LOUISVILLE, Sept. 10 .- It is doubtful if this city, famous for fair women and fast public was organized that the reception to-horses, ever before entertained as many guests as are here today. Certain it is the town never before had within its limits so many battle-scarred soldiers. It is conservatively the factor of the event. estimated that nearly 200,000 strangers are here, but the majority of them thirty years ago bore arms either for the blue or for the gray. But the blue and gray are one today, and men who were then at war now walk arm in arm as brothers. The bitter hatrel in line. Of course they were not all veterans and of the United States navy. But there veterans of the navy were the center of at-traction, and as these grizzled and gray old heroes passed through the streets they were greeted by patriotic cheers from the throats of the tens of thousands of citizens on the sidewalks, from the windows and housetops.

POLICE LED THE WAY. A detail of police under command of J. W. Hammond led the way. The Michigan mili-tary band came next and then the Lou'sville Legion drum and bugle corps. A regiment of Indiana state militia followed the music and next to the Hoosier soldiers was the Louisville Legion. Then in sequence came Kirkamp's cornet band, uniform division of Knights of Pythias, Schneider's military band, Juvenile drill corps; Uniform Rank Knights of Honor, ex-prisoners of war, Mississippi ram fleet veterans, Elebora's military band. Grand Army of the Republic juvenile drum corps, and then the naval veterans. Last in the parade, riding in carriages, came a score or more veterans of the Mexican war. They were too feeble with the weight of years to walk, and few of them ever ex-pect to see another national encomponent of the Grand Army of the Republic and in a few years they will be of the past, and the naval veterans will be few, and like the veterans of the Mexican war, too feeble to march in parade,

Just now there is a vast amount of talk in Grand Army of the Republic circles as to who will be the next commander-in-ch'ef. There are a number of aspirants to the honor, but

There promises to be a lively scrimmar office of senior vice commander General E. H. Hobson of Greensburg, Ky and Captain Michael Minton of this city, both being candidates for the place, and the friends customary for the encampment to give to the city in which the comrades are assembled the office of vice commander as a tribute to the hospitality and the labor of the veterans When it was decided in Pittsburg that the next encompment would be in Louisville. Cantain Minton, who was one of those who went to that city and worked for the Kentucky metropolis, announced that he was a candi date for that place. However, the Depart ment of Kentucky, which met at Hopkinsville last spring, proposed General Hobson by close vote, and although Captain Minton' candidacy is still being urged by the posts of Louisville, General Hobson's friends are making every endeavor to secure the place fo

Mrs. Annie Wittemeyer of Pennsylvania, past national resident, arrived at the head of a larg delegation from Pennsylvania. She is also a candidate for the presidency of the Women's Relief corps home, and has no opposition. Eighty carriages were secured for the drive of the visiting wemen about the city this ifternoon. The carriages were furnished by the women of Louisville.

The Fall City is not only quartering well its thousands of guests, but is also enter-and was given to his present owner to reunable to handle promptly all trains, and taining them most royally. The railroads are many complain about being held out along the way, while it is thought that others may be unable to get here for the parade tomor-row. The city has been resplendent with row. The city has been respicate in the streets and on buildings. Meanwhile the preparations for the grand parade tomorrow are complete. The reports to the marshal of the day show that there will be at least 45,000 veterans in line. General Cohen expects from 10,000 to 20,000 more during the right. The largest number ever reported in line was 90,000 at Washington.

ALL READY FOR THE PARADE.

The floats and other features of the parade are claborate and everything is ready for forming the line. The rehearsal of the 200 trained voices that will sing patriotic songs was a great success today. Past Commander-in-Chief John Palmer of New York, who managed the big parade in Washington, was with the national officers today to assist in the management, and General Lew Wallace was also on hand. eral Lew Wallace was also on hand.

CITY CROWDED FULL OF VISITORS RECEPTION TO COMMANDER LAWLER. There was a reception by the Woman's Relief corps to Commander Lawler and staff. In Grand Army of the Republic circles it was the leading social event of the week. Thousands of old soldiers, both of the blue and of the gray, attended. The reception began at 9 o'clock, and for two hours veterans, blue and gray, and their wives paid their respects to the receiving party. It is estimated by veterans who have attended every annual encampment since the Grand Army of the Recampment since the Grand Army of the Reand men who were then at war now walk arm in arm as brothers. The bitter hatrel of those dark days has vanished.

The event of today was the grand parade of the Navai Veterans association, and to judge by the crowds of men, women and children who thronged the sidewalks along the line of march, crowded the windows and housetojs, all Louisville turned cut to see. Its o'd citizens, men who have lived nere for the last forty or fifty years—and there are many of them—say it was the grandest sight they ever saw. But the great Grand Army of the Republic; Jennie Bross, tompared tomorrow, which is to be the event of the week, promises to far surpass it.

