

OF ADVANTAGE TO OMAHA

How Electric Lines to Florence Will Benefit This City.

QUICK WAY TO FOREST LAWN AND PARK

If Bonds Are Voted Building of the Line Will Begin at Once and Be Finished This Fall.

The construction of an electric street railway line from the Omaha street railway's track at the intersection of Thirtieth street and Ames avenue to the city of Florence, is being considered with a good deal of interest, both in Florence and in Omaha.

Now that the city council of Florence has called a special election, to be held September 17, for the purpose of voting on the proposition to issue $13,000 in bonds for the all of the company, the plans of the promoters of the enterprise are somewhat definite.

Mr. Lantry was asked to give an outline of the plans of his company and replied: "The proposed extension of the street railway service from Ames avenue, north on Thirtieth street, to the grounds of the American Water Works company at Florence means much for Omaha and if the bonds are voted it is the intention of the company to extend the extension this fall and the earliest possible date. The line takes in the present Fort Omaha, which as soon as the post is moved to Fort Crook, will be used as a government training school for the army."

It also passes Miller park, a site which will soon become the favorite resort of Omaha. The northern terminal of the proposed line will be the grounds of the American Water Works company, which, under the direction of its former manager, W. W. Underwood, were laid out in beautiful and attractive walks and drives, which are unequalled in this state.

"An engineer has been employed to survey and locate an extension of the proposed road from the main street of Florence west to a heavily timbered tract, which will be transformed into a pleasure resort. Incidentally the extension of the line will afford the Forest Lawn cemetery patrons a convenient access to these grounds not now enjoyed, and they will no doubt make an early effort to avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded."

At present, with all of Omaha's boasted advantages of location and surroundings in the matter of convenience for the burial of the dead, the city is behind some of the small South American states. There the public is afforded every convenience and the funeral occasions for special funeral trains at an extremely limited expense. In Denver the public has the advantage of a special funeral car, divided into proper compartments, and if occasion requires, special cars may be attached. This is all afforded at a very reasonable outlay of both time and money.

President Frank Murphy of the Omaha Street Railway company says that, while the new company has no objection to the Omaha lines, arrangements have been made by which, in case the road is built, it will connect with the Sherman avenue line at Ames avenue.

Charged with Fighting Little Girls. J. G. Cronland has had a lot of trouble on his mind because some children play on a vacant lot near his home at Seventh and Bancroft streets. He went out after a pair of water the other day and on his way to the well passed a group of children who were at play. He lost his temper and struck one of the girls, Edna Miller, over the head with the water pail, inflicting an ugly wound. He has been arrested on the charge of assault and battery.

Bisbee and the Double Eagle. A warrant has been issued for David Bisbee, a pedler, charged with stealing $12 from Mrs. Swanberg, who lives on Boulevard avenue. Mrs. Swanberg bought some vegetables from Bisbee and gave him a $20 gold piece, thinking it was a silver dollar. She got her change on the basis of a dollar and now wants Bisbee to put up the rest of the change for it.

THE GOVERNMENT LETTER.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

Hon. Geo. W. Ames, Omaha, Neb.—My Dear Sir:

As governor of Mississippi for twelve years, it has been my prerogative to thoroughly acquaint myself with the advantages of the state from every industrial standpoint, commercial as well as manufacturing.

It is my very great pleasure to hear testimony to her numerous advantages, and particularly to those which are furnished by an unsurpassed climate and soil. The length of our growing seasons give to the farmer in every department of agriculture a product equalled by few and surpassed by none in the United States.

The stern necessity which drove our agriculturist from cotton growing exclusively to a more generalized diversification of crops has but recently developed the fact that more money can be made by the farmer in the utilization of his energy and intelligence in the cultivation both for home consumption and for export, of every field product known to any soil or climate, as well as those of the garden and orchard, than by following the old beaten track.

The raising of stock of every description has also developed into a most profitable line of farming industry. Whilst this does not appear to the casual observer as a particularly state, yet a careful inspection of our farms and fields and their marvelous production, when properly and intelligently controlled, cannot fail to be impressed upon the desirability of Mississippi as a home, devoid of all extremes which are the bane of the farmer's life.

As a citizen and as governor of the state I take pleasure in extending a cordial invitation to the industrious home seeker of the northwest, and proffer guarantee of a kindly welcome on part of our entire citizenship. Our laws and institutions know no distinction between the native born and the newly elected citizen. Wishing you success, I am, sir, very truly yours, J. W. STONE, Orchard Homes.

Geo. W. Ames, General Agent, 1617 Farnam, St., Omaha, Neb.

WANTS HIS DAY IN COURT.

Beckett Charges that He Did Not Have a Hearing Before Scott. W. D. Beckett has announced in a legal and reticent way that he does not intend to permit the rulings and decisions of C. R. Scott, judge of the criminal section of the district court, to pass unchallenged in the alleged contempt case in which he figured as the object of the court's attention.

