PROPERTY DISAPPEARING. The governor said that it had been represented to him that a deterioration of between $700 and $800 had taken place in the Dergan property since the appraisers valued it over a month ago. The ice had been used from continually; out of some 250 hogs but about 100 remained, and considerable clothing had been taken away and worn out. In view of these facts he deemed it best that some further adjustment of the value be made before Dorgan was paid.

On the heels of this letter came the news hat the court had found in Dorgan's favor, and the latter came directly to the capitol to get his warrant. The temporary injunction had been dissolved and there was apparently nothing now in the way but the request of the governor. Auditor Moore and the Board of Public Lands and Buildings, accompanied by Dorgan, went to the governor's office and conference was held. The governor explained that the letter was written under the assumption that a decision would not be made immediately by the court. He had estimated the depreciation of the prison property at State Treasurer Bartley, speaking for the board, said that Dorgan's contract began running again July 1 and there was now to his credit $450. Dorgan had paid $60 for the new lot of medicines bought since the appraisement, and also $200 for the material and dinner for the Fourth of July celebration at the prison tomorrow. This made $710 and Dorgan was willing to call the matter square without more ado provided he could have his warrant today. This was apparently satisfactory to the governor and the meeting house by Auditor Moore and Dorgan, where the facts concerning the supersedeas werlearned. The two were also advised to secur-the opinion of Attorney General Churchill in the matter. Thus the matter stands tonight No warrant was drawn in favor of Dorgan and it is quite probable the whole matter is tied up in court for a number of months. It has already been in the district court a month, the first application for a receiver of the warrant having been made June 3 and the injunction granted on that day. Dorgan's contract was given new life July 1, and things are now running at the penitentiary under the old regime. The special act of the legislature appropriating $35,000 to "buy out Dorgan" appears to have been a very in-valid document so far as accomplishing its purpose. No one seems to have materially profited but the two appraisers and the State Board Denies the Prayer of the Citizens of Prairie Home.

LINCOLN, July 3 .- (Special.)-The State Board of Transportation has made its findings in the Prairie Home station case against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company in favor of the company. The petitioners asked, in an application filed April 13, 1895, that the company be required to reopen its station at that point, which had been closed on the ground that it did not pay to keep it open. On April 18 the company field its answer, setting forth the total earnings of the station, showing that they were less than station expenses and giving an itemized statement of the receipts. It was also set forth that the closing of said station was only sumed there when reasonable operating ex-penses could be obtained.

that the business of the community is farming exclusively and that there is very little to ship from this point; that the business done at the station at the present time does not demand the increased expense necessary to keep and maintain an open station. The other day Mrs. Mary Allison went down into her cellar to get a jar of preserves when sixty years; her first church relation being she found that her nice shelf full of preserves and pickles had disappeared. A quiet investigation was set on foot, and, as a remembers of the First Baptist church of Os-Joy of Missouri and his bride had a narrow investigation was set on foot, and, as a reescape from death near here. While driving suit, Mrs. Lou Frampton and Mrs. Ellen Hopwith a coaching party of twelve on a steep per, colored, were arrested and lodged in jail upon the charge of being suspicious characters. Mrs. Allison caused a search warrant to be issued and results proved that the
