MUCH MOTHER-IN-LAW

To Escape Her Wrath He Went to

THIS WAS FREEMAN'S SORE AFFLICTION

Police Judge Took Pity on Him and He Was Allowed to Depart Absolved of His Misdeeds.

Nate Freeman wanted to be the head of a household, but he went against two jails and a mother-in-law's wrath in one day and then gave it up as a bad job.

The police gathered Freeman in on the charge of having disturbed the peace and Judge Berka listened to two sides of a story of domestic discord. The arrest was caused by Mrs. Grace Freeman, wife of the prisoner. She said that Freeman had taken her trunk and clothing and had refused to let her have them. She could make a living for herself and child, but she was in need of the clothing which Nate had packed in his Saratoga and removed to a storage warehouse. She had loved Nate dearly at one time, but he had changed and now she was anxious to get away from him. She and Nate had talked the matter all over and Nate had agreed to leave her and bother her no more. She had drawn up a paper reading: "Separated this 21st day of July, 1895, by mutual consent." This document she had signed, but Nate had withheld his signature for some reason. During the wife's recital Freeman told the court that he was willing to take the woman and make a good home for her if she would come back and be decent. The wife refused to listen to any such proposition and said that all she wanted was her clothing and a chance to go home to her mother. Judge Berka finally agreed to dismiss the case against Freeman if he would give his wife the trunk and clothing. Freeman agreed to the proposition, but said the trunk contained some of his belongings and he wanted them. "There are two of your pictures them. "There are two of your pictures there," said Mrs. Freeman, "and you can't get them out any too soon to suit me."

While Mrs. Freeman and an officer wen after the trunk Freeman told his story to the court. He said he had worked for a number of years in South Omaha and Mrs. Freeman's mother had lived with them. He was laid off last February and then the old lady got in work and turned the daughter against husband. There were several quarrels all efforts at a reconciliation were fruitless. Some time ago Mrs. Freeman agreed to re-turn to her husband and he set about making it pleasant for her. He rented some fur-nished rooms and sent some furniture and presents over to the mother-in-law, who was to bring them over on the day of the re-union and surprise the wife. He went over to the home of the mother-in-law in Council Bluffs and found his wife there. The old lady refused him admission to the house and made him do his talking at long range. While he was leaning over the fence talking the matter over his mother-in-law called the patrol wagon and he was carted off to the Council Bluffs jail. He was released, as there was no charge made against him. He had about decided to drop the family and go it alone, and came back to Omaha. He had just reached his shop and commenced work when he was arrested and brought to the Omaha jail on the charge of disturbing the

The matter was finally settled up. Mrs. Freeman has her trunk, the mother-in-law as her revenge and Freeman has a crop full bitter marital experience.

Forgot to Settle the Bill. W. P. Renshaw, a former political worker from the Chadron district, had business at police station yesterday. He had been enjoying the good things of this life for several days at the Victoria hotel and started to leave the city. He neglected the matter of settling a little bill of $12 for his accommodations at the hotel and was arrested on a warrant charging him with

Other charges will be filed against Renshaw. He is accused of having obtained monsy from several merchants by repre-senting himself as a traveling salesman, professing to take orders for goods and then securing a loan of money on the strength of Ruben Goes to Jail Again.

Ruben Wheeles is having another round of trouble with the C. F. Adams company. He was recently arrested, charged with embezzlement, but patched the matter up and went to work again for the company. He is in fail again, having been charged with selling goods belonging to the company and converting the money to his own use. There were five charges filed, the prisoner being that the new rule will create a monopoly for the few brokers who may be able to put up such a bond as is required. They assert that the bond fixed by the ordinance is much larger than should be required and that she never got a cent of the mortgage money. She objects to having her property taken to satisfy her husband's debts.

Located Mrs. Allen's Jewelry. The fellow who stole Mrs. Allen's rings from her home on South Thirty-sixth street made a very poor plant of them. The theft was committed several days ago. Yesterday morning a boy found a package lying near a pile of iron at the Omaha Street Railway company's Nineteenth street power house. three rings and a small silver watch, the property of Mrs. Allen, were found in the package and returned to their owner.

"Sleepy" Behind the Bars. The charge of burglary has been dismissed against "Sleepy" Hewitt, who took Jim Kyner's horse from a barn on Corby street a few nights ago and drove the animal over to Courtland beach. "Sleepy" preaded guilty to the charge of taking and driving a horse without leave and was sentenced to eighty-five days in the county jall.

