day, as, although he ex-pected to run a boat to win, yet the feeling of patriotism took first place, and he feared that Valkyrie III had a poor chance of winning the cup unless she improved.

Subsequently the representatives of Oxford and Cambridge met and considered Yale's proposals. At the close of the meeting the following official statement was issued:

"The committee decides that as Harvard refused to agree to their part in the ariginal proposal it would not be desirable for Oxford and Cambridge to meet Yale single-banded, which reason the committee regrets, in view of the sportsmanlike proposal of Yale.

Springfield People, Yesterday the Omaha Western association team went to Springfield to play an exhibition game with the club there. It was made a general holiday by the people there and royal entertainment was afforded the Omaha visitors. Messrs. Spearman, Fox. Taylor, Hamilton and Burbank were the prime movers in the affair. Under the spreading boughs of a fine old grove tables were prepared and there was served such a dinner as only the good women of Sprine-field could prepare. Omaha's ball players, accustomed to hotel fare, had risen and gone without breakfact to catch the train that bore then thither, and so had the usually keen clay of a healthy athlete's appetite doubly whetted. Did they do justice to the meal? Ask Manager McVittle how many spring chickens Louis Nagoleon Baisz consumed and you'll gain a faint idea of the performance of the team at the table. Every chance was clearly accepted, the play at the plate being something to marvel at. After dinner a game of built was piayed. It was royal outing for the team.
