THE FLOWING SOURCE.

BY A. T. QUILLER COUCH.

(Copyright, 1895, by Irving Bachelor.)

I'll marry one or 't'other at the month end, and so I give you notice.

Master Simon said: "Well, well! I must get on with it. I can't wait for a while."

"Tom's going, too. I bullied him so this morning that he means to give notice tomorrow."

"And small blame to them. Married men or mariners—that's what a boy is born for. Better dare wreck or wedlock than sit here and talk about it."

Ann carried out her own matrimonial program, at any rate, with spirit and determination.

"I wanted a few minutes to 5 when a carrier pigeon came trilling across the zenith."

"It was a bird of the first young farmer acquaintance, she supposed him at the end of the month."

"The twelfth in five years?" ejaculated Master Simon, stopping his pipe victoriously.

"And small blame to them. Married men or mariners—that's what a boy is born for. Better dare wreck or wedlock than sit here and talk about it."

Ann carried out her own matrimonial program, at any rate, with spirit and determination.

LITERARY NOTES.

"Fifty Songs," words and music by Charles A. Naylor has just been published by W. J. Dyer & Bro., 21-23 W. Fifth street, St. Paul, Minn.

Up to date and on time with its compendium of latest railroad information the July number of the Rand-McNally Railway Guide will be welcomed as usual by the traveling fraternity. The American Railway Guide Company, Chicago.

The story of the largest achievement of the boldest band of bank robbers ever organized in the history of the United States, the robbery of the Pullman train, is told in the records of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, in McClure's Magazine for August.

The Fourth of July number of articles is now appearing in the Chicago Open Court on "The Prophets of Ancient Israel" by the famous Koenigsberg professor and theologian, Charles H. Johnson, of the University of Chicago.

"Mind and Voice" is the title of a brochure of the Century, a twelve-week course of original exercises for the development of clearness, power and maintenance of the voice. The author, J. Bernard Baylis, is a pupil of the famous vocalist, Novella Ewar & Co., New York.

Rev. Dr. Van Dyke is an enthusiastic fisherman and in an article that has written for the Century he has convinced readers that he was "born so." His article on "Old-Fashioned Fishing" is full of personal reminiscences, but it echoes the personal of all who follow the streams during vacation days.

Besides its serial fiction, Harper's for August will contain four complete short stories, a humorous story, a novel, a sketch, by Thomas Wharton; "Jinty," a tale of old Virginia and "Bohemian New York," by Margaret W. Bell; "An Evening in Cyprus," by Hamilton Good and "The Little Room," by Madeleine Galt Wynne.

"Astral Federation: Its Progress and Its Prospects" is the subject of an interesting contribution by Edward Salmon in the current number of the Portly Review. Another article of interest in the number is Richard Davey's portrayal of "The Present Condition of Mohammedan Women in Turkey." Leonard Scott Publishing Company, New York.

Theodore Roosevelt in his article in the August Scribner's on "Six Years of Civil Service Reform" summarizes, from his full knowledge as commissioner during that period, the actual history of the reform. His article is a most interesting and complete in its official work. There is no mining matters in the distribution of praise.

A catalogue of the officers and students of the Columbian university at Washington, D. C., has just been issued showing the progress it has made in the past year. The two subjects that stand out most prominently in the July Arena are the age of consent program and the new law governing the laws governing this matter to make the same in consonance with the constitution.

Mrs. Helen H. Gardner, the well known novelist and author who has written and lectured and labored so much for the legal and protection of her sex, furnishes a running commentary on these interesting contributions. The Arena Publishing Company, Boston.
