SUNDAY AT V. M. C. A.

Yesterday was another big day at the Young Men's Christian association.

In the morning at 10 o'clock a band of young men met at the Y. M. C. A. for a fifteen minutes in an earnest prayer service.

At 10:15 p. m. the open air service was held in front of the rooms, Conrad Hooker giving the address.

At 4 o'clock the Y. M. C. A. gave an entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. building, the address being given by the audience with a touching solo, "A Favor for the Wanderer."

Rev. V. C. Rocho gave the address upon the subject "Now." He showed how eagerly men grasped at opportunities that would advance their material and social interests and how willing they were to listen to the devil's password, "Time enough yet," and coked action along right lines at once. Mr. Rocho sang a solo with a quartet and gave the address. A few moments were then spent in brief testimony, and the whole line of thought was given a note by the secretary. It is a matter of much satisfaction to all interested in the work to note the constant increase of interest in all departments of the association, especially that pertaining to the spiritual welfare.

GAVE THE LADIES AN OVATION.

Yesterday saw the largest crowd of the season at Manawa, with the possible exception of July 4. There were 800 carriages that passed through the park, and the estimate of the people in attendance places the number at between 6,000 and 7,000.

The ladies' military band played for the last time this summer at the Manawa, and gave an ovation at both the afternoon and evening performances. Every selection was heartily applauded, and the music of the band of Colonel Reed's report could not get over the ears of the audience.

The Jennie Lind quartet will commence an engagement next Tuesday. This organization is composed of ladies from Chicago, who are known widely for their beautiful singing. If press notices could for anything they will surely make a hit.

HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVASS.

The second annual house to house canvass of the Iowa State Sunday school association is to be commenced in this city October 9 and will last two days. Each county association is to be responsible for the work in its county, and the work is to be distributed among different persons, who shall take the various townships, call on every family and invite the members to come to some Sunday school. On the evening before the canvass begins prayer meetings will be held at some private house in each district, and a proposition for the work of the following two days.

The results of the canvass made last year were so beneficial that the association, this year, on a larger scale, was determined upon.

Robbed a Cigar Maker.

Burglars entered Kaiser's cigar factory, at 502 South Main street, between Saturday night and Sunday morning. Entrance was secured through a carpenter shop on the west street side, and the door between the two establishments was kicked open. The entire stock on hand, amounting to 4,000 cigars, was stolen, the value being about $150.

MANAWA MARSHAL IN TROUBLE.

Brutal Exhibition of Authority Almost Ended in Lynching.

For a few minutes yesterday afternoon it looked very much as if there might be a lynching at Lake Manawa. About as thoroughly excited and exasperated a set of men as ever administered summary justice got after Marshal Bartlett, and cries of "hang him," "pitch him in the lake," "get a rope" were shouted by hundreds of respectable and able-bodied men on the occasion of the outbreak was the extraordinary manner and methods the marshal used in arresting a man engaged in selling rubber balloons in the Grand Plaza. He has been enlightening the little people with his wares every afternoon and evening for several weeks, and has had Colonel Reed's permission to enter the grounds for that purpose. But it seems that one of the ordinances of the town of Manawa provides a license for such privileges. The balloon vendor relied upon Colonel Reed's promise of immunity, and went ahead selling without complying with the town authority's demands.

Just at the time when the pavilion was packed to the most densely and the ladies were playing the marshal tackled the balloon man and dragged him out. The balloon vendor made no resistance, but jerked his hand from the marshal's grasp, and the latter, who was starting heavenward, the marshal showed his authority, but completely lost his head in doing it. He assailed his prisoner in that purpose. But it seems that one of the ordinances of the town of Manawa provides a license for such privileges. WANTED TO DIE IN JAIL.

Selly Hough Concluded to Do Something Spectacular, but Failed.

Selly Hough believes that all the good ought to die young, and since he did not die young he concluded to die as young as he could. He went into Chris Hansen's saloon about midnight Saturday night, and finding an offensive looking Swede of small caliber sitting there, hit him in the neck. He had previously been fired out of the Manhattan saloon for creating a disturbance. A fine was sent in for the patrol wagon, and a little while later Hough was taking a rest behind the bars of the jail. Hough had been put into the steel cage, because of his great anxiety to clean out the other cells, and in the dim light Hough could see that something unusual was going on. Hough caught a glimpse of him, and called out, "Good bye," in a voice that was choking with emotion. Good byes were distributed among the other prisoners, and then Hough swung himself out. He had taken his bed quilt and apron and went back to his cell, which was fastened to one of the upper bunks. He fastened the lower end around his neck, and then turned around three times, to be sure that the knot was tight. He then stretched his neck to stretch, his arms and legs commenced to fly, and his striking against the iron walls of the cage made a great commotion. The jailer, Hough had been put into the steel cage, because of his great anxiety to clean out the other cells, and in the dim light Hough could see that something unusual was going on. Hough caught a glimpse of him, and called out, "Good bye," in a voice that was choking with emotion. Good byes were distributed among the other prisoners, and then Hough swung himself out. He had taken his bed quilt and apron and went back to his cell, which was fastened to one of the upper bunks.