Minor Police Court Matters. Charles Webber, charged with having entired Miss Etta Martin into a house of ill repute, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Berka. The girl has been sent to the home

J. Z. Hissen has been arrested on the charge of disposing of mortgaged property. He was in the toils of a chattel mortgage agent and tried to get out by selling his furniture. Hence the arrest.

Officer Marshall, who was shot to pieces by a burgler about a year ago, has been made acting jailer at the police station, vice Al Behout removed. Mr. Marshall is just recovering from the long illness that was caused by his desperate struggle with the burglar who shot him.

Mrs. Sullivan, who keeps a boarding house at Eighteenth and Manderson streets, secured a warrant yesterday for the arrest of one of her star boarders. Fritzy Fuller, on a charge of assault and battery. Fuller never missed a meal, but when he was requested to settle he sought to pay the score by thrashing the landlady.

Jack Woods is in jail charged with larceny. Jack is supposed to be the man who borrowed a delivery wagon several nights ago in order to go fishing. The wagon was standing at the time under the Douglas street bridge and belonged to a grocery firm in the neighborhood. On the day after the wagon was taken members of the firm were compelled to deliver goods by carrying them on their backs. This made them angry and as their backs. This made them angry and as Woods was the man who was thought to have

POSSIBILITIES OF THE GREAT SOUTH

How the Attention of Western and Northern People Was Turned There. Little by little as the western and northern man from one cause or another strayed into the south, he saw that the crops which the native southern farmer had been raising for the past thirty years or more were grown year after year to the exclusion of nearly every other crop. It was then that a few western men chose small pieces of land in central Mississippi and determined to try and emonstrate that the raising of vegetables and fruit would pay as well and may be better than the old time staple farm products. The railroads at once entered into the spirit of of the thing and with all the facilities a their command aided and abetted this ef-fort to place these crops of the garden farm ers and fruit growers in the eastern, western and northern markets. The results of this liberal policy on the part of the railroads was so immediately apparent and the profits of the cloneers in this branch of industry so satisfactory and quickly gained, that it attracted the attention of many newspapers both west and south. The result was that accounts of the matter were read and discussed by families who had become tired of the long tedious winters of the west as well as the hot, dry summers and the chance every few years of hot winds and drouth robbing the produce of every vestige of crop and the consequent loss and suffering that such a condition entailed. The westerner then determined to investigate the accounts he had read and heard so many times. What was the result?

ply this, that while he did not always find everything exactly to his liking, yet the advantages given by a section of the country where two and three crops are successfully grown in a single year, on the same land where the climate was such that a man could work in the field nearly every day in the year; where fuel in abundance could be had almost for the hauling, and where nearly very kind of vegetable that had been expe rimented on grew to perfection—all this was presented so forcibly to the mind of the aomeseekers that he finally decided to cast his lot in this veritable land of plenty, and so far as one can determine from an actual inspection of his present condition and pros-pects he has had no reason to repent of his choice of a location. All this has been done within the last few years. Now what a difference? What a change? It seems incredble. Today it is the literal truth to say that thousands of western and northern families are located in the south. Mr. George W. Ames. who has but recently returned from a trip through four of the southern states, re-ports that the changes in the south, especially in central Mississippi where Orchard Homes lands are located, is simply marvelets. And no wonder when you stop to consider that by the cultivation of strawberries, plums peaches, apricots, tomatoes, peas, radishes Irish and sweet potatoes, and other vegetables, the land is yielding to its owners from and finally Freeman was arrested at his 325 to $200 per acre annually. There is also mother-in-law's instance, charged with having bitten off Mrs. Freeman's nose. The that cattle do well in this country—better in ing bitten off Mrs. Freeman's nose. The that cattle do well in this country—better in mother-in-law failed to appear at the trial and moved to Council Bluffs. The case was dismissed and a fine entered against the mother-in-law. Mrs. Freeman followed her mother to Council Bluffs and for some time all efforts at a reconciliation were fruitless. low prices, the results are surprisingly satis factory and profitable. Ordinances to Govern Pawnbrokers and Second-Hand Dealers. There is likely to be a general turning over of the pawnbroking business in Omaha as the result of an order which has been issued by Mayor Bemis by which pawnbrokers' bondsmen are to be hereafter required to qualify for the full amount for which they are represented on the various bonds. The result o far has been that only two or three of he sixteen pawnbrokers have taken out their icenses for the last six months of 1895, and t is claimed that most of the remainder will not be able to furnish a bond to conform with he new regulation.

