RMENT'S RESOLUTION THE INITIAL STEP

Ten Councilmen Pool Their Issues Preparatory to Trying to Turning the Police Force of the City Over to the Gang.

that the majority in the city council is preparing to do its part in promoting the schemes of the Churchill-Russell combination was indicated by the manner in which Kment's resolution, which provided for an investigation of the conduct of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, slipped through at the meeting Tuesday night. Not one of the ten members who voted for the resolution but seemed understand it perfectly. There were no requests for information as to the purpose or scope of the proposed investigation and the members voted "Aye" with a readiness that indicated their entire familiarity with the subject. But the information that the members pos sessed Tuesday night seems to have mysteriquely disappeared. In speaking of the matte yesterday not one of the ten members who voted for the resolution, except Taylor, v.to is the reputed author of it, had the slightest idea what was contemplated. According to their statements, the whole thing was a veritable surprise party to them. They had never dreamed that such a resolution was going to be introduced. They did not know what purpose it was expected to serve, and, the single exception of Prince, they admitted that the council had no legal juris diction over the actions of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. They have voted for the resolution because they though an investigation might be a good thing or general principles, but they could not imagine what the council would do in case the judiciary committee should report that the commission had not acted properly. In fact, the statements of the different councilmen were so exactly similar as to indicate that they had pooled issues in advance and decided that the only safe course would be to assume the most dense ignorance of the

CUT AND DRIED TODAY. Councilman Taylor did not know for cer tain what the resolution was intended to accomplish. He knew that he was in favo of a strict civil service system in the police force, the fire department and the city offices How this resolution was going to promote civil service he could not say. He though that the men who had been dismissed should have been given a trial, as they had con-tributed to the police relief fund out of their salaries. He did not know of any man who had been discharged for religious or political reasons, nor did he know of any one who had been appointed for those reasons. But he was willing to acquire some knowledge of that description. He did not know what the council would do if the committee report should condemn the commissioners.

In regard to the authorship of Kment's resolution Mr. Taylor preserved a dense silence. He refused either to admit or deny that it was written by himself, on the plea that he was considered a crank already and if he fathered this resolution it might described. that he was considered a crank already and if he fathered this resolution it might draw out additional criticism.

Mr. Kment could not be seen yesterday, but he is said to have the same interview pre-pared which was given by the other council-men. Jacobsen says that he was very much surprised by the introduction of the resolu-tion. Prince, Jaynes, Gordon and others were equally overwhelmed. They could not imagine what purpose it could serve or what it was meant to accomplish. Prince what it was meant to accomplish. Prince opined that as a conservator of the peace the council had a right to inquire into the conduct of the police board, but the others admitted that in their opinion no such right existed. Gordon was not sure in regard to this point. He was going to study up the law on the subject so as to be sure that he knew all about it before he put himself on record.

With the exception of Taylor and Gordon, all the councilmen denied that the measure was preliminary to cutting off the salaries of the members of the board or others. Tayof the members of the board or others. Tay-lor and Gordon studiously refrained from committing themselves on this point, while Jaynes declared that while he thought the investigation was all right, he would not be a party to any monkeying with the ap-

MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION TALK. In regard to the proposed investigation. Commissioner Charles H. Brown said that as far as he was concerned he would be glad to receive the council committee with due courtesy, and to answer any questions which any citizen might ask. But so far as recognizing the right of the council to make any official investigation was concerned, there was no possible ground for supposing that it had any business to monkey with the affairs of the board. He had no per-sonal knowledge of the politics or religion of any of the men who had been appointed or discharged. He had never voted to dis-charge or appoint any man on account of his religious or political faith and non-

Commissioner Howard B. Smith was equally certain that the council had no right to make any investigation of the actions of the board. Such action would be without warrant either of law or precedent. In regard to the complaints that political reasons had influenced the board in selecting policemen, Mr. Smith stated that he, and so far as he knew, no member of the board, knew whether the men who had been dismissed or employed were republicans, democrats or populists. Neither did he know crats or populists. Neither did he know what their religious beliefs might be. His vote had certainly never been influenced by any such consideration.

Chief of Police White said that when he came to Omaha he found the police force in a thoroughly disorganized condition. Police duty was allowed to go for naugat, while the members of the two contending factions spent their time in watching each other and creating dissensions which were fatal to discipline. He had talked to the men and had told them that this sort of thing would not be countenanced in the future. They were free to hold to any religious or political faith they pleased, but discussions of the matters would not be allowed, and any cifteer who was discovered agitating the subject would be peremptorily discharged. Some of the officers evidently thought he was joking and had paid no attention to the order. The result was that they had been dismissed. The political or religious principles of a man had not been considered in any case. It was simply a question whether they allowed these beliefs to interfere with the proper discharge of their duty and used them to spread dis-

CHIEF REDELL'S POSITION. Chief John Redell of the fire department aid that the use of his name in the World-Herald, relative to what course he would pursue if there should be two Boards of Fire and Police Commissioners in Omaha, was entirely unauthorized. He did not intend to cross a bridge until he came to it and should content himself with attending strictly to the business of the fire department. So far as the two-board problem was concerned he should consider himself subject to the board which was legally in office and would recog-nize the present officials as long as they nize the prese were in power.

