Hartington Has a Wind Storm.

HARTINGTON, Neb., July 29.-(Special rain swept over here last night. The wind blew a perfect hurricane and the lightning was vivid. A number of houses are minus chimneys today. The fire bell tower was laid low and the grand stand at the fair grounds is a wreck. One barn and several outhouses also succumbed to the gate. The dam crops was confined to uncut small grain. Fortunately most of the farmers are through, or nearly through, cutting. Corn was laid to windward, but will straighten up with no perceptible damage. It was the worst storm experienced here for a number of years, although of short duration, and many inhabitants sought safety in cellars and cyclone caves.

Threatened by Tramps.

The Wahoos come with an unbroken string of victories, as they have won from all the teams all over the state, and have beaten the University club batteries, but they will find a different proposition when they face the whole team, as the locals have been improving wonderfully in batting of late. The games Thursday and Friday will be called at 4 o'clock and on Saturday at the usual time, which is 3.20 p. m. The University club has also closed dates with the champion Kansas City Smeltzers for two games, August 9 and 10, and as this team is the champion of Kansas and Mis-souri, some interesting games may be looked forward to.
