No Indication that it Will Be Taken Up Out of Its Regular Order-State University Term Begins.

LINCOLN, Sept. 16 .- (Special.)-When the supreme court convenes tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the three justices and the commissioners will be seated in six handsome new quarter-sawed oak chairs costing $30 spiece. They will be ranged behind a new, high oak bench, quarter-sawed also, and with handsome grain, costing not less than $250. The clerk of the supreme court, D. A. Campbell, will preside at a polished oak desk at the right of the full bench. All of this artistic new furniture has been mounted upon a new platform, raised about six inches from the main floor of the court room. The new chairs were made to order, and are provided with ball bearings which obviates any annoving squeak which might grate harshly on

STATE UNIVERSITY OPENS. The State university opened today for the fall term. The abandonment of the preparatory department has given more room to the others, and the registration in the collegiate department already shows signs of increase. The attendance grows larger despite hard times. Chancellor MacLean exes himself as confide t that this year will see the number greater than ever. More opportunity for thorough work in each depart-ment is promised by the executive division of the faculty. All of the professors are back from their summer outings, refreshed and invigorated.

It was agreed today to cut down the warrant in favor of the builders of the O street viaduct in order to permit of the payment of other amounts of judgments against the city The appropriation to pay these judgments is not sufficient to go around. To this the viaduct contractors agreed. They will wait until the next levy for about $4,000 of their claim

NORTH BEND, Neb. Sept. 16 - (Special Telegram.)-The long and bitter feud between Sam Waldron and Tom Cronland was ended at 2 p. m. today by Cronland killing Waldron. The two men were perfect giants in strength. For the past year Waldron has been looking for an opportunity to kill Cronland on account of some wrong Waldron thought Cron land had done his (Waldron's) wife, and both have been carrying revolvers. The shooting occurred in a room near the Bank of North Bend, which was being refitted, and Waldron was helping to do the work, when Cronland happened to pass by with Marshall Newsome. Waldron threw a chisel at Cronland, striking him in the back and then threw a hammer at him, but missed him.
