In reply to this, I have the honor to say, sir, that the people of Omaba are a law-abiding people, and your aspersions against the good people of that city are entirely without foundation in fact, and can be but the product of an unusually excited mind. with the people of Omaha and talked with a very large number upon the very subject you slude to, both before the reading of your communication in the press and after, and did not discover any such facts to exist as you assume. No person, directly or indi-rectly, said or indicated anything from which the most timid and imaginative mind could have inferred anything of the kind you

The people of Omaha expect to submit to the law, while at the same time they look upon the executive officers of the state for the enforcement of the laws.

REFERS TO THE POLICE TROUBLE. As a proof of the forbearance of the good people of Omaha I desire to call your excellency's attention to the provisions of an act passed in 1303. See chapter II, page 403. Session Acts of 1853. In the first section it is made unlawful for any person or persons association, company or corporation to bring or import into this state any person or persons, etc., for the purpose of discharging the duties devolving upon police officers. "Section 2. That no mayor, sheriff or chief of police, or board of police commis-sioners shall appoint any under sheriff or deputy for the protection of public or private property, except the person so appointed shall be a resident of the state."

But, notwithstanding, I am credibly informed this old board to which you refer has displaced many of the better police officers of the city of Omaha, and put in their stead men imported into the state only a few days be-rences as you seem to think may occur. I note what you say relative to a "quo warranto" proceeding. Please, governor, inform us how this can be done, until there are at least two parties claiming the same office; until a new commission be appointed who can contest the right of the old board. I note what you say about the constitu-tionality of the act. I read at the time, quite carefully your veto message of the bill, and just re-read it, and am unable to find the slightest intimation therein as to its un-fore, and yet there has been no such occur-

If, at the time, you thought it was unconstitutional, please tell us why you did not then point it out to the legislature. If it be for the reason that it takes from the executive the appointing power, please refer us to the section with which it is in conflict. If it be in relation to some other subject than that of the appointing power, please inform us in what respect it be deemed unconstitutional. Again, if deemed unconstitutional, why did you not suggest the advisibility of the supreme court decision at an earlier date? It is more than ninety days since it received the three-fifths vote of both houses. Why wait until after the final adjournment of the court? Was it in order to at this time question its validity for an excuse for the old board to refuse to submit to the express will of the people through its legislature I have always supposed it the duty of all executive officers to enforce the laws as made by the legislative branch of the government. and all such laws are presumed valid until pronounced otherwise by the courts.

You also say: "Men in the city of Omaha are organizing and holding frequent meetings with the avowed expectation of becoming a part of the police force under the provisions

I am unable to comprehend how this can possible, as under the new law the commission is clothed with the power of appointlieve there are "a large number of men" so and have not consuited the sober, thinking business men of Omaha.

HAS NOTHING TO AGREE ON. You say: "Or that an agreed case shall be submitted to such court under the pro-visions of section 567 of the Code of Civil Procedure." That section provides: Parties to a question which might be the subject of a civil action, may, without action.

the controversy is real, and the proceedings in good faith, and determine the rights of the parties. The court shall thereupon hear and determine the case and render judgment as If an action were pending."

Please inform us what question exists which might be the subject of a civil action. I am not aware of any such question. If you can commence a civil action against the land commissioner and the attorney general to determine the constitutionality of the act referred to, then perhaps an agreed case might be maintained. But could the validity be tested in such an action? Upon what theory could it be contended there was a question which would be the subject of a civil action between yourself and the two other members of the board? You may refuse to take part but still there would be a sufficient number to constitute a quorum who could act. But further, "It must appear by affidavit that the controversy is real, and the proceedings in good faith, and determine the rights of the

May I not ask, governor, what right between yourself and the other two members of the board is involved in this controversy? If a new fire and police commission was appointed and they claimed the right to the offices as such fire and police commissioners, which right was denied by the present incumbents, and as a basis to such right they cumbents, and as a basis to such right they contended the act referred to be in conflict with some constitutional provision, then I can see how these two boards might make

I am free to confess, I not only have no objection to the supreme court passing upon the validity of this law, but of any law. You can always depend on this department do its utmost for the enforcement of all laws, and for law and order in any part of the state. I also feel that I know the tem-per and sentiment of the people of Omaha well enough to assure you that there exists no necessity for any apprehension of acts of violence. I do not, therefore, see any danger to any interest of the people of Omaha. nor do I see any occasion for asking the su-preme court to do so unusual a thing as to FLINGS IT BACK AT OMAHA. Let us look for a moment at the history of this law. The people of Omaha are intelligent—they are presumed to know what they wanted. They elected twelve good men o the legislature. Those twelve men voted for this law. It received more than a three-fifths vote in each house. You vetaed it, which you had a constitutional right to do. You gave your reasons, no one of which was that it was unconstitutional. You returned it. It was carefully considered and passed over your veto by more than the requisits three-fifths vote.

