Judge W. R. Green was in the city and held a session of the district court in the afternoon. The transcript of the evidence the case of Oberholtzer against John T. azen, which was taken last week by Judge Smith, had already been given him, and the attorneys made their arguments on the petition for a new trial. Charles Gregory sued out a writ of attachment in the district court yesterday for three lots in Mullin's addition. The lots are the property of George D. Wilson, against whom Gregory has a claim of $100. Wilson achieved fame many years ago as the owner of "Little Sioux," who at one time held the state record for trotting.

M. C. Sharpnack and family returned from visist to Chicago Monday and found that during their absence their house, at 100; Avenue B, had been entered by thieves and thoroughly ransacked. liquor since the fire. John Willemans, who has been engaged in the last few weeks in all sorts of litiga-tion, when he was not in jail, was released long enough yesterday afternoon to prosecute the case in which Alexander Chapin is charged with the larceny of a horse. Like the other cases growing out of Chapin and willemans' difficulty, all that was made apparent was that the two went on a fine large drunk together, after which the horse turned up missing. Chapin was discharged and Willemans went back to jail to serve out the rest of his sentence for drunkenness.

A tramp who was determined to get out on a Kansas City freight train Monday night sed quite a little difficulty in the Union life yards. A brakeman found him tucked away in a box car and tried to put him off. The tramp selzed a brick and struck the brakeman with it. The conductor then came to the rescue, and using his lantern as a billy, smote the tramp over the head so hard that the lantern was smashed to smithereens and whole constellations were brought to the tramp's view. But the tramp boarded the train, nevertheless, and rode out of town

STEVICK AND HIS JAG.

They Try Conclusions with John O'Donnell, with Doubtful Results. Constable Stevick, whose erratic action have occasioned a good deal of gossip during the last few weeks, went to the residence of John O'Donnell, a blacksmith living at 322 Park avenue, yesterday afternoon to assist a man named Bolin in effecting a settlement of a $5 claim he had against O'Donnell. It the story told by Mrs. O'Donnell be correct, the trustees of Kane township will very likely feel called upon to do something soon with regard to Stevick's case.

When Stevick and his companion knocked at the arout door Mrs. O'Donnell says Stevick was very drunk. He made known his errand in abusive language, and fright ened the woman half out of her wits. Shreferred the two men to her husband, who was out in the stable, and they left the house. When O'Donnell saw them coming he house. When O'Donnell saw them coming he knew there was going to be trouble. Stevick, be says, commenced using profane and abusive language, and demanded a settlement. O'Donnell's Celtic blood began to boil, and he ordered Stevick off the place. In the scuffle that ensued Stevick left the stable, but O'Donnell's clothing was badly torn. O'Donnell's says he did not know Stevick was an officer, and so treated him throughout the interview just as he would any other man who meddled in what did not concern him. After he had put the intruder out of the After he had put the intruder out of the barn O'Donnell looked around for a pitch ork, but could only find an axe. With that he armed himself and prepared to act on the lefensive. Stevick pulled a revolver out of its pocket and aimed it unsteadily in O'Don nell's direction, but for some reason or other forgot to pull the trigger, and so there was no explosion. This was fortunate, because the muzzle of the gun was only a few feet from its victim's head.

Mrs. O'Donnell had been watching the fracas, and fearing that something desperativould be done telephoned to the police staion for assistance. In a few minutes the patrol wagon hove in sight, but O'Donnell refused to ride in it, although he was perfective did not in it, although he was perfectly willing to walk to the station. A compromise was finally hit upon, the black-smith gave up his axe and the constable his gun, and the former walked to the jall. He remained there for an hour, while waiting for Stevick to get a warrant, and as soon as the warrant was served he was released on his own recognizance until this morning. During all the visit Stevick did not one how any papers authorizing him to make he arrest, nor did he have any. He found e was going to have trouble with his man, nd called to a man who was standing near y to help him. The man declined to mix up the affair. When Sievick went down town e filed an information charging John Dohany with resisting an officer. Mr. Dohany could not be found last evening, but the members of his family, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell also, state that he was nowhere around when the trouble took place, so that Stevick must have been too befuddled to know.

WAGNER AS A REFORMER.

Disbarred Bar Tender Swears Out a Search Warrant for Sherlock. Henry Wagner, who has been carefully ultivating a reputation as an eminent reformer for several weeks past, had another search warrant issued yesterday from the court of Justice Vien for Ed Sherlock's saloon. The warrant was served by Constables Baker and Alberti, and five barrels of beer, a jug of buttermilk, a bottle of eral bottles of Waukesha water and several other kinds of intexicants were seized.

This is the second time within a month that Wagner has put his belief in temperance reform into active cruption. Sherlock endorsed a note for $100 "without recourse, Sherlock enand it passed into the hands of Wagner a year or so ago. When the time came for payment the maker of the note went brokand Wagner called upon Sherlock. The latter immediately pointed to the words "without recourse," which Wagner had not noticed, or else had not understood the meaning of. Wagner has had a crow to pick with Sherlock ever since, and has threatened to make things lively for him until he pays the note.