COMPRESSED AIR.

A Test of Its Value as a Motive Power to Be Made in Baltimore.

A test of compressed air as a motive power for rapid transit will shortly be made in Baltimore for the purpose of demonstrat ing the efficiency and comparative cost of his religious or political faith, and none of them had ever been called on to say what that faith might be.

Commissioner Howard B. Smith was equally certain that the council had no right for their trial trip next week. Air compressors for the purpose of charging the cars are being constructed, and will be ready at the same time.

The new cars may make their first trips on the Baltimore, Catonsville & Ellicott City railway. The experiment may also be made railway. The experiment may also be made on the Traction company's line, as in that event air for the purpose could be compressed at one of the traction company's power houses without trouble. The new cars will be of the ordinary size and dimensions, with the same seating capacity as those now used. The controlling device for the motormen is simple and positive in effect, occupying no more platform space than fect, occupying no more platform space than the ordinary brake handle. All the other mechanism is under the car floor. In pro-cess of operation the air is compressed to from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds per square inch and stored in the station tank. With sufficient storage capacity in the station, the time occupied in charging the car, either automatically or by hand device, need not take more than half a minute.

The storage capacity of the seamless steel flasks or containers, in the car is sufficient to operate the car from twelve to fifteen miles or more, according to the pressure. After passing through a reducing valve and being lowered to whatever is desired as a working pressure, the air is circulated through hot water, and the mixture of heated air and vaporized water passes to the motors, working expansively. The mechanical features of the motors are substantially identical with those of a steam locomotive. It is said the manipulation of scomotive. It is said the manipulation of the car is simplicity itself, that it is noise iess, and operates without Jars or Jerks, and is under perfect control at all times. One More Round in an Ancient Lawsuit Gets a Decision.

BALDWIN-BURT CASE BEFORE JUDGE KEYSOR

Three Hundred Innocent Purchasers Given an Opportunity to File Their Answers with the Court Within Twenty Days.

The foreclosure suit of Baldwin against Burt is to be given another round in the dis-Some 300 defendants, who have been anxiously waiting for an opportunity to make a contest, were this morning granted the right to do so by Judge Keysor.

This suit during its pendency in the district court for the last half dozen years has become very complicated. It has several times been up for hearing before the supreme court and each time rulings have been made by that body which so perplexed attorneys that it has been a bone of contention among them for weeks past to determine just what the supreme court did decide. Some claimed that the supreme court declared that the suit was to be sent back to district court for the purpose of finding out what the "equities" or rights of the various defend-ants were and so settling the interests of the various parties in the real estate. argued that the supreme court held that the case must come back for the purpose of entering up a judgment in favor of Eunice Baldwin against the several hundreds of Omaha citizens, who in times gone by had bought lots lying in West Side, Himebaugh's and Wakeley's additions, against which the mortgage in question now being foreclosed vas afterward set up Judge Keysor decided the case yesterday,

Sheeley Parish Row Again. From a contest for the possession of a ouse of worship among the Polish parishoners of Sheeley station, the legal controversy which was waged last summer along this line has shifted to new grounds, and the Poles are now fighting for money. St. Paul's Polish Church society has en-

Nelson and Markus Faller, who, with Kowalewski, signed an appeal bond in the sum of $200 for the purpose of staying a judgment rendered last summer in Cockrell's justice court ejecting the faction known as St. Paul's church from Sheeley church and parsonage site, sit-uated in lot 13, block 5, Summit addition. The appeal was taken, the bond signed, and the St. Paul faction continued all summer to hold the church. So bitter did the fight become that Judge Scott commenced proceedings against Bishop Scannell, claiming that the court had been brought into con-

THREE MEN WITH ONE IDEA

Made Voting Machines and Nov They Have a Law Suit. Some time ago Albert Sjoberg of Omaha invented a machine for registering votes and filed an application for a patent at Washington. A short time previous Douglas Dobbins of Indianapolis filed an application for a patent on a similar machine and still later John Blocher of Franklin Grove. Ill., came forward with the third application for a patent on a voting machine. When the patent office took up the matter it was found that the essential part of each ma-chine was the same. The three inventors working independently of each other had incorporated in their machines nechanism for locking all other keys when the straight party key was pressed down by the voter.

When two or more parties have filed an application for a patent on the same idea, tha man who first thought out and put into drawings or constructed a model, is the one entitled to the patent. Such cases are known at the patent offices as interferences. patent offices as interferences.