The receiving party was composed as follows: Mrs. Emma R. Wallace, president of the Savannah, Mo., by J. C. Brooks, a justice of the peace. The Iowa heirs are trying to the peace, the peace. The grand stand was elaborately descrated, and over 200 prominent elaborately decorated, and over 200 prominent ex-soldiers were seated on it, while the audience numbered 10,000. In addition to the bands of the posts, the glee clubs had a fine chorus for patriotic songs. Six companies of the Indiana National Guard escorted Governor Matthews to the park. He was accompanied by Hon. G. H. Verght, Mayor Whiteside, Hon. C. S. Jewett and Rev. J. M. Hutchinson and others. Mayor Whiteside introduced Governor Matthews, who snoke introduced Governor Matthews, who spoke at length in welcoming the soldiers in Indispa. Captain Leathers, an ex-confederate, followed in a stirring and patriotic speech of welcome. Hon. F. B. Posey spoke in response for the union veterans. F. H. CORN SHOWS A SLIGHT DECLINE.

Drouth During August Cuts the Crop in Several States. WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.-The September eport of the statistician of the Department of Agriculture shows a decline in the condition of corn to 96.4. from 102.5 in the month of August, being a falling off of 6.1 points. The prospects of the corn crop have suffered from drouth during the month of August in he surplus producing states of Ohio. Indiana Illinois, lowa and in a portion of Nebraska. Reports from Indiana, lowa and elsewhere ndicate that though there have been rains during the latter part of the month, they have generally been too late. Drouth has also injured the crop in the eastern states, New York, New Jersey and Maryland. More encouraging reports from the south indicate in that section the crop will be larger than ever before. Too much rain is noted in certain sections of South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi, and drouth seems to have affected unfavorably certain localities in Texas. Reports, however, from this section

LOVE STORY SHATTERED. The young woman's choice of a husband was an unhappy one, and she was divorced from Baker. The divorce was granted July 18, 1894, at Savannah, and the court gave her eack the name of Mary Clancy. The day after the divorce was granted she met John Craig again at the Walton home in this city. When Craig died it was found that his will, made many years ago, bequeathed $1,000 of his estate to Mary Clancy. She says he married her when they were reunited after their long separation, and as his widow she claims an interest in his estate.

To Abandon Shippers' Weights. CHICAGO, Sept. 10 .- The freight lines of the Central Traffic association were in session today, but accomplished nothing of importance. The chief matter before the meetng today was the question of weights at the stock yards in this city. Under the present system shippers' weights are adopted, and he manner in which they are handled gives ise to some dissatisfaction, as some of the chippers claim the roads have favorite cusomers who are given better weights than hey receive. It was proposed to handle the natter in the same way the western roads ooked after the business, which would take t entirely out of the hands of the shippers. The latter are very strongly opposed to the change, and the roads will be compalled to overcome a power of opposition if they make any change in the present method. Nothing lefinite was determined.

City of Sydney which arrived from Panama last night brought particulars of the capture of Florencio Bustamente, one of Antonio Ezcta's favorite lieutenants, by the Salvador authorities. It is supposed by the Spanish-Americans who came up on the City of Syd ney that he has been torn to pieces by an infuriated mob or publicly shot in the streets of the city of San Salvador long before this. The surrender of Bustamente by the people of Nicaragua came by way of return for the friendly act of Salvador in the Corinto affair. The arrest of Bustamente while aboard an American ship is said to be in direct violation of international law, and the turbulent Central American republic may be called to ac count for its high-handed action by the United States. Captain Johnston of the City of Sydney refused to discuss the matter, saving that he could not do so until he had further consuited his superiors. Bustamente was found after much difficulty hiding under the coal bunkers. Though he knew he was going to his death when he left the steamer, he never uttered a repreach. He declared that he should remain Ezeta's friend to the last. The steamer company had no other course than to turn over Bustamente, for warrants charging him with crime were sented and the government of Salvador, of the countries which gives a subsidy to the Pacific Mail company, made a formal demand for his surrender.

Concerning the fact that a consular agent o the United States was on the steamer when Bustamente was formally seized there is little to say. The consular agent was Mr. Cooper, who is at La Libertad in the interest of the cable company. It is maintained that he was aboard the steamer, not in his consular ca-pacity, but as representing the cable company. He took no hand in the matter in any way and did not direct the surrender of Busta-

Bustamento was well known in San Fran-cisco, as he was under arrest here as one of the Salvadorean refugees.