The ordinance requires every pawnbroker to pay a license of $100 a year, or $50 every six months and give a bond in the sum of $5,000, which shall be approved by the mayor In previous years the bond was a matter of little difficulty with the brokers. They got together and one signed the bond of the others, the result being that one man was often represented as surety on six or eight bonds. At the beginning of the present year Mayor Bemis called a halt on this method by refusing to allow any one of them to sign more than two or three bonds, and in some cases the limit was placed at one. With some cases the limit was placed at one. With some difficulty the bonds were finally fixed up to conform with this order, but none of the ondsmen qualified for more than $5,000 in my one instance. Under the last order each bondsman must qualify for as many times $5,000 as he ap-pears as a bondsman, and it is represented that a majority of the pawnbrokers will now be unable to furnish bonds. The new arrangement is approved by the larger dealers, but the smaller establishments are urging that the new rule will create a monopoly it should be either reduced or they should be allowed to sign each other's bonds without qualifying. In connection with this subject an ordinance is under consideration which will levy a license upon all second-hand stores, whose business is not strictly confined to household goods. Such a regulation is in vogue in nu-merous other cities and it is claimed that many establishments do a pawnbroking business, but evade the payment of a license by discarding the three balls and posing as second-hand stores. These dealers can easily second-hand stores. These dealers can easily do the same business that is done by the pawnbrokers and it is stated that several the pawnbrokers who cannot get a bond are preparing to go into the second-hand business. About the only difference between the method of the second-hand dealer and that of the pawnbroker is that no tickets are given out by the former. If the impecunious citizen wishes to pawn his watch at a second-hand store he simply sells it to the establishment. The dealer takes the watch, but in-The dealer takes the watch, but in ment. The dealer takes the watch, but in-stead of giving him a pawn ticket he hands the customer his business card so he will not forget the place. At the end of thirty days the customer may call and buy back his watch at the purchase price, added to the in-terest at the usual rates charged by pawn-parkers. As this is simply a clear method brokers. As this is simply a clever method of evading the payment of a license, it is proposed to checkmate the scheme by imposing a license on second-hand dealers as

Cannot Locate the Cause. The threatened epidemic of typhoid fever s abating somewhat and only one new case as been reported this week. Dr. Towne is unable to satisfactorily locate the cause of the disease without an analysis of the ice and water used by the infected families. It has been found that in most of the families where the fever has appeared ice is used which was taken from Cut-Off lake and this has always heen held by the health department to be un-sanitary. The council may be asked to make an appropriation sufficient to pay for an an-alysis of several samples of the Cut-Off lake tee, in order to ascertain whether the theory of the health officials is correct.

Wife Informs the Husband that He is Asking for Too Much and that She Will Contest His Demands One at a Time.

August Wohlgeh has made a proposition n the district court to his wife, Christina Wohlgeh, that they shall secure a legal separation and divide the property between them. To carry out this plan, Wohlgeh has filed a petition, asking the court to make such an order. His spouse has raised serious objections on legal grounds. She has filed a demurrer, in which she claims that a divorce and a legal distribution of the family property cannot be both prayed for in one petition. If she fights the case she says she proposes to attack one question at a time She claims that Wohlgeh has misjoined his auses of action. The Wohlgehs have lived in Omaha ever since 1869. Theirs is a case of common law marriage. According to Wohlgeh's story he and his spouse, the year prio to coming to this city, mutually agreed it Chicago, to spend life together in double harness. Since residing in Omaha, Wohlgeh has industriously raised pigs and carted expressage, accumulating numerous small par-cels of land about the city. This he is will ing to divide, he says, if the court will diwith trying to shoot him. Mrs. Wohlgeh has the best of the bargain, as Wohlgeh admits that at her earnest solicitations, he placed all the property in her name just to please her.

Killing.
Another petition was filed yesterday in the Ish case, bringing Mrs. Mabel E. Ish into the court as an additional defendant, along with her husband, in the damage suit for $5,000 brought by Ferdinand Meyer, as adminis trator of the Chapple estate.

Last Saturday permission was granted for the filing of the new petition. By its terms it makes Mrs. Ish responsible as much as Ish himself, for the killing of Chapple, the allegations tending to show that Mrs. Ish was in collusion with Ish to get Chapple int the Ish house, where he was murdered.

The administrator found it to his advantage get Mrs. Ish into the case, because Ish ransferred a $20,000 piece of Farnam stree lot to his wife at the time he gave away his property to the members of his family This makes Mrs. Ish good for the prospec tive judgment, without making it necessary to try to compel Ish to admit he made this transfer to defeat the suit of Mrs. Chapple.