In the present case an interference was declared at the patent office and during the past few days H. W. Pennock has been taking testimony in Omaha as to when Albert Sjoberg invented his machine, Testi-mony will be taken at the homes of the other claimants and then the whole will be submitted to the patent office, to be taken into consideration. The testimony taken at Omaha will cover about 150 printed pages, so that some blea may be gained at to what it costs to contest a patent, The present case is one of great importance, as the successful claimant will be able to exact a royalty on every voting machine

JOINED ONE OR THE LOVERS.

Another Case Where Love Laughed at Mrs. H. C. Hawkesworth of 1219 North Twentleth street, is looking for her sister, whom she thinks has eloped with one of several lovers.

The girl in question is Helen Pruyne Helen is but 16 years old and has been making her home with Mrs. Hawkesworth for several years. She is a very pretty girl, bright, has an amiable disposition and a number of ardent lovers among the young men of her acquaintance. Mrs. Hawkesworth had noticed for some time that Helen was evincing a disposition to spend too time in the company of young people and of late had been much from home on excursions and picnics. The one source of satisfaction to the married sister was that Helen did not seem to be partial in the distribution of her favors, but had quite a number of young male friends and seemed to treat them all alike. A few days ago Mrs. Hawksworth remonstrated with the girl and sought to dis-suade her from giving up so much of her time to the demands of her circle of friends. The girl at first seemed to resent the interference with her plans for a good time this summer and insisted upon having all the fun she could get out of her opportunities. On Sunday evening Helen went to the park with a party of young friends and as she did not return at the agreed hour Mrs. Hawkes-worth naturally became anxious about her. and waited for the girl's return, intending to have it out with the young man who would keep a girl out until such an unseemly hour. It was after midnight when Helen returned home and she came back with a young man who had not appeared on the scene before, a different lover from the one with whom she had gone to the park. The young man was dismissed with scant eremony and Mrs. Hawkesworth sat down and had a long talk with Helen. The girl seemed very tractable and penitent and finally romised that she would forego her pleasures and spend her time at home, except when she had permission from her sister to go out for an evening. All day Tuesday Helen was at home and made herself especially agreeable to her sister and the family and cheerfully discharged her share of the house hold duties. When she was ready to retire ast night she asked that her sister call her early this morning, as she wanted to go with Mrs. Hawkerworth to the market. This was promised and the girl bade all of the members of the family an over affectional good night and retired to her room.

When Mrs. Hawkesworth went to cal Helen yesterday morning she was astonished and alarmed to discover that the girl was not in her room. Her bed had not been occupied. An open window and footprints in the sand outside the house showed how the girl had left her home. Mrs. Hawkesworth immediately notified the police and asked their assistance in locating the missing girl. She is of the opinion that Helen has foolishly left her home to clope with one of her young friends, but she has no suspicion as to which one of her boy lovers is likely to be mixed

Peanuts are very hardy members of the potato family. They actually thrive better in poor so'l than rich. They grow deep in the ground, burying themselves near the roots of the parent stem. Their uses are many and important. There is the peanut soup, with which Prussia feeds her army. There is the rich oil made from the peanut There are the husks of the nuts, which are considered just the thing for fattening hogs. And there is the dried foliage, which is a sort of hay and which so interests live stock that cows are perfectly willing to break through ten-rail fences in order to reach it. The effect of the peanut hay on the cow something like the charm that catnip has for grimalkins. Down in the far south the old darkies enjoy nothing so much as a mes of pounded peanets and molasses, which they call a "fry." And the peanut makes about three-fourths of the circus and fully alf of Fourth of July.

That the jolly peanut is as profitable as nutritious there can be no doubt in the mind of the man who has seen Orchard Homes and the succulent ground fruit there grown The peanut crop is said to average in Vir. acre: at Orchard Homes and in its vicinity the average is from 150 to 200 bushels an acre. All vegetables that are marketable and fruits as well are raised easily and with profit. PORTLAND, ORE. LOSANGELES.

Next Saturday

We will have our semi-annual pants sale. Everybody in Omaha and around here ought to know what the "Nebraska's" Pants sale is like. We have them at the end of every season and a good many of you have profited by every one we've held for the past 9 years. They are our own particular sales-Original with us-Never successfully imltated.-We buy no pants for these sales.

We Have

No old or chestnut patterns in stock which we mix in with these pants. They are just exactyl what we claim them to be. Odd Suit Pants, each and every pair having been left from some suit where only the coat and vest have been sold. There are almost as many different patterns as we've had different patterns in suits during the past six months. There are in the neighborhood of two thousand pairs in the accumulation, which will be divided into three different lots, and sold at prices-You never saw the like before.

It will pay you to attend o