It was a matter purely local to the people of Omaha. They asked for it.

Pardon me, governor, for my presumption, but I think it comes with very bad grace for you to impugn the motives of more than three-lifths of the members of the legislature. They were honorable men; no one of them could be swerved from his duty, either by

Your duty is plain. I hope you will have the courage and patriotism to do it.

Where are such threats to end? No one knows bettet than you that that is not the law. It is your duty, as well as the most humble citizen, to bey the law until the court has declared it invalid. Any other course leads to anarchy. The law under which the present Board of Fire and Police are acting expires on the 1st day of August by act of the legislature. Who is to say it does not? The man who is not pleased with it? No. The man who did not agree with the legislature politically? No.

WILLING TO SHED BLOOD. You ask me to join with you in your plan of settlement, and you say the whole matter will be peaceably settled with dignity and decorum. No. governor, that would not do. No cringing coward was ever credited with much dignity. Much as I deplore riot and bloodshed, I would not avoid it at the expense of law.

Governor, this whole matter is in your hands. If men are killed their blood will be upon you. All you have to say to those who would defy the law is that while you are governor of the state of Nebraska you propose to enforce the laws as you find them upon the statute book, until they have been repealed by the legislature or annulled by the court. Tell them they have nothing to fear by obedience to the law.

I will take no step with you in defiance of law, but I assure you I will join heartly with you in bringing about an early decision as to the validity of this law as soon as possible after it goes into effect. In closing, let me beg of you in the name of law-abiding citizens of the state of which we are all so proud, take no step that will discredit you, or discredit the state, or blacken the reputation or peace and good order of the metropolis of Sail-Carrying Power of the Yachts Well Tested-Defender Was Leading When Her Steering Gear Broke Down.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 30.-Vigilant beat Defender today in a run of sixty-four miles from Eaton Point on the Long Island shore, five miles from Huntington harbor, to this port. The cup defender gave up the race not far from this place because her steering gear became deranged. A strong couthwest by south breeze, varying in strength from eighteen to twenty-two knots, blew throughout the greater part of the race, which was a broad reach on the starboard tack from start to finish, and with bardly the shift of a sail. When Defender dropped out it was estimated she was fully five minutes ahead of Vigilant. and the new yacht was looked upon as a sure winner, barring accidents, but the unexpected accident occurred and Defender received her

A better day for racing than today could hardly be imagined. The wind was strong and true, and increased in strength until this port was reached, when a stiff twenty-twoknot breeze was blowing, and just as the last yacht made New London a severe rain and wind squall, lasting about an hour, sprung up and set the people at Bridgeport and New Haven wondering whether the smaller yachts were caught out in it. Happily such was not the case, and barring the damage to Defender's steering gear, the splitting of one of her club topsails and a jib, and the loss of a boat from the schooner yacht Montauk, there were no accidents to record.

Vigilant had a little the better of the start and kept well ahead for some time. Finally, however, she got into a luffing match with Defender, the latter pressing her closely and Defender walked up ahead and to wind ward, pulling gradually away. It is estimated that Defender was about five minutes ahead when, nearing Newton, she suddenly luffed up, lowered her topsails, signalled for a tug and was towed to shore in the harbor. general opinion was expressed that Defende would have undoubtedly won the race had she been able to finish. Vigilant sailed she been able to finish. Vigilant sailed grandly across the line and up the harbor, winner, in four hours and forty minutes and hirty-seven seconds, elapsed, over the sixty four mile course. Constellation of Boston, in the schooner class, made a remarkable run, covering the course in 4:36:04, a really remarkable per-formance. She was the first yacht to reach this harber, and her time compared fairly with the Vigilant's 4:40:37. The race today was started with the first of the ebb tide which helped the yachts greatly.

