CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Local Jobbers Report a Fair Movement of Seasonable Goods.

COLLECTIONS ARE STILL RATHER SLOW

Values on Most Lines of Merchandisc Remain Firm with Few Changes that -Fall and Winter Goods Commencing to Arrive.

Another week has passed, and still the reports from almost all sections indicate a continuance of favorable crop conditions. Traveling men send in daily reports to their houses, and the information gained from that source, supplemented by letters from country customers, keeps the jobbers Industrial Briefs Gathered from Far in close touch with the situation in all sections of the state. The best evidence feeling of confidence among jobbers ensibesa men generally are fully alive to the presence of more favorable trade conditions than have prevailed for a long time, nevertheless they are inclined to move cautiously. Every one is striving to move cautiously. Every one is striving to keep necessary expenses down in proportion to the volume of present business, and at the same time be prepared to handle a large fall trade.

Omaha jobbers have kept their men on the road during the extremely dull times, not infrequently at a serious loss, for the sole purpose of keeping in touch with the trade. With the improvement of business it is confidently expected that Omaha jobbers will have a better hold than ever upon the trade of the state, for the simple reason that they have taken the best care of it that they could during the hard times.

of it that they could during the hard times.

Just at the present there is very little doing in the country in a retail way. The farmers are all very busy in the fields, and will not take the time to visit the towns.

The last comptroller's call upon the national banks was made something over a week ago, and the bank statements have been published. They show a continued shrinkage in the deposits, and a generally unsatisfactory condition so far as money-making for the banks goes, though the showing is a further assurance of the solvency of Omaha's financial institutions.

Dun's locai-representative has complied the following table showing the totals for the national banks of Omaha and South Omaha at the periods named: Omaha at the periods named:

The new fall and winter goods are commencing to arrive quite freely at local dry goods houses. The buyers have been east for some little time and the earliest of their selections are now being unpacked and put in shape for the fall trade.

In shape for the fail trade. The dry goods market has remained firm, though no very important changes are to be nated. Bleach cottons have been firm and some kinds of woolen goods are hard to secure, notably certain lines of underwear, blankets and flannels, the mills being oversoid. Some minor lines show decided advances, as, for example, pins, which show an advance of 15 per cent.

A buyer for a local house, who has just returned from the east, says of the dry goods situation. There has been no sudden beem in the market, but the betterment remarked in all departments of the trade has been maturing steadily and surely for the last four months, and, what is something very unusual, without a setback in any respect. It was the natural reaction from all commodities had sunk. Since the middle of March values have been gradually climbing higher, but with increasing rapidity. The reaction thus commencing in the more staple articles, and in cotton particularly, slowly extended to the opening of factories that had been closed for shorter or longer periods. The increased demand for the products of factories has been a great boon to labor and in most cases those factories that reduced wages in 1833 have restored them again. Prices on all lines of dry goods have appreciated more or less in the period named, but are still lower than usual. It is the first season in many years when the month of July has shown a strong and advancing market from beginning to end. In may respects the market has shown a remarkable development in a very short time and speaks well for the recuperative powers of the country."

GROCERY MARKET FIRM. GROCERY MARKET FIRM.

In the line of groceries there has been very little change during the six days under review. As noted a week ago, the market on most all lines of goods under this head is very firm and yet there have been no advances, at least none of any material importance.

The volume of trade has averaged about the same as all this month and it is not possible to note any decided gain at the present time over what it was two or three weeks ago.

The market on American sardines is demoralized and the packers say that it is very difficult to sell American packed sardines in any section of the country, owing to the quantity of inferior goods that have been placed upon the market during the past two years.

The continued scarcity of all kinds of

The continued scarcity of all kinds of salted mackerel has produced a much firmer feeling on the market and should the demand hold up better prices are anticipated. Current reports attribute the present high prices for new apricots on the coast to speculative influences quite as much as to the reported shortage in the crop. Since the beginning of July holders at 'Frisco have advanced their prices 2½ cents. HARDWARE TRADE GOOD.

HARDWARE TRADE GOOD.

Local jobbers in hardware report a very fair demand for goods in their line. The general trade situation as concerns this branch of business appears to be of satisfactory character. The volume of goods moving is larger than a year ago at this time. The market is in good shape and is holding its own, though there have not been any very important advances during the past isk days. The increased cost of manufacture, owing to the advance in the price of material and wages, has caused a firmness on all minor lines of goods, and advances are announced amounting to 5 and 10 per cent. Such instances, however, are too numerous and not of sufficient importance to regit special mention, only as showing the general tendency of the market.

WITH THE SHOE MEN. WITH THE SHOE MEN.

The trade in boots and shoes is in just about the same condition that might be expected at this season of the year. Goods are going out from the jobbing houses in fair volume, but there appears to be no disposition to hurry shipments. The immediate demand from the country is small, as this is about the dullest time of the

HORSES FOR EXPORTATION.

Report That They Are Wanted for Slaughtering Denied.