One peculiarity about the case is that Wagner was himself until a few days ago engaged in the saloon business. As the pro-prietor of a joint he was enjoined under the old prohibitory law. He failed to understand just what the injunction meant, and went right on with his saloon. with the result that in a short time he found himself in jail with a fine of several hundred dollars and a jail sentence of several months hanging over him. By the grace of ex-Governor Boies he was pardoned, the condition being inserted in his pardon that he was not to engage in the saloon business, either directly or indirectly, again. Wagner has been employed as bar tender at several different places during the last few years, so that the conditions of his pardon have been violated. When he first hed Sherlock's place searched a few weeks ago he was put upon the stand and under cross examination by Justice Aylesworth testified in open court to the above facts. There is a strong probability The Misses Bertle and Clara Troutman have gone to Tacoma, Wash, for a month's visit that in the ext day or two steps will be taken to have his pardon revoked.

Looking for a Brute. Constable Sell Hough of Crescent was in he city yesterday looking for John McIntyre, horse trader, who is suspected of having butchered his horse on the hog-back between Council Bluffs and Crescent. The horse was played out and could go no farther. Either hoping to spur him to increased activity or else wishing to make an exhibition of pure cussedness, Mr. McIntyre got out of his wagon, pulled a knife out of his pocket, and hacked the animal's head full of holes, then walked to town, leaving the horse dead. Hough came here and notified Marshall Canning of the affair. Thinking he would be apt to find the fellow with a lot of campers east of the city. Hough went out. During the afternoon Officer Murphy learned that McIntyre had been seen here, so it was evident that Hough failed to find him.

Collectors Have a Right to Appeal. WASHINGTON, July 30.-Atorney General Harmon has rendered an opinion on the question of the right of a collector of customs to make an appeal to the court from the action of the board of general appraisers. The attorney general holds in effect that the collector may take an appeal whenever, in his judgment, the rights of the government require it, but as a subordi-nate of the secretary of the treasury he is bound by the secretary's views in the matter. If the secretary is of the opinion that an appeal should not be prosecuted the committee is bound to dismiss it. The case under consideration arose over some imperted currants. The board of general appraisers decided that they should be admitted free and the commissioner at New York took no appeal. Later a similar case arose in San Francisco and the collector took an app on the ground that they were dutiable at the rate of 1½ cents a pound. The secretary has taken no action, but it seems to be the general opinion that he will order the appeal dismissed.

Early next spring it is proposed to erect a balloon house and after filing the balloon start on the aerisl voyage for the pole in July, with a fresh south or nearly south wind. The duration of the voyage must, of course, largely depend on the strength of the course, largely depend on the strength of the wind. It might possibly last only five or six hours, but M. Andre expects that it will take at least over forty. Thirty days he believes will suffice for crulking about the central polor basin and taking a complete survey of it. The return journey is to be made towards the inhabited parts of North America and north Siberia. With a wind of average velocity M. mittee to make the point that a former cus-tom had been overlooked in not making a physical examination of the new men and that the men dismissed had been done an injustice by being compelled to contribute to the police relief fund. In the latter respect the evidence was that only a couple of the officers had ever contributed anything to the fund and they had drawn out more than they had put in. Most of the witnesses asserted that they had contributed to the fund, but then admitted that it was only by their services in selling tickets for the police Clerk Dooley of the police department, who is also secretary of the Police Relief as-sociation, was called on for information rela-tive to that organization. The committee attempted to bring out the fact that the polle officers who were recently discharged had contributed out of their salaries to the relief fund in which they were now deprived of their interest. But in this the committee was signally unsuccessful. Mr. Dooley's evidence showed that with one or two excep-tions the officers dismissed had never paid a dollar into the fund. During the first year after the association was organized the memafter the association was organized the members had been required to contribute 1 per cent of their salaries. But that plan was then abandoned, and for the past five years the fund had been supplied by the proceeds of the police picnics, and by 25 per cent of the rewards which were obtained by officers the contribute of criminals.

M. V. Halter, one of the dismissed officers, was called to the stand to tell how he lost his star. He testified to his length of service, and said that charges had been preferred against him three times during the four years he had worn a uniform. There was no reason in his opinion why he should be dismissed. He had never contributed a cent to the police relief fund. He had never made a formal demand of the board for a hearing relative to his dismissal.

Ex-Sergeant Sigwart testified that he had been a member of the Omaha police force for thirteen years preceding the present month. During that time he had contributed $150 out of the fund on the occasion of the death of his wife. No charges had ever been preferred against him by the board. The witness was asked what he knew in regard to everal of the new men appointed, but stated that he knew nothing about them.

Ex-Officer George W, Barnes told a very similar story. He had served one year on the police force and no charges had been preferred against him.

Ex-Officers Flint, Storey, Prescott, Starkey. Mitchell, Her, Jackman and Burr were also put on the stand, but their statements were almost exactly similar to those quoted. Burr said that he had had "a sort of an idea" that he was going to go for four years. This was because he thought that Chief Seavey had a prejudice against him.

These were all the witnesses present, and the committee adjourned until this afternoon. when Haze, Kirk and other ex-policemen will be allowed to tell what they know. The members of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners will also be called in this aft-

STARVING...

IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY.

That's what people with poor digestion are doing every day. They have no appetite or if they do have an appetite and eat what they require it does them no good, because the stomach does not digest it and the fermenting mass of food becomes a source of disease, of headaches sleeplessness, anguor and the thousand and one symptoms of disordered digestion.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets promptly relieve and cure all forms of indigestion. They have done it in thousands of cases and will do it in yours. The reason is simple. THEY DIGEST THE FOOD WHETHER THE STOMACH WORKS OR NOT and that's the WHOLE SECRET. AT ALL DRUGGISTS, 50 CENTS.
