trade circles during the past week has been the state fair. It has not been all talk, however, among the wide awake jobbers of good business will be transacted during fair week.

The past six days have not witnessed any material change in the local situation. In some few lines an improved movement of goods is reported, but as a rule jobbers claim that business as yet does not show any very marked change. In most lines there is just a good, steady movement of goods, and nothing more. The fact that the bank clearings do not show any gain of consequence would go to show that no very marked improvement had as yet set in. In some lines though there is some improvement noted and representatives of other lines of business seem to feel confident that the time for a general revival all along the line is near at hand.

Collections, while slow in some lines, are generally fair, and, as a whole, much better than might be expected under the circumstances.

the week's trade. In some quarters an improvement is noted in the volume of goods sold.

Important changes in the market for leading lines of merchandise have been few. Sugar is very firm, and it would occasion no surprise if there should be a further advance in the market. The demand is enormous, consequent upon there being a large fruit crop in most all sections of the country. It is not so much a question of price as it is of being able to get supplies at any price. Some idea of the extent to which fruit canning has been carried on and the consequent increase in the demand for sugars may be gained from the fact that one house in this city has sold during the past season seventeen cars of fruit jars. These fruit jars have gone largely into Nebraska, some few into Iowa and a smaller number into the states west.

Some interesting information bearing upon the future of the canned goods market is coming to hand from time to time. Eastern packers appear to be greatly worried over the outlook for peaches. The receipts of fresh peaches have been very light so far this season and prices have been unusually high, when they expected lower prices than last season. Some of the large Baltimore packers have not put up any peaches at all this season, while others report a very light pack up to present date.

It is said that the prices quoted at the fastories for new Lima beans are the lowest on record. So far as can be learned there is no apparent reason for the prevailing low prices aside from the competition among the heavy packers.

Reports from all sources agree that the eastern pack of tomatoes will be considerably below the average, and according to some the lightest in several years. It would appear that the poor results of the 1894 season were discouraging to a good many and that in consequence the tomato crop in a good many localities was greatly reduced.

DRY GOODS MEN ACTIVE.

DRY GOODS MEN ACTIVE. The past week has witnessed a very satisfactory movement of goods in the dry goods line and local dealers report that they have had about all they could do to take care of the orders that have been coming to hand from all parts of the territory tributary to the orders that have been coming to hand from all parts of the territory tributary to this market. The previous week was rather quiet, but during the last six days there has been trade enough to make up for it and more too. Besides having a good trade last week jobbers are looking for a continuance of the same volume of business for the six days to come. It is expected that the attendance upon the fair of dry goods men will be very large and that not a few of the number have put off ordering goods to that they could make a selection while in the city.

As to the market the tendency of staple cottons is still upward and the past week witnessed still further advances in brown, bleached and colored goods. While there are to be found some who still doubt the legitimacy of the strength developed in this direction, there is no indication of any speculative business, but on the contrary all advances are gradual and are followed cautiously, no efforts being put forth to boom prices.

Outside of cottons the market has been of a rather uneventful character during the week.

BOOT AND SHOE MEN.

week.

BOOT AND SHOE MEN.

The dealers are still talking about the possibility of still further advances in their line of goods in the future, when the present stock of medium priced leather is exhausted.

Local jobbers report a good movement of goods for the season and the trade appears to be in a fairly healthy condition.

SHELF HARDWARE.

SHELIF HARDWARE.

Shelf hardware has shown some few advances during the wek, but nothing of any very great importance. The high price at which steel is held has compelled a general stiffening in prices all along the line so that almost every day an advance in this or that miner line is noted.

The volume of trade during the six days under review has been of a satisfactory character. There is no great rush nor is anything of the kind anticipated, but jobers as a rule are looking for a good, steady fall business.

CAMPHOR ADVANCES.

The most interesting feature that has developed of late in the drug business is the sharp advance in camphor. Refined camphor is commanding almost fabulous prices at the present time. Within a few weeks an advance of 7 to 10 cents a pound has taken place.

phor is commanding almost fabulous prices at the present time. Within a few weeks an advance of 7 to 10 cents a pound has taken place.

This remarkable advance is due to the operations of an English syndicate that has had control of the entire supply of crude camphor for some time past, keeping refiners the world over at its mercy and making the experience of opposing speculating as most unenviable one. In other words, the syndicate have tightened the screws periodically, as other operators might venture to sell "short" on the supposition that the deal was about at an end. The ophion obtains that the "short" interest in London is greater now than it has been at any previous time this year, and that the syndicate, while perhaps but more considerate than other speculative cliques as to who may suffer, is mostly interested in vanquishing their opponents. For several days the syndicate has refused to quote any price in Lordon, thus indirectly notifying the "shorts" to step up to the captain's office and settle or take the risks of receiving greater punishment later on.

The consumption of camphor has steadily decreased. In the face of that fact the stocks of refiners have steadily diminished, while jobbers have lately been carrying less than customarry supplies because of the extremely high cost and the causes leading thereto. As a result the available supply in this country is much below the quantity up ally on hand. To what allitude prices of intents and the causes leading thereto. As a result the available supply in this country is much below the quantity up ally on hand. To what allitude prices of the fact the strength of the captain of the forced is extremely stolleration.

TIMELY TRADE TOPICS.

Facts Bearing on Business Gathered from Far and Near. The drouth in Australasia is really quite serious. As high as 150,000 sheep have already been lost by the owners, and there are many more cases of smaller loss. The trouble is not lack of stock water, for in the main that is supplied by artesian wells.

The drouth has simply dried up all the feed. It is calculated that New South Wales may expect disastrous drouths about once in six or seven years.

The recent furore for building cotton The recent furore for building cotton mills in the south appears to have subsided, as in the last two months the prospected construction of new organizations of any importance have been very few. Capitalists and others seeking investments have realized that the time is past for the construction of factories with 10,000 spindles or less, as under the most economical management they are as longer able to cope with the mills that have 20,000 to 20,000 spindles and upward. The small plants require a fixed expense account that is of a much greater percentage upon the output of the spindles and looms as compared with the same charges by the larger mills, and as the latter have acquired a reputation for while costing considerably less.

CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE their fabrics they can market them at relatively better prices than the smaller mills, while costing considerably less.

The Astoria Herald says: There resides in the city of Asjoria a sharp, shrewd canneryman. He is onto all the tricks of the trade and is constantly scheming to make all the money he can. He put up a job a short time ago, however, that didn't pan out very well. In packing his salmon, so it is reported, he made the cans one ounce short in weight. By so doing he was saving forty-eight ounces or three pounds on a case. If he packed 20,000 cases, which he probably would, it would have amounted to 20,000 cans or 2,042 cases. It doesn't seem very much until one goes to figure it out. It was a sharp trick, but it didn't work. The eastern commission merchant got onto the racket and notified the festive Astoria canneryman that he was short, which he had to make good.