In regard to the surrender of Florencio Bustamente, one of Antonio Ezeta's lieutenants, whom the district court refused to give up to President Guiterrez of San Salvador, by the steamer City of Sydney to the Salvadorean authorities at Liberatad, Alex-ander Center, local agent of the Pacific Mail steamship, in an interview today upheld the conduct of Captain Johnson. Center said that Johnson did not surrender Bustamente until forced to do so by the authorities at United States Attorney Foote said: "It would be the business of the American minister at San Salvador to stay any execution of the prisoner until the United States gov-ernment could investigate the matter and see whether any treaty obligations had been vio-lated. of his own. It was a grievous accident that ruined the Yankee boat's chances, an accident which, under the hair-splitting circumstances of jockeying at the starting line, looked to be unavoidable. Early in the morning the racers had leisurely made their way down o the Hook from Bay Ridge. They circled n great rings about the lightship until the signals went up for the course, and then the skippers took a tighter grip on the steamer Germanic, which sails for New York wheel. Hank Haff had made a record in seamanship on Saturday and the English skipper prepared to regain the fame which had preeded him. They maneuvered swiftly after the preparatory gun had been fired, and with Valkyrie to the windward. Captain Haff made every effort to gain that position. Just before reaching the line, when Valkyrie was still to windward and Defender to leeward, a length astern, but still overhauling her, the American boat was blanketed so much that her baby jib topsail and jib federal court by the United States against shook, and Captain Haff, seeing this, luffed up a little, evidently intending to let the Robert McAlister and Joseph Heward, tanchother boat go ahead for the purpose of enabling him to pass under her stern and gally fencing in government lands. Act ons to windward. Captain Sycamore, at Va of a like nature are being brought against ranchmen in various pirts of Wyoming to kyrie's tiller, noted this move and luffed compel them to remove fences from around up also.

It was then that the thousands noticed how dangerously close to each other the racers were. And just at that moment too, a snap and rending sound was heard and it was seen that Defender's jib topsall was flying loose in the wind. Valkyrie's main beem had swung round and fouled Defender's rigging. To those who had witnessed the accident and sprang forward at the ominous sound, it seemed as though Defender trembled with the shock. They saw her topmast bend and her topsail swing over as though it would break away, and a groan went up as though the brave boat which had won so noble a victory a few days before was wholly debarred form even an effort to secure a second. Lightning action was necessary to save the topmast from breaking away completely, for it was already sprung from its fastening, and Captain Haff, with a master stroke, taking his boom down to leeward, soon maneuvered her into 🌢

VALKYRIE HAD A GOOD LEAD. Valkyrie, which had crossed the line first had gained a good lead by Defender's dis-aster, and had probably a little more than half a mile advantage at the end of the first leg in the triangular course over which they sailed. Her gain was something less than four minutes in the beat to windward. From that on, however, Defender, while not perceptibly closing the gap between them, lessened the time and they crossed the line not much more than two minutes apart. Valkyrie, according to corrected time, however, wins from the cup defender by just forty-seven seconds. Such an ideal day in the lower bay has seldom been seen. It was not what American yachtsmen call an ideal racing day, but naure has always been kind to Dunraven, that gallant English sportsman, and for the sec-ond time in the second race of the series for the America's cup and the honor of the sport the wind and the seas have favored the man who came so often to the line like a true Briton, with seldom a chance of winning, as events have happened. Little was promised in the way of pleasant weather during the carly hours of the day. weather during the carly hours of the day, for the clouds hung low and the fog spread itself over the waters and a misty rain fell. Old weather sharps declared there might be a fair breeze outside, but rain it would. Soon after the long, keen racers weighed their anchors off Bay Ridge there came a burst of sunshine, veiled in a golden haze, and when the old lightship was reached there was a sky flecked only here and there with a light cloud. Out through the Narrows and into cloud. Out through the Narrows and into the open water Defender stood up high, far ahead of Valkyrle and going under her own canvas almost before the Englishman thought of holsting his mainsail. Passing craft, inward bound, drew alongside to feast their oyes on the beauties, and, early as it was, when the lightship was reached quite a handwhen the lightship was reached quite a hand-some fleet was drawn up to greet them. And later on there was life and motion at the start, although it was not such a scene as was presented on the day of the first race. Far back in the quiet hours the sea was dotted here and there by a sail and the smoke on the horizon told of an advancing fleet, and when the first gun was fired a swinging vanguard, bright with color, was there to speed the racers on their journey.

DEFENDER RECOVERED QUICKLY. Then, while all eyes were on that invisible ne over which a step made too soon would be fatal, Defender's mishap came, ing quickly, however, and followed the eyes of those to whom the breaking iway of the topsail and the bending of the opmast meant for the moment abandonment of all hope, she went in pursuit. Vallyrio's lead and her better position was not much improved during the first leg. Vallyrio's did excellent work, but Defender, going just as her mishap left her, clung to her rival. Within a few minutes it was seen that Defender cant to sail the first leg without g
