Four Matrimonial Mismates. Two more suits for divorces were commenced in the district court yesterday. George Landon claims that his wife, Lydia, married him in Pottawattamie county, Kan-, in 1885, but last May he discovered, so alleges, that she was hugging, kissing and doing things still more reprehensible to one Harry Bennett and others, besides carrying on a correspondence with a certain young man in Chicago. He also charges she used no much vile language, broke so many dishes and done so many cruel and abusive things that he considers her no fit guardian for their two children, Carrie and George, aged 10 and 7 respectively, and he asks to be appointed their custodian.

Emma Ostrom begins suit against Henry Ostrom. They were married in South Omaha in 1890. Since last February, the petition alleges, he has been cohabiting unlawfully with a Mrs. Briggs. In addition to the divorce Mrs. Ostrom asks $100 temporary and $400 permanent allmony.

Working on the Jury Lists. County Clerk Reed and his assistants are working on the jury lists, which, according to the new law which went into effect this month, is by no means a small task. Per-forated slips of paper have been prepared, one for each name, and there are to be 10,000 names or thereabouts. The name of each voter in the county will be put on a slip, with the exception of those who by law are exempt from jury service on account of age or occupation. There are 11.000 voters in the county, but it is calculated that about 1.000 are thus exempt. It will take a good sized box and almost no end of trouble to carry out the provisions of the new law, but the officials are doing their part with as good a grace as the warm weather permits.

Council Sees No Way of Paying the Expense of Inclosing Indian Creek. The council held a short meeting yesterday norning as a committee of the whole and considered several matters, the most important of which was that with reference to the sewer which it is proposed to construct on the banks of Indian creek, between Bryant and Mynster streets. All the aldermen who were present seemed to be in favor of the scheme, but the one thing that bothered them was the question of where the money was to come from. There seemed to be some uncertainties as to whether improve-ments of that nature could be paid for out of any of the funds provided for by the statutes. Finally it was decided to refer the matter to the city attorney, and his advice will be received at a meeting of the committee of the whole, to be held next Wednesday even-The Franklin Savings bank commenced referred to the committee on streets and Indian Agent Flandreau, Who Rendered One of the Captives Valuable Service at the Time, Present at the Ceremonies.

SPIRIT LAKE, Ia., July 26,-(Special Tele gram.)-The ceremonies attendant upon the presentation of the Spirit Lake massacre nonument, just completed here, took place today. Besides those taking part in the program there were present a large number of visitors at the lakes from all parts of the state and residents for many miles around. On the east tablet of the monument is the following inscription: "The ploneer settlers work was commenced near this spot, and continued to Springfield, now Jackson, Minn."

The names of those massacred, forty in number, then follow. On the west tablet is the roster of the relief expedition, which started from Fort Dodge, March 24, 1857, Major William Williams commanding. There were 102 in the party. On the north tablet appears the coat of arms of the state, with the information that the shaft was erected. named below were massacred by Sioux Inthe information that the shaft was creeted by order of the Twenty-fifth general assembiy. The south tablet has inscribed on it a list of the dead and rescued. R. A. Smith, resident member of the monument commission, acted as chairman, and recalled at some length the work of the sav-ages so many years ago, when but few set-tlers were brave enough to face the dangers attendant upon breaking in the virgin soil amidst warlike Indians and wild animals. Charles E. Flandreau of St. Paul, the Inommission, acted as chairman, and Charles E. Flandreau of St. Paul, the Indian agent who rendered such valuable service to Mrs. Abbie Gardner Sharp when she was in captivity spoke of his connection with the affair and the difficulty with which he rescued the girl, for the savages were hard to pacify and paid little attention to a flag of truce. With much feeling O. C. Howe talked of the part taken by the settlers, the difficulties with which they had to contend the massacre, and the subsequent rescue of

SEVERE HAIL AND RAIN STORM. Considerable Iowa Territory Swept

and Crops Generally Damaged.
MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., July 26.—The neaviest rain and hall storm since 1881 visited this section last night. Two and onequarter inches of rain and considerable hall fell here. The storm was much more severe both north and south. A strip of country in the northwestrn part of the county was badly damaged by bail and washouts. A number of fields of corn were ruined and bridges and fences washed out. The cornfields in the southeastern part of the county were also damaged by hail, which were as large as walnuts in some localities. All the glass in many of the buildings was shattered. ELDORA, Ia., July 26.—This county was visited by the worst rain storm for years lasnight and today. Two inches of water fell.
