

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, Editor. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily (Without Sunday) One Year, $4.00. Daily (With Sunday) One Year, $5.00.

OFFICES. Omaha, The Bee Building, 107 S. 10th St. Chicago Office, 317 Chestnut St. New York Office, 107 N. 11th St.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION. George H. Trenchick, secretary of The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that the actual number of full and complete copies of the Daily Morning, Evening and Sunday Bee printed during the month of August, 1895, was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Circulation type and quantity. Includes rows for Total, Copies, and Net sales.

Net sales $66,125. Total copies 106,125. The Bee Publishing Company, Omaha, Neb.

The democrats have ceased talking about their brilliant prospects of carrying Pennsylvania this fall.

Public holidays are days of oratory and athletics. In some instances even the oratory is merely a form of athletic exercise.

The man who can draw the line between amateur and professional bicycling nowadays is too sharp to live in this work-a-day world.

J. Keir Hardie is beginning to realize that he had his visit to the United States a little too soon after the visit of his fellow member of Parliament, John Burns.

Even the Semosets have gathered courage enough to call a meeting. With these faithful and unflinching braves it is a very long time between refreshments.

When both wholesale and retail merchants agree that trade is picking up materially and is greatly in excess of that of last year it certainly is a favorable straw.

New York has experienced three distinct earthquake shocks and that on Sunday, too, when the saloons are supposed to have all been tightly closed under the new regime.

Texas authorities will have to make two or three more attempts to head off the proposed prize fight if only to advertise the affair more widely and to keep it before the public.

The police in large cities no longer look for disturbances as the natural concomitant of Labor day. Working men everywhere feel the dignity of the day and take pains in protecting its reputation.

The Commercial club caught the national druggists on the wing and in a few hours enabled them to critically measure the length, breadth and commercial importance of Omaha. Such work as this is a counter irritant to the impression made upon strangers by a view of our grand ramshackle depot.

Ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio is consoiling himself with the idea that he will be able to make a visible impression on the republican majority of 137,000 of last year and then claim credit for a great achievement. It is always one of the consolations of the defeated candidate for office that he might have been snowed in deeper.

The Bee's special train service is everywhere hailed as a masterly stroke of enterprise. People appreciate enterprise directed, not toward hampering competitors, but toward outbidding them for public favor.

There will be ample proof at the state fair that Nebraska offers prospective settlers the most promising field to engage in agricultural pursuits. What the farmers of this state have accomplished this year others can accomplish next year and succeeding years.

By popular vote Nebraska City has chosen the handsomest young lady in that classic town to act as maid of honor at the Ak-Sar-Ben grand ball during fair week. Many towns and cities of the state will contain the very plump of Nebraska womanhood.

Several Nebraska towns are actively engaged in the work of securing capital for the erection of beet sugar factories. The acreage devoted to the cultivation of the sugar beet by our farmers is increasing from year to year and the necessity of more factories to transform the product into sugar must soon be apparent.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

At the recent convention of the confederated good government clubs of New York a declaration was adopted in favor of local self-government for all cities of the state, that is, the regulation and control of municipal affairs by the voters of the city whose interests are involved and not by the legislature of the state.

It is hardly to be expected that the silver question will not be forced upon the attention of the next congress. If some of the more radical advocates of free coinage in the house do not do this undoubtedly some of them in the senate will. Of course it will not be done with any expectation of accomplishing more than to squarely put the two parties on record, though this would seem to be altogether unnecessary, since the country is already fully aware of their standing.

THE GERMAN CELEBRATIONS.

The celebrations of the splendid victories in war which a quarter of a century ago united the German nation and made it a dominant power in the affairs of Europe are about at an end. They have been carried out on an elaborate scale, with much pomp and pageantry and a great deal of popular enthusiasm. It is not to be doubted that the effect has been good upon the German people, so far as the appeal it has made to their patriotism is concerned.

THE CIVIL SERVICE AS A CAREER.

The requirements of success for those who seek of the civil service, as in other professions, are hard to define, and their absence is frequently more readily apparent than their presence. They include capacity for hard work, ability to become interested in matters seemingly insignificant and monotonous, and breadth of view sufficient to grasp the larger relations of routine work, accompanied by an ability to detail that will insure accuracy.