After the races the Associated press tug Alert went alongside both Vigilant and Defender and asked Captain Barr and Captain Haff for their view of the race. The former would only say that the race spoke for itself and the latter simply admitted that Defender had split a few sails. A veteran yachtsmar who saw the race from the schooner Iroquois which also made a remarkable run, said the stiffest of the breeze was about 11 a. m. when he estimated it was blowing fully twenty-two knots, and Defender, during the worst of it, slowly crept away from Vigilant He added, however, that he hoped Vigilant had been greatly improved, otherwise he was of the opinion the cup was in danger Another expert yachtsman said Defender was undoubtedly the better boat, and that she would heat Vigilant in any weather by a good margin, but, he added, she will be much faster when she meets Valkyrie III.
This evening Defender's damaged steering gear was taken ashore to the Morgan Iron works, where several men were put to work on it. It is expected Defender will be able to start with the rest of the fleat tomorrow

DWYER'S ENTRIES DID NOT START. Crowd of Royalty.

LONDON, July 30.—The prince of Wales, the duke of York and a distinguished party went by train to Chichester today in order to attend the opening of the Goodwood rac ing season, which is of four days' duration. The social festivities which take place during the Goodwood meeting will be somewhat marred this week on account of the death of Lady Florence Gordon-Lenox, whose father, the duke of Richmond and Gordon, has closed the Gordon house, where the aristocratic gatherings were usually held. The prince of Wales will not remain over night, as has been his custom, but will return to London each day after the racing events of the day are over.

The weather was cloudy, but the track was in good condition. M. F. Dwyer had Primrose Knight and Harry Reed entored for the first race on the card and the Steward's cup respectively, but they did not go to the post. Mr. Dwyer apparently reserved Harry Reed for the West Dean stakes, in which he is a favorite.

The Steward's cup, for which there were twenty-two starters, over the 2-year-old course, three-quarters of a mile straight, was won by A. F. Bassett's Wise Virgin: J. C. Windover's Undecided second and Baron de Rothschild's Amandeer third. The value of the Steward's cup is 30 sovereigns. Harry Reed did not start in the race for the West Dean stakes, which was run over the lest five furlongs of the 2-year-old course. This event was won by the duke of Portland's Gyster Catcher. ing season, which is of four days' duration. of Portland's Oyster Catcher.

SHE FAILED TO RETURN HOME

Mrs. Gardiner of Arcadia Dropped Completely Out of Sight at Boston.

DETECTIVES FAILED TO LOCATE HER

Went to the Endeavor Convention at Boston and Has Never Been Heard from by Her Husband and Family Since.

BOSTON, July 30 .- A most mysterious affair connected with the recent Christian Endeavor convention here has just come to light. Mrs. E. T. Gardiner of Arcadia, Neb., who came here as a delegate to the convention. has not yet returned to her home and husband and children and the report of her death here is not supported by the records or by any Mrs. Gardiner is 35 years old. She had always been apparently healthy and when her Boston," whom neither Mr. Gardiner nor any one else knows, stating that the woman was dead and that in the interest of economy herbody would be buried here. . The death registers bear no record of any such death and deectives employed by Mr. Gardiner have failed to find a trace of Mrs. Gardiner, dead or alive.

It is feared by some of those interested in the case that Mrs. Gardiner has been spirited away by thieves who were attracted by the large sum of money and valuable jowelry she carried, while some believe she died and that her body was secured for dissection purposes. When Mrs. Gardiner was in Boston she did not stay with the rest of the Nebraska delegation at the regular headquarters, but with some friends who cannot now be found.

ARCADIA, Nob., July 30.—(Special Telegram.)—Mrs E. T. Gardner, delegate to the Christian Endeavor convention at Boston, mysteriously disappeared in that city. J. W. Landers, a prominent citizen of this town, has gone to Boston to investigate. A telegram received from Mr. Landers states that M. J. Brown, the party Mrs. Gardner was supposed to be staying with, is a fake. He will report facts as soon as obtainable, > Preferred Civil Life to the Army. WASHINGTON, July 30.—(Special Telegram)-President Cleveland has accepted the resignation of Second Lieutenant Charles DeL. Hine, Sixth infantry, to take effect August 5. Lieutenant Hine was a Washington boy. He entered the military academy in 1886, and was made a second Reutemant June 12, 1891. The army did not suit his tastes, however. It has always been his ambition, so he says, to be a ratiroad man, and with this end in view be secured a position as an assistant freight agent. He is now working at Cincinnati, and recently drew his first month's galary of $60.
