

THIEVES WILL BE KEPT OFF

Chief White's Plan for Policing City During Fair Week.

NOT TOO MUCH FOR THE LOCAL OFFICERS

They Will Look After the City but They Cannot Furnish Protection at the Fair Grounds Unless Requested So to Do.

People who claim to be in a position to know estimate that there will be from 50,000 to 75,000 strangers in the city during state fair week...

Discussing the matter, the chief said: "I have made all the necessary arrangements for the protection of people while in the city during the week of the state fair and I feel that I can render the best of service..."

"Asked if he had been requested to furnish a detail of men to assist in furnishing protection at the fair grounds, Chief White replied: "Not as yet, but I may hear from the officers of the state fair later..."

When asked if he expected to employ detectives from other cities to assist him, Chief White smiled and remarked: "I hardly feel that it would be necessary to import outside men..."

Concerning the protection of persons who will go on the trains and street cars from the city to the grounds, the chief said: "I feel that with the officers who have been detailed and who will be dressed in citizens' clothes..."

Asked what hotel men could do to protect themselves from room workers and this class of crooks, Chief White said: "They can place watchmen through the halls and corridors both night and day..."

Talking of protection to the crowds which will congregate upon the streets nightly to witness the passing of the grand parade, the chief said: "To protect these people will be a hard matter, but I don't think that we will have much trouble preventing the crooks from snatching valuables..."

Referring back to the matter of police protection at the state fair grounds, Chief White said: "If the police department is not called upon to assist, the public ought not to hold Omaha responsible for what occurs..."

3 DECIDED ADVANTAGES

Boys who wear long pants have a decided advantage by buying here. First, because our suits run up to fit as large a boy as 20 years. Second, because our boys' suits are of manly and not kiddish cut. Third, because we sell 'em so much cheaper.

As low as $2.25 buys a good, substantial, every-day boys' suit—cont—vest and pants—$4.00 suits of any other store are not to be compared.

As low as $4.25 buys here a black single-breasted chevrot or a navy blue chevrot double-breasted suit. We see by chance every day suits inferiorly trimmed, but of the same cloth, bought elsewhere at seven to eight dollars.

As low as $5.00 buys here as good a chevrot suit as nearly double that sum buys elsewhere.

$5.50, $6.00, $7.50 and a dozen other more or less costly qualities here and there, each representing a new design in fabric, the birth of the season, the new way of cutting clothes, new ideas in trimmings and above all, if each could speak it would not doubt tell a remarkable story, how closely watched and tightly squeezed it was from the mill to our house.

Quaint Delft Ware

The pride of Holland in the Seventeenth century is now eagerly sought by admirers of artistic China. We have just received some choice examples in plaque, salidas, stands, trays, cups and saucers, sugars and creamers, &c., &c., decorated in blue by Bischoff, Verter, Apal Du Chatel and other artists. Each piece faithfully portrays the rural scene with its characteristic dike and windmill, any one of which is a beautiful specimen of the China of that period. You will be interested in this display, not alone on account of its quaintness, but of the extremely low prices prevailing.