SILVER IN THE NEXT CONGRESS.

The position of the parties in the next house of representatives on the question of the free coinage of silver has been pretty accurately ascertained. Out of the 244 republican representatives in the new congress, 220 place themselves on record against free coinage. Out of 105 democrats, seventy-five favor the free coinage of silver and only thirty oppose it.

on this question, but the attitude of the representatives of the parties in congress utterly refutes this assertion. There are free silver men in both parties. It is true, but in the republican party they are only a small and by no means influential minority, while in the democratic party they are in the majority, though probably not as largely so as a year ago.

The Feast of Mordant promises to attract as many people to Omaha as will the state fair. The chief reason for this is the novelty which must attach to the program arranged by the noble Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben. It is something new. The people in and around Omaha have seen nothing like it.

Upholding the First Law.

The strong opinion of the American Bar Association to Justice Brewer's talk against appeals is explainable on the ground that appeals is the first law of nature. The strong opinion of the American Bar Association to Justice Brewer's talk against appeals is explainable on the ground that appeals is the first law of nature.

Unprofitable in Nebraska.

Two Nebraska farmers who held up and robbed an express train, pleaded, when arrested, that a report a year hence, by the operation, they really got only about $50. Train-robbing, evidently, is not most profitable.

Appealing for Straggled Harmony.

The harmony address to the democratic voters of Kentucky exhorting a good democracy to elect a republican governor, adopted and the ticket nominated by the state convention.

Quay's Victory Viewed at Home.

Senator Quay's victory at the most brilliant political battle of modern times. Deserted by hosts of ingrates, many of whom owed their position and power entirely to him, he has emerged from the contest with a reputation for integrity and ability.

Random Shots.

Galveston News: The women are good looking in spite of the fashions. Chicago Times-Herald: A man can forget, but it takes a woman to forgive. Baltimore Sun: There has been one nice, quiet trolley party in Baltimore. It was composed of deaf mutes.

Philadelphia Record.

To judge from their conversation they would imagine some men were being blown up by dynamite. Buffalo Express: All those who have not been murdered by H. H. Holmes will please rise and remain standing until counted.

New York Tribune.

"Bike" and "oleographs" are about the only vestiges on words that ever were foisted upon a long suffering public.

than ever. Was it the tried and experienced veteran whom they hoped to rope in? Or was it the youthful militiaman with his wisdom teeth still in from whom they hoped to entice the much desired dollars? It is generally supposed that both the veteran and the national guardsman have sense enough to see through a barefaced swindle, but the fact that the gamblers did good business at the late encampment shows that the gullibles were not altogether absent on the occasion.

OUR AMIABLE CONTEMPORARY.

Blair Courier: There is not a country paper in all the broad state that would inflict such hog-wash on its readers as does the Omaha World-Herald. The Herald is in a position to give the people a great deal of good information through its editorial columns. Instead its sole object seems to be to keep its readers in the dark and mystify them as much as possible.

CRIMINALS.

Chicago Tribune: "Straight whiskey," grunted Jagway, the next morning, "is an unmitigated piece of cake."

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

THE PASSING SHOW.

For the time being Kansas will not object if Kentucky monopolizes the bleeding business. The drought prevalent in Indiana is explicable. There isn't a shadow of a campaign in the state.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

THE WATERMELON'S HEART.

Does your liver cry for trouble? 'Till your life is full of woe? Do your burdens seem to double. While your joys no greater grow? Brother, have you got a spell on? Whose departure you would part? Go and get a watermelon. It's the cure for your heart.

WONDROUS WISE.

There was a man in our town (His name is memory slip). Who kissed ten thousand microbes off His sweetheart's ruby lips. And when he found what he had done, With all his might and main He rushed up there another night And kissed them on again.

Advertisement for 'Get Ready For School' by Browning, King & Co. Includes text about school supplies and a small illustration of a boy.

Advertisement for 'Highest of all in Leavening Power' by baking powder. Includes the text 'Absolutely Pure' and 'Latest U.S. Gov't Report'.