Beckett has asked for a new trial. As a matter of fact, he states that he has not really had one yet. He makes this motion proffering five grounds upon which he says he is entitled to have his day in court like any ordinary citizen. He denies that the court has, or ever had jurisdiction to hold him in contempt, because at the time the court attempted to adjudge him guilty, Beckett alleges that the court was not in session, and that the matter was wholly outside of any judicial proceeding. He says that he had no notice of any information, charging him with the commission of a crime having been filed. He alleges that the proceedings on Judge Scott's part were wholly illegal. He charges the court with committing a gross error in that the judge, in conducting the trial, was on his side of the case, although he says the judge did pick out his own bailiff and several other witnesses and hear their version of the story. Beckett makes an offer to substantiate his claims by the affidavits of several attorneys and deputy sheriffs who were present and heard the judge's remarks. He claims testimony the court rejected without a hearing.

ADMITTS THAT HE BEAT HIS WIFE.

Kochem Alleges that He Did This in a Legal Manner. Peter Kochem beat his wife. It caused trouble in the family. Kochem says he did it, acting strictly under the law in such cases made and provided. In using this method of protecting his life, Kochem, who has filed an answer in district court to his wife's petition for a divorce, says he used no unnecessary force, but in order to protect his life he beat his wife, "just as we lawfully might."

For years past the Kochem family has been having more or less trouble, according to the story which Peter takes occasion to pour into the ear of the court. His wife says she is a worthless and a dissolute man, given to wine bibbing and animal making on holidays. This Kochem denies in the same time naming his better half as a worthy example of a termagant. Kochem is very particular in his description of his wife, in the land, in what she has done and in what she is doing. He charges her with such minor faults as attempts made to poison him on July 4, 1884, and with various marital derelictions since then. Kochem says he remained away from home much, just as his wife says he did, because she made it too unpleasant for him to be there.

RAILROADS GETTING INTO LINE.

They Offer Homeseekers' Tickets to Massachusetts River Points.

All of the roads are now in the homeseekers' excursion business and are offering tickets for sale on exactly the same basis as was suggested at the Chicago meeting. An agreement has been reached by correspondence which will be just as binding as if it had been formed when the passenger agents were in session. Tickets are to be sold for a single fare for the outward trip from eastern points to the points west of the Missouri river, and when the purchaser wishes to return he presents a certificate which is furnished him with his ticket to the agent of the company, and by paying an additional $2 he secures the return ticket. Stop overs are allowed on the going journey only.

The expectation of trouble on account of the fact that the Burlington intended to issue a straight one fare ticket for the round trip was based on a misunderstanding. It is now stated that it was all the time the intention that the road to adopt the plan which a majority of the passenger agents favored at the meeting in Chicago, and after the failure to agree Mr. Eastis, the general agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy in Chicago, wired to the offices of the B. & M. in this city to put into effect a series of homeseekers' excursions at the one fare rate to be presented at Boston, September 10 and 24. The telegram was taken in its obvious sense and was not supposed to mean a one fare plus the $2 rate. Later advice has now been received by mail, and the B. & M. is in the business on the same basis as the other roads.

The new cheap tickets for Boston are taking up all the time of the local passenger and ticket agents. They went on sale yesterday and can be obtained up to the end of the month. Now that the Burlington has a way of stop-over privileges and so forth have been removed by the eastern roads, it is probable there will be a great rush for the tickets and a consequent increase in price. The tickets are good until September 15, with the possibility of an extension until the first of October. They are sold by mail, and beyond that point they are subject to local conditions, but as a matter of fact it is not likely that any stopovers will be necessary, on most of the eastern lines at any rate, to go to Boston. This may cause trouble on the western roads when the return halves are on the market, but at present there is every prospect of a demoralization of rates on account of these tickets.

During the forenoon many persons took the train for Boston, and the line was in line and went away with the intention that there was no chance for them to get in at the opening performance. But they were mistaken, and the line was so packed that it was impossible to get in. Manager Burgess said at noon that he expected to be able to furnish excellent seats up to Thursday night. The seating capacity of the house was 2,300, and owing to the interior arrangement every seat afforded a strictly first-class. Sleeping car space reserved in advance. For further information address J. Y. Calahan, Gen'l Agent, 111 Adams Street, Chicago.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The most important dramatic organization that New York now possesses is Charles Frohman's Empire Stock company, which has been selected as the opening attraction of the new Craghton theater, and which begins an engagement of three nights and a Saturday matinee at that house next Thursday evening. Mr. Frohman's modish theater is the inevitable way in which the metropolitan newspapers refer to the Empire and it has won its reputation and gathered the entire fashionable world of New York into its clientele by producing only high class plays in the Empire theater, through the medium of the finest players that were procurable in this country. There is no leading man in America comparable with Henry Miller, who is here identified with the reason that he so splendidly lends a touch of romance to any role that he assumes and is acknowledged by the most conscientious critics to present a many sidedness of art in his acting which is a credit to
