Admission free.

Mrs. A. Algood, who lives on Ninth avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets, was arrested for disturbing the peace yesterday. The defendant will be tried on Wednesday next when she lives becomes involved in one of its periodical rows. Mrs. Algood claims that she is the only innocent one in the crowd, and that all the rest were disturbing the peace as though their lives depended on it.

John Linder, who was charged with cheating Paul Meyer's thumb while the two were engaged in a fight, had a hearing in Justice Cook's court yesterday morning. The testimony showed that several abusive epithets were hurled back and forth, and Meyer asked Linder to come out and fight him. Linder ordered him out, but as he went Meyer grabbed him by the beard. In some mysterious way Meyer's thumb got between Linder's teeth and was chewed. Linder was discharged.

A boy named Bathers has been making him a general nuisance around Quigley's candy store for some time past. He had been warned to keep away, but yesterday afternoon visited the store. Joseph Boyne, who is employed there, took him in charge and when he emerged some time later from his hat broken and several other symptoms of having been in some sort of a smash-up. To get even he filed an information charging Bathers with assault and battery. Boyne was arrested but gave up his appearance in police court Monday morning.

John and Jessie Miller's preliminary hearing for robbing Justice Cook's court room yesterday afternoon, and the little stuff room was a good place to be suffocated. In spite of the heat which had broken out in the hardest fought ever tried in the city. The evidence was all taken, and County Attorney Saunders opened the arguments. He was followed by Colonel Dally, who administered one of the hottest roasts to Belch that had ever been heard by many in the court rooms. At the conclusion of the day the case went over until Monday morning at 10 o'clock, when the arguments will be concluded.

John Ward, an old soldier, drew his pension the other day, amounting to $12, and started on a trolley. Late in the evening he turned up at the police station with a turned up at the police station with a $10 gold piece to M. Solomon, an Upper Broadway store keeper, and had received change for a dollar. Solomon declared that it was not his. Ward admitted it, but the police declined to act, inasmuch as Ward was suffering from the effects of a jag when he made the complaint. Last evening it was learned that Rossumen, a saloon keeper across from the Odeon hotel, changed the gold piece for Ward and the latter was so drunk that he did not know it.

James Weston was brought before Judge Smith yesterday for an examination as to his financial condition. Weston is defendant in a suit that has been pending for several years in the district and superior courts. It is going out of a land deal. E. H. Odell and the Citizens' bank are the interested parties on the plaintiff's side. The case was tried in the superior court about a year ago. As there was a dispute about one of the judge's instructions, it was agreed that instead of appealing to the supreme court the case should be tried in the district court. It was tried about a month ago and a verdict for $1,000 was obtained against Weston.
