HE'S A LAW UNTO HIMSELF.

Scott Concludes to Adjourn the May Term of the District Court.

"Well," remarked Judge Ambrose, reclining n his armchair with an air of resignation 'I suppose he is a law upto himself." Judge Ambrose was slitting in his private office, having just disposed of some motions in the court room, when he was informed that Judge Scott had just adjourned court. "That is the first I had heard of it," added ie judge Judge Ambrose has been in the city for some days, hearing motions almost every day, but though he had not been consulted about the adjournment of court he did not seem to be greatly surprised to hear that the crimina branch of the court had made the order without consulting the equity division. He said the adjournment by Judge Scott would not prevent him from attending to such equity affairs as were brought before him. This adjournment of court is not the first one made so far this summer. Judge Scott some weeks ago announced to his bailiff that the district court of Douglas county stood adjourned, and the bailiff so announced to the world. Later in the day this order was revoked and Scott reconvened the distric ourt of Douglas county. A standing order has been hung in the clerk's office, however, for weeks, announcing to him that the court must not be adjourned until it is ordered by Judge Scott. Deputy District Clerk Steere was asked in reference to the adjournment and says that he thinks the adjournment is an actual fact; that he had already entered the order, which had not been done before when the revocation was issued before he could make the entry.

Revived an Ancient Case. The somewhat antiquated case of Wilgock against Wilgocki, a divorce proceeding, has been revived by Admin F., the plaintiff, Wil gocki has filed an amended petition, asking the court to reopen the decree and render one conformable to the proven facts. When this suit was tried one year ago some very racy testimony was brought out con-reasons for the divorce being suppressed by mutual agreement, out of consideration for the children. Since then a division of the roperty having been ordered by the court the result of which has been wholly unsatis factory to Wilgocki, a train of circumstances has developed which Wfigocki says induces him to ask the court to enter a decree setting out adultery and desertion, which he avers he

AGAINST DAY LABORERS.

Effort to Take Street Cleaning Out of

Their Hands. There is a good deal of indignation in labor reles over the rumor that there is a plan on foot on the part of the finance committee and other members of the city council to displace the present system of street sweeping by day labor in favor of a return to the contract system. That such a combination exists is not doubted, as two or three councilmen have openly stated that they were in favor of a return to the contract system. It is assumed that ex-Contractor Stephenson, Leroy Furnas and other aspirants for the job of cleaning the streets are also in favor of the plan and there is but little doubt that an effort will be made to get the subject before the council.

The day labor plan was given a trial largely on account of the pressure from the labor unions which represented that it had been a pronounced success in other cities and should be given a trial in Omaha. The matter was discussed at length before the charter amendment committee last winter and an amendment by which the Board of Public Works was permitted to employ day labor in some of its departments was decided on. At that time it was stated that the new system would be tried in the street sweeping department and if it proved a success it might be extended to other branches of public works.

HOW IT HAS WORKED. On July +1, when the Stephenson contract expired, Street Commissioner Kaspar organized a street sweeping force consisting of about forty men, by whom the streets have been cleaned since that date. It has been the general impression that the system is a success. During the first month the cost of cleaning the streets was $1,957.20, while during the corresponding month of 1894 it cost $2,765.15, under the Stephenson contract. This was a net saving of $807.95, or nearly 30 per cent. Moreover, Street Commissioner Kaspar reported that more streets were being cleaned than were included in the contract schedule and that they were being kept in a much more satisfactory condition. During July the cleaning force was laid off on several days when the streets had been washed clean by the heavy rains and it is expected that better results than that of the first month's trial will be shown. Nevertheless, during the past few days members of the finance committee have stated that the day labor scheme was a failure. They assert that it is more expensive than the old way, and that in order to get satisfactory service the city will be compelled to return to the contract system. A number of contractors who are anxious to get an opportunity to bid on the contract are actively exerting themselves to knock out the day labor system. Jint 3tephenson still has his meaning machine the system. still has his sweeping machinery stored, in anticipation of another whack at the treas-ury, and Leroy Furnas has a new patenstreet sweeping machine of which he is any ious that the city should get the benefit Another plan which is being agitated is to keep the sweeping under the control of the street department, but substitute machines for hand labor. The idea is to purchase the necessary machines and horses outright and hire men to run them. KASPAR NOT IN THE SCHEME.

The statement has been circulated by those who favor the contract system that Street Commissioner Kaspar was in the leal to abolish day

Marvellous Growth of the Famous Ringling Brothers' Big Show. The success of the five Ringling Brothers, development may be gained from the fact that within a dozen years, this show has grown from a little overland circus, the entire value of which was less than a thousand dollars, to the largest arenic enterprise the world has ever seen. It is evident that a success like this could not have been the re-sult of chance, nor has it been. The Ringling Brothers have won their way to their present eminence by qualities which would have

Lightning Made Things Lively. A bolt of lightning made things lively for few minutes on the Twenty-fourth and Harney streets motor lines about 8 o'clock Friday evening. It struck the trolley wire at Twenty-fourth and Cass and sped along to the end of the track. A motor was standing directly beneath when the bolt struck, but sustained no damage, as the trolley had been hauled down at the beginning of the storm. The wire was thrown to the ground and executed some pyrotechnics for a few minutes, until the current was turned off. The damage was slight, and delayed the trains for a short time only. ral self.

Took the Patterns. For some days past the Morse failure has been up in Judge Ambrose's court in some form almost every day.

The latest order made in the Morse matte relates to a settlement of the claim of the Butterick Pattern company people. The Buttericks have had a confession of judgment made by the Morse company for som $3,000 on account of a lot of 1895 patterns sold the firm. If not used this season the patterns would have been utterly useless, so a compromise was patched up, and the Butterick company cancelled its judgment and took the dress patterns. Minor Court Matters.

P. Mullen has been made the defendant in a suit brought by the Nebraska Savings bank upon a promissory note to collect $5,000. An order has been made directing Receiver Koch to receive bids on September 7 in open court for the Morse stock of goods. A petition has been filed asking for the probate of the will of Camilia F. Byrne. The estate left is rated at $10,000 and ten parties are named who claim an interest in th property. Judge Duffle yesterday confirmed the

Goes Back to Lincoln.

Jack Callahan, who was arrested by the po ice Thursday night with a gunny sack full of odds and ends, such as knives, razors, tooth brushes, purses and other property, all supposed to have been stolen, is wanted at Lincoln. Among the effects was a meal ticket on a Lincoln restaurant. The police telephoned Callahan's description to the authorities at the capital. They asked to have the prisoner held. An officer arrived Friday night and took Callahan back to answer to a charge
