varied industries. The credit for this elaborate display i largely due to Secretary O. C. Holmes of the association, who has labored for two months past to bring about the interest of members past to bring about the interest of members and assist them to make a display which would be creditable to themselves and to the organization. Mr. Holmes assigned the space in the building and visited every mem-ber who was exp cted to make an exhibit. He showed them designs which had been used successfully in other states and induced them to take an added interest in the under-

OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The exhibits which fill the buildings are conclusive evidence that the manufacturers of Nebraska are all right. They have had hard row to hoe during the past two years, but they have fought their way through with truly western grit and enterprise, and have come out on the upper side. As this display is pre-eminently representative of the Manu-facturers' and Consumers' association it is of interest to note that the association wa organized in 1891 for the dual purpose of promoting manufacturing in Nebraska and arousing a sentiment throughout the state in favor of the patronage and maintainment of home industries. How far this has been successful in the face of hard times and many obstacles, a trip through the building at the state fair grounds is the best evidence. The The esent officers of the association are: Presi 6 st. J. C. Harpham; vice president, C. B. Dempster; treasurer, L. M. Rheem; screary, O. C. Holmes; directors, M. C. Peters, D. Among the exhibits there are many in which may be seen the practical operation of the machinery, and at least the partial pro-cess of manufacture of the product. These are generally new to the visitors and the adjacent passages are continually packed by a throng of interested observers. Among the most interesting of these displays is that of the Lincoln Pottery works, which has a large space near the east entrance. They have a large display of their manufactured goods, but what ontohes the aves of the visitors is but what catches the eyes of the visit the Clevinger, third.