During the past few weeks reports have been persistently circulated to the effect that large numbers of horses were being bought up in the west and exported for slaughtering purposes. These reports for the most part appear to have originated at the seaboard, where it was said shipoads of horses were being consigned to European countries. A good many horses in the course of a year are received and forwarded at South Omaha. Careful inquiry among the dealers at the stock yards, who are familiar with the ins and cuts of the trade, failed to shirt any information tending purposes.

There has been a very material increase during purposes.

There has been a very material increase during the past two or three mooths in the demand abroad for good serviceable draft horses. The horses raised in Missouri and lowa are especially desirable for this trade, They are from fourteen to sixteen hands high, are especially desirable for this that the way of these blacks in Missouri and lowa are especially desirable for this trade, They are from fourteen to sixteen hands high, are easy of the past two or three mooths in the demand abroad for good serviceable draft horses. NEVER BEFORE SO CHEAP.

In New York City the report that horses are being exported for staughter has created a good deal of interest, but investigation shows that there is no truth in the statement. The Journal of Commerce quotes a representative of the Hamburg-American line of steamers as follows: 'Our line carries from fifty to 200 horses on each passage of its freight steamers. I have personally attended these shimments and I am sure from 800 to 1,000 marks in Hamburg, and were used exclusively for agricultural purposes. The borses are not going into the army, as they have neither the speed nor the action required. As a whole, the borses being exported are of good breed and are worth considerable money. If they were not nobody would be willing to pay $25 a head in freight charges."

Horses have been so low of late that they were not nobody would be so low of late that they were not worth rounding up on the ranges. A representative of a western cattle company said in South Omaha last fall that he would be giad to give away his horses to anyone who would round them up and take them away where they would not eat up the grass on the range that was wanted for the cattle. The report that horses were wanted abroad for slaughtering has created a hope that an outlet might be found after all for the range horses. Eastern exporters, however, say that even if there was a foreign demand for horses for shaughtering purposes that the common we tern bronchos would not sell, as they are not the kind that would be considered at for that purpose.

Secretary Hamilton of the Norfolk beet sugar factory says: "A renewed stimulus was given to the beet sugar industry in Nebraska this season by the fact that wherever the beets were grown last year it was demonstrated beyond doubt that they are better able to withstand a drouth than any other farm product, and while the crop was naturally reduced considerably by the unusual dry weather, there was often a very fair tonnage of beets side by side with other crops that were a total failure. For this reason, coupled with the beneficial effects of the state bounty bill, which enabled the manufacturers to pay a uniform price of $5$ per ton, the 1st of May found both the Norfolk and Grand Island factories closing their books with their full complement of 4,000 acres each—all contracted by farmers— and a record of over 1,000 acres more refused at each place. Planting began in good season and with less damage than in previous years from blowing of soil. Owing principally to a befter selection of land and a fair amount of rain at the proper time, an unusually good stand was secured at the outset. There was a lack of moisture in the latter part of May, but fortunately before the situation became very serious the copious rains in June secured at the outset. There was a lack of moisture in the latter part of May, but fortunately before the situation became very serious the copious rains in June brought the crop out of its only critical situation this season and started the plants growing at a very rapid rate, so that now the crop in general is in an extremely thriving condition and in tonnage bids fair to tax the two factories to their utmost capacity.

They are talking about home patronage at Duluth. The Northwestern Merchant of that city says: "Let our wholesale grocers support home industries and then they have the right to ask the local dealers to give them the preference of their trade. What is fair for one is fair for the other and it is a poor rule that won't work both ways."

No one pretends to be doing business to

No one pretends to be doing business to any extent, but the trade generally appears to have settled down to avait the opening of the fall senson.

Now and then some seasonable specialty comes into demand, but the volume of trade in such lines is not sufficient to change the general situation.

The retail cigar men of the city are interested to some extent in the law massed by the linst legislature making it a misdemeanor to sell cigasettes to persons under 21 years of age. The new law goes into effect on August 1. Inquiries among a number of the retail cigar dealers failed to elicit any very serious objections. It was pointed out by some that it was to easy matter to distinguish a boy is to 20 years of age from one 21 years old, and that it would be a rather embarrassing question to ask a young man, who might call for a package of cigarettes, his age. A person under 21, if asked such a question, would probably take the question as an insult, and in future buy of some other dealer.

One of the largest retail dealers said that One of the largest retail dealers said that there was no profit in cigarettes, and that if the law reduced the number smoked it would be a good thing for the cigar dealers. "I do not care anything about the boys' trade," said a dealer, "but if the law were to cut off the physician's patronage I would feel it. It may surprise you, but it is a fact that a very large proportion of the most prominent physicians in the city smoke cigarettes. Lawyers, too, are quite fond of the paper cigar." Another dealer gave it as his opinion that there would be places in the city that would continue to sell cigarettes in deliance of law, and that the trade would simply pass to them from the reputable dealers.

The visible supply, which last year increased 3,39,000 bu., will perhaps show a small decrease this week, estimated at about 259,000 bu. The report from the northwest in some cases would lead to the impression of very serious failure and in others to the expectation of an exceptionally heavy crop. The amount of business done on orders from the outside was small. The small Argentine shipments and the higher cables kept the market strong throughout the day despite considerable realizing.